A Smiling Trio Of Candidates

Morris Tears Into Governor Anderson

Ex-Reformatory Chief, Sorrell, Vic Speak At Get-Out-The-Vote Dinner

By ROY CAMPBELL

Star Staff Writer

The heaviest and most bitter campaign attack against Gov. Victor Anderson so far was proffered before 135 people Tuesday night by George Morris, fired Reformatory superintendent.

The occasion was a Get-Out-The-Vote dinner sponsored by the Junior Chamber of Commerce.

'Privileged Class'

Morris hit out at Anderson's "businessman government" and "too many high appointed officials who feel they belong to a privileged class." He said the governor is using his office to "set up a political dynasty" and that Anderson has a basic "disregard" of state laws.

Anderson, the first speaker, based his talk on the past two years of state government under his administration. This was broken down into five parts: Highway Department, education, mental health, budget or cost of government, and industrial development.

Sorrell countered Anderson's claim that spending in state government, reaching an all-time high, was justified. A Syracuse land auctioneer, Sorrell said Nebraska is not getting its share of new industry, that real estate taxes are too high, and that the present state administration "has supported lower prices for farm products."

Aims at Vic

Morris centered his personal attack against Anderson and said the governor has had "the most expensive administration this state has ever had."

He blamed the governor for the Penitentiary riot and fire, following the holding hostage of two guards by eight inmates, and the governor's "appeasement policy." He said Anderson consolidated the purchasing departments of the Board of Control and State which was "against the law."

The governor was not telling the truth, Morris said, when he said he paid "over $100 in cash" more than the cost of using a state plane to fly to the Republican National Convention. The $15 an hour rate the governor said he was paying for a single engine Beecraft, Morris said.

Actually $45 Per Hour

The former Reformatory Superintendent said the plane actually used was a twin-engine Cessna which he said costs $45 an hour plus the cost of the pilot.

Morris hit at the Board of Control and its chairman, Thomas Dreda of Crete, saying the chairman is "carrying on a private business in office when the law forbids it." Morris also disclaimed Anderson's progress report on mental health work during the governor's administration.

Morris said "Vic is not responsible for it... it was set up by Bill Diers and Mary Prince." Both are former members of the Board. "Anderson also spoke of roads," Morris said. He said there are a lot of areas in the state that need roads. "Besides," he added, the roads "are the responsibility of the Roads and Irrigation Department. Again, Mr. Anderson is no more an engineer than he is a penologist."

Hits Game Commission

Morris criticized the State Game Commission and its executive secretary, Melvin Steen, for dropping a charge of shooting from the road against a game commissioner and for reappointing Don Robertson, North Platte game commissioner, "when the law says he can't succeed himself."

Gov. Anderson justified the increased state budget of 1955-56 of $27,185,430 by noting, with a chart, the advances made by the money spent. The greatest portion of $8,050,000 went for road construction which, matched with federal funds, amounted to $18,430,000.

Of the road program, the governor said that during the past two years, the state has built more hard surfaced roads than at any

Lincoln Talk Set By Estes

Dinner To Climax Day-Long Stump On Oct. 12

The Democratic party's vice presidential candidate Estes Kefauver will make four appearances in Nebraska Oct. 12, including a dinner in Lincoln.

The Lincoln dinner will be at 6:30 p.m. Tickets for the fund-raising affair will be $5 and can be obtained at County Democratic headquarters, 1220 M.

The Tennessee senator will start the day's Nebraska campaigning with a luncheon at the Wayside Country Club at Columbus Friday noon, Oct. 12, sponsored by the Plateau County Democratic organization. Tickets for the fund-raising event will be $2.00.

From the luncheon Kefauver will go to the National Mechanical Complicating contest, which will be held near Columbus, to make a major political address to an estimated 70,000 persons. His speech is scheduled at 2:45 p.m.

Next stop on the busy schedule is a short rally at the Fremont City Park at 5 p.m.

From Fremont Senator Kefauver will travel to Lincoln. State Demo Chairman Willard Townsend of Lincoln, is urging all Lincoln people to attend the dinner here rather than going to Columbus. He said they would have a better opportunity to meet Kefauver here than at Columbus.

The Democratic vice presidential candidate will have 15 of his own people and 20 newsmen on the trip. Present plans call for his spending the night in Lincoln and heading west from here Saturday morning Oct. 13.

Long Dry Spell Shows No Signs Of Letting Up

Fair and warmer — the usual forecast — with little relief in sight for the dry Nebraska soil. Cooler air was expected to move through Nebraska Wednesday night and Thursday, but cooling was to be minor.

In the weekly crop report, it was indicated that moisture was badly needed in many wheat fields in Nebraska except on followed land and in the central and eastern portions of the state where seeding was progressing slowly. Grasshoppers were causing some damage to new wheat in the Plains area, according to the report.

The Lincoln area remains dry with no precipitation reported since Sept. 8, when .01 of an inch of rain fell. The total rainfall a September and through Oct. 2 was 3.59 inches, of which 3.58 inches fell Sept. 4.

Temperatures were to range from 75 to 92 Wednesday after Tuesday's highs of 85 at Chadron and 84 at Imperial and Scottsbluff. Lincoln had a high reading Tuesday of 82.

Adlai Accuses Ike Of No-Action Job

Demo Charges President With 4 Years 'Talk'

Presidential Race Turns Big Corner As Stevenson Takes Gloves Off For N.J. Party Faithful

JERSEY CITY, N. J. (AP) — Adlai E. Stevenson Tuesday night accused President Eisenhower of four years of "words without action whenever human interests are at stake."

Stevenson, speaking to an enthusiastic overflow crowd of an estimated 3,000 party faithful in this traditional Democratic stronghold, climaxed a day of campaigning which saw the presidential race turn a big corner.

Before his talk here, he was accorded the day's biggest reception as his 15-car motorcade moved through streets lined with an estimated 30,000 of the party faithful. Aerial rockets were fired off, children ran around with bright red flares, and a band joined the festivities.

Eisenhower's "wicked nonsense" crack at the Democrats brought Stevenson out, gloves off and catch as catch can. To be called nonsense was one thing, Stevenson said, but to be labeled wicked was another.

At a rally on the historic green of Morristown, N.J., Stevenson said:

"I am afraid that this is becoming part of the political looseness, that previously was identified with the vice-presidential candidate (Richard Nixon) who always talks about the opponents in terms of 'appeasement' and 'communism' and 'treachery' and words like that. I do hope the vice-presidential taste for extreme and loose language is not becoming contagious."

Aides said Stevenson's strategy has been to "get Eisenhower off his pedestal" so their man can slug toe-to-toe with him on the issues. Eisenhower gave them the chance Monday at Cleveland when he said Democratic claims that only Democrats care for the working man were "wicked nonsense."

TV Time

It was disclosed meanwhile that Stevenson has bought 15 minutes of nationwide television time on the CBS network to answer Eisenhower's Cleveland address. Stevenson will speak on TV Wednesday from Johnstown, Pa.

In his Jersey City talk, Stevenson said Eisenhower and his administration gave the people nothing but "words—empty words" instead of action on foreign policy, slum clearance, schools and immigration.

"Why are there words without action wherever human interests are at stake?" Stevenson demanded, and then replied:

"The historic function of the Republican party is to represent the economic and social philosophy of the well-to-do and the privileged, of the big corporations, the big interests... This administration has performed that function well... The Republican party is not a fit instrument to govern a nation that wants to make progress for the benefit of the ordinary people..."

With Election Day exactly five weeks away, Stevenson swung into New Jersey on a plane-train-auto tour of the highly populous and industrial East.

He flew from Washington to touch at points in six New Jersey counties where vote hurt him the most in 1952 in losing the state's 16 Electoral College votes to Eisenhower.

He landed at Newark, where he was met by New Jersey's Democratic Gov. Robert B. Meyner.

Stevenson got one of his most enthusiastic receptions at Fairleigh Dickinson University's Teaneck campus where an estimated 1,500 students and townspeople gave him a two-minute ovation as he was introduced by Gov. Meyner.

Stevenson called again for a halt to nuclear bomb tests and a policy of forceful executive leadership in the search for the abolition of war.

Stevenson goes by rail Wednesday 715 miles across Pennsylvania and West Virginia to Elkins, W. Va. On Thursday he returns east to New York, Connecticut and Massachusetts for three days. Next week he heads west to Washington and California.

Ike Drive To Include N.Y. Visit

HST Says Step Up Means He's 'Scared'

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower let it be known Tuesday he will make a campaign appearance in New York City late this month. It is expected he will use the occasion to make a major speech.

Presidential press secretary James C. Hagerty made the bare announcement of the planned appearance, without giving any details. However, it was apparent that one reason for going to New York would be to help the Senate race of Republican Jacob K. Javits, against Democrat Robert Wagner, mayor of New York.

It was never nailed down in a Hagerty news conference that Eisenhower would make a formal speech, but there appeared little doubt Tuesday night that he would.

2 Or 3 More

Eisenhower said last Thursday that his new campaign plans called for "making two or three more talks than I had first contemplated." At the same time he said he "still was not doing one thing the things some people wanted him to."

The announcement of the New York date—the newest expansion of Eisenhower's campaign plans—followed a 45-minute talk between Eisenhower and Javits.

In connection with the campaign expansion, former President Harry Truman said in New York Tuesday that Eisenhower was stepping up his "campaign because 'he's scared.'"

Afterward, Hagerty told reporters that he relayed the word that the President "wants and needs Jack Javits in the United States Senate. He sincerely hopes that the people of the State of New York will send him to Washington."

Attorney General Javits, a native and resident of New York City, is now the state attorney general. He was the only Republican elected to statewide office in the 1954 elections, defeating Franklin D. Roosevelt Jr. for attorney general.

Talking to reporters in Hagerty's office, Javits said of his meeting with Eisenhower Tuesday:

"I told the President that I was deeply dedicated to the philosophy of government and the moderate Republicanism he represents; that as between all men of independent mind, there might be occasional issues on which we would differ. The President certainly doesn't go for the 'yes' men."

"But in the fundamental things in which he believes, I am dedicated to them and will fight for them."

Javits said he hoped that while on this visit to New York, Eisenhower would make some important policy pronouncement on some major campaign issue. He listed three issues he said were outstanding: Peace, prosperity and "the dignity of man, otherwise known as civil rights."

Eisenhower will fly up to New York Wednesday for the opening game of the baseball World Series between the New York Yankees and the Brooklyn Dodgers in Brooklyn. Hagerty said he assumed that the President would throw out the first ball.

9th, T to P, no parking east side any time.

10th, J to N, no parking west side 7 a.m. to 9 a.m.

Police Capt. Willis Manchester has also asked that no cars be parked on the east side of 9th, P to J, on this coming Saturday night. The Police Department, he said, will be working in that area Saturday night to re-paint parking stalls.

Bond Contract Said Utility Board Block

Pace Says Plan Would Be Illegal Under Terms Of Sale Ordinance

The legality of transferring Lincoln utilities to an independent board is presently blocked by an "insurmountable obstacle," City Attorney Jack Pace told the Charter Revision Committee Tuesday evening.

Suggested and strongly urged by former Mayor Clark Jeary, the proposed utilities board, according to Pace, would be impossible to operate legally under the terms of the water revenue bond sale ordinance, adopted in 1953.

Pace cited two sections of the ordinance providing for the issuance of bonds, which state that:

"... the entire water works system... shall be operated on a fiscal year basis as provided by the Charter..." and that "... the City hereby covenants and agrees not to sell, lease, loan, mortgage or in any other manner dispose of said water works system..."

In view of these sections, Pace said, the utilities board proposal "... would be in direct contravention of the ordinance under which these bonds were sold and therefore constitute an unconstitutional impairment of an existing contract."

Committee Meeting

Pace was one of four city officials to appear before the Charter Revision Committee to advise the group of any charter changes which they thought should be made. Others who spoke during the evening were Dave Erickson, Director of Public Works, Theo Berg, Director of Finance, and Emmett Junge, Director of Public Safety.

With but slight modifications, the entire group appeared to want the present system of city government in Lincoln retained.

Berg said that he had worked with three types of local governments in Lincoln—the mayor-council, the commission and the present form—and said that he could find many advantages which the present system had over its predecessors.

Mayor Form Hit

The mayor-council form, he said, became nothing more than a "confused mess" and the commission system soon became an unhealthy spoils system. Our present system, he continued, which operates with six council members, two of whom are elected every two years, gives the local government both flexibility and continuity.

He termed the present system a "direct action" form of government, and asked, "If it reflects the will of the people, and if it gets things done, isn't it a good enough system?"

Citing the many burdens of the City Council, Erickson said in reference to the utility board proposal, that he favored "... the establishment of some kind of board

Bevan's Power Boosted

U.S. Critic Hints Prime Minister Job Eyed

By TOM OCHILTREE

BLACKPOOL, England (AP)—Britain's Labor party Tuesday elected Aneurin Bevan, a fiery critic of U.S. foreign policy, to a challenging position.

Delegates to the annual conference elected the 58-year-old former Welsh coal miner to the party's third ranking job of treasurer behind two moderates—Leader Hugh Gaitskell and his deputy, Jim Griffiths.

Flushed with victory, Bevan gave the impression that he has set his sights on becoming prime minister.

Asked at a news conference whether there was a possibility he would challenge Gaitskell for the party leadership when the Labor members of Parliament meet next month, Bevan replied:

"One never rules out any possibility about the future."

The next British general election ordinarily would come in 1960 in the event the Eden Conservative government runs out its full term.

Snap Election

But under the British system, there's always a chance for a snap election before then—either through the overthrow of the government by losing a major issue in Parliament or the government simply resigning and going to the electorate for a vote of confidence.

A Labor victory in the next election would automatically make the party leader the prime minister.

This was the significance behind the victory of Bevan in winning the post of party treasurer by 5,029 votes to 2,755,000 for moderate George Brown, a former works minister.

The delegates cast ballots representing the total membership of their organizations, thus accounting for the large number of votes.

Comeback

For Bevan it marked a comeback after three years in the political wilderness.

In his new post, Bevan again becomes a member of his party's powerful policy-making National Executive Committee. His victory underscored the shift to the left of the Labor movement away from the middle-of-the-road policies of Earl Attlee, a former prime minister.

Bevan told newsmen: "This conference has displayed a substantial degree of unity and a radical temper. The movement is gathering strength again."

Morris Tears Into Governor Anderson

Ex-Reformatory Chief, Sorrell, Vic Speak At Get-Out-The-Vote Dinner

By ROY CAMPBELL
Star Staff Writer

The heaviest and most bitter campaign attack against Gov. Victor Anderson so far was proffered before 135 people Tuesday night by George Morris, fired Reformatory superintendent.

The occasion was a Get-Out-The-Vote dinner sponsored by the Junior Chamber of Commerce.

'Privileged Class'

Morris hit out at Anderson's "businessman government" and "too many high appointed officials who feel they belong to a privileged class." He said the governor is using his office to "set up a political dynasty" and that Anderson has a basic "disregard" of state laws.

Anderson, the first speaker, based his talk on the past two years of state government under his administration. This was broken down into five parts: Highway Department, education, mental health, budget or cost of government, and industrial development.

Sorrell countered Anderson's claim that spending in state government, reaching an all-time high, was justified. A Syracuse land auctioneer, Sorrell said Nebraska is not getting its share of new industry, that real estate taxes are too high, and that the present state administration "has supported lower prices for farm products."

Aims at Vic

Morris centered his personal attack against Anderson and said the governor has had "the most expensive administration this state has ever had."

He blamed the governor for the Penitentiary riot and fire, following the holding hostage of two guards by eight inmates, and the governor's "appeasement policy." He said Anderson consolidated the purchasing departments of the Board of Control and State which was "against the law."

The governor was not telling the truth, Morris said, when he said he paid "over $100 in cash" more than the cost of using a state plane to fly to the Republican National Convention. The $15 an hour rate the governor said he was paying was for a single engine Beachcraft, Morris said.

Actually $45 Per Hour

The former Reformatory Superintendent said the plane actually used was a twin-engine Cessna which he said costs $45 an hour plus the cost of the pilot.

Morris hit at the Board of Control and its chairman, Thomas Dreda of Crete, saying the chairman is "carrying on a private business in office when the law forbids it." Morris also disclaimed Anderson's progress report on mental health work during the governor's administration.

Morris said "Vic is not responsible for it... it was set up by Bill Diers and Mary Prince." Both are former members of the Board. "Anderson also spoke of roads," Morris said. He said there are a lot of areas in the state that need roads. "Besides," he added, the roads "are the responsibility of the Roads and Irrigation Department. Again, Mr. Anderson is no more an engineer than he is a penologist."

Hits Game Commission

Morris criticized the State Game Commission and its executive secretary, Melvin Steen, for dropping a charge of shooting from the road against a game commissioner and for reappointing Don Robertson, North Platte commissioner, "when the law says he can't succeed himself."

Gov. Anderson justified "the increased state budget of 1955-56 of $27,185,430 by noting, with a chart, the advances made by the money spent. The greatest portion of $8,050,000 went for road construction which, matched with federal funds, amounted to $18,430,000.

Of the road program, the governor said that during the past two years, the state has built more hard surfaced roads than at any similar period in Nebraska history. At all times during his talk, the governor refrained from personal references.

Praised Advances

Anderson praised the advances made in the state mental health program, stating Nebraska "is outstanding in the nation" in this division. Part of the increased budget, he said, went toward the Psychiatric Unit in Omaha for the training of psychiatric doctors and nurses.

The state has saved money by helping patients return to normal lives, the governor noted, adding "this is the first time in many years we have had empty beds in our mental hospitals."

On state taxes, the governor said a property tax savings of $1 million was effected by reducing the state tax levy.

Sorrell told the Jaycee dinner group he thought the major issue of the campaign was to put loyalty to the state above party loyalty.

Sign No Bills

On his own, Sorrell said, he pledges he will sign no bill which increases real and personal property taxes in Nebraska. Additional revenue, he said, could come from a tax on pari-mutuel betting.

He called for new industry in Nebraska and the use of synthetic products using the materials of the farm. He said "we need new emphasis on chemistry and industrial grain alcohol plants."

Additionally, Nebraska needs fuller utilization of her power, water and other resources, Sorrell said. He also criticized "one Republican attorney general of this state" who "received a salary from special interests" to lobby through Congress a bill to "divest Nebraska people of their interest in off-shore oil."

In his platform stand on state issues, Morris called for a broader tax basis, using both a sales and state income taxes, and said the problem of education was foremost among people in the state.

Morris said the Board of Control system should be changed, that a new program for assistance to the aged is needed, and that a state probation system should be instituted.

Dead Girl Is Found In Sand

...Apparently Strangled

NEW CHICAGO, Ind. (INS) — Construction workers found the body of a 16-year-old girl Tuesday — half-nude and apparently the victim of a strangler.

The victim was Lana Brock of New Chicago. Her mother and stepfather, Mr. and Mrs. Charles O'Rourke, said the girl disappeared four days ago. They said she was last seen about 3 p.m. when she left her home to pay a utility bill.

Deputy Sheriff Emil Uramovich said the girl was buried about three feet under the surface of a stretch of sand, bordering a wooded area at the edge of town. The two workers who discovered the body were digging in the sand.

As tests were made to determine whether she had been sexually molested, deputy sheriffs said what appeared to be finger marks were discovered on her neck and also a wound on the left side of the face. Her legs were bruised, and her upper garments had been pulled down to her waist.

Her mother told police the area in which the body was found was one her daughter used as a short cut between her home and the New Chicago High School.

However, it was apparent that one reason for going to New York would be to help the Senate race of Republican Jacob K. Javits, against Democrat Robert Wagner, mayor of New York.

It was never nailed down in a Hagerty news conference that Eisenhower would make a formal speech, but there appeared little doubt Tuesday night that he would.

2 Or 3 More

Eisenhower said last Thursday that his new campaign plans called for "making two or three more talks than I had first contemplated." At the same time he said he still was not doing one-tenth the things some people wanted him to.

The announcement of the New York date—the newest expansion of Eisenhower's campaign plans—followed a 45-minute talk between Eisenhower and Javits.

In connection with the campaign expansion, former President Harry Truman said in New York Tuesday that Eisenhower was stepping up his campaign because "he's scared."

Afterward, Hagerty told reporters that Eisenhower had asked him to relay the word that the President "wants and needs Jack Javits in the United States Senate. He sincerely hopes that the people of the State of New York will send him to Washington."

Attorney General

Javits, a native and resident of New York City, is now the state attorney general. He was the only Republican elected to statewide office in the 1954 elections, defeating Franklin D. Roosevelt Jr. for attorney general.

Talking to reporters in Hagerty's office, Javits said of his meeting with Eisenhower Tuesday:

"I told the President that I was deeply dedicated to the philosophy of government and the moderate Republicanism he represents; that as between all men of independent mind, there might be occasional issues on which we would differ. The President certainly doesn't go for the 'yes' men."

"But in the fundamental things in which he believes, I am dedicated to them and will fight for them."

Javits said he hoped that while on this visit to New York, Eisenhower would make some important policy pronouncement on some major campaign issue. He listed three issues he said were outstanding: Peace, prosperity and "the dignity of man, otherwise known as civil rights."

Eisenhower will fly up to New York Wednesday for the opening game of the baseball World Series between the New York Yankees and the Brooklyn Dodgers in Brooklyn. Hagerty said he assumed that the President would throw out the first ball.

One-Way Signs Readied For Sunday

Otto Moeller of 121 So. 30th, an employee of the Lincoln Police Department, is getting the one-way street signs ready for "unveiling" on Sunday morning when 9th and 10th from Peach to T will be placed in operation as a one-way pair. (Star Photo)

9th, 10th Streets To Begin One-Way Operation Sunday

Ninth and 10th from Peach to T will be placed in operation as a one-way pair this coming Sunday morning.

Tenth will be one-way north-bound and 9th one-way south-bound. The south terminal point, Peach, will be one-way east bound with T one-way westbound.

Parking regulations where changes are to be made will be as follows:

9th, H to Peach, no parking either side any time.
9th, Peach to South, no parking west side any time.

Peach, 9th to 10th, no parking either side any time.
T, 9th to 10th, no parking either side any time.

9th, T to P, no parking east side any time.
10th, J to N, no parking west side 7 a.m. to 9 a.m.

Police Capt. Willis Manchester has also asked that no cars be parked on the east side of 9th, P to J, on this coming Saturday night. The Police Department, he said, will be working in that area Saturday night to re-paint parking stalls.

Bond Contract Said Utility Board Block

Pace Says Plan Would Be Illegal Under Terms Of Sale Ordinance

The legality of transferring Lincoln utilities to an independent board is presently blocked by an "insurmountable obstacle," City Attorney Jack Pace told the Charter Revision Committee Tuesday evening.

Suggested and strongly urged by former Mayor Clark Jeary, the proposed utilities board, according to Pace, would be impossible to operate legally under the terms of the water revenue bond sale ordinance, adopted in 1953.

Pace cited two sections of the ordinance providing for the issuance of bonds, which state that "... the entire water works system ... shall be operated on a fiscal year basis as provided by the Charter ..." and that "... the City hereby covenants and agrees not to sell, lease, loan, mortgage or in any other manner dispose of said water works system ..."

In view of these sections, Pace said, the utilities board proposal "... would be in direct contravention of the ordinance under which these bonds were sold and therefore constitute an unconstitutional impairment of an existing contract."

Committee Meeting

Pace was one of four city officials to appear before the Charter Revision Committee to advise the group of any charter changes which they thought should be made. Others who spoke during the evening were Dave Erickson, Director of Public Works, Theo Berg, Director of Finance, and Emmett Jung, Director of Public Safety.

With but slight modifications, the entire group appeared to want the present system of city government in Lincoln retained.

Berg said that he had worked with three types of local governments in Lincoln—the mayor-council, the commission and the present form—and said that he could find many advantages which the present system had over its predecessors.

Mayor Form Hit

The mayor-council form, he said, became nothing more than a "confused mess" and the commission system soon became an unhealthy spoils system. Our present system, he continued, which operates with six council members, two of whom are elected every two years, gives the local government both flexibility and continuity.

He termed the present system a "direct action" form of government, and asked, "If it reflects the will of the people, and if it gets things done, isn't it a good enough system?"

Citing the many burdens of the City Council, Erickson said in reference to the utility board proposal, that he favored "... the establishment of some kind of board at Seaton's request."

Bevan's Power Boosted

U.S. Critic Hints Prime Minister Job Eyed

By TOM OCHILTREE

BLACKPOOL, England (AP)—Britain's Labor party Tuesday elevated Aneurin Bevan, a fiery critic of U.S. foreign policy, to a challenging position.

Delegates to the annual conference elected the 58-year-old former Welsh coal miner to the party's third ranking job of treasurer behind two moderates—Leader Hugh Gaitskell and his deputy, Jim Griffiths.

Flushed with victory, Bevan gave the impression that he has set his sights on becoming prime minister.

Asked at a news conference whether there was a possibility he would challenge Gaitskell for the party leadership when the Labor members of Parliament meet next month, Bevan replied:

"One never rules out any possibility about the future."

The next British general election ordinarily would come in 1960 in the event the Eden Conservative government runs out its full term.

Snap Election

But under the British system, there's always a chance for a snap election before then—either through the overthrow of the government by losing a major issue in Parliament or the government simply resigning and going to the electorate for a vote of confidence.

A Labor victory in the next election would automatically make the party leader the prime minister.

This was the significance behind the victory of Bevan in winning the post of party treasurer by 3,029,000 votes to 2,755,000 for moderate George Brown, a former works minister.

The delegates cast ballots representing the total membership of their organizations, thus accounting for the large number of votes.

Comeback

For Bevan it marked a comeback after three years in the political wilderness. In his new post, Bevan again becomes a member of his party's powerful policy-making National Executive Committee. His victory underscored the shift to the left of the Labor movement away from the middle-of-the-road policies of Earl Attlee, a former prime minister.

Bevan told newsmen: "This conference has displayed a substantial degree of unity and a radical temper. The movement is gathering strength again."

Dulles Revises Suez Remarks

CHANGES 'IS' TO 'HAS BEEN' DIFFERENCE

... In Big Three View

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State Dulles said Tuesday there "is some difference" with Britain and France on the Suez Canal dispute—but two hours later he rewrote his news conference record to strike this out.

In reply to a newsmen, Dulles said the differences stemmed from an American desire to play "a somewhat independent role" in dealing with anticolonial nations.

Later, after editing his news conference transcript, he authorized a spokesman to report he meant to say "there has been some difference."

Press officer Lincoln White, who told reporters of the changed answers, declined to say whether the "differences" which Dulles first spoke about had been somehow resolved in the intervening two hours.

Fear Of Offending

It seemed more likely that Dulles changed his remarks for fear of offending British and French foreign ministers with whom he plans to meet in New York Friday.

However, in his revised answer, Dulles acknowledged that the American view toward the problem of colonialism in Asia and Africa is "not always identical" with that of Britain and France.

Dulles said that the 18-nation Suez plan, which seeks to band together the main canal users, has emerged with "no detectable change" over what he initially proposed.

Answering queries on other foreign policy developments, Dulles also:

- 1. Appealed to Europe to unite as "a third great power" in the world but said it was "unthinkable" that it should be neutral toward Soviet communism.
 - 2. Reported he has "no reason to doubt" that Yugoslavia's Marshal Tito is sticking to his long-standing desire for independence from Russian control, despite his secret conferences with Soviet leaders.
 - 3. Again staunchly defended the Eisenhower administration's diplomatic dealings with ex-Argentine dictator Juan Peron.
 - 4. Supported Israel's demand to be heard before the United Nations to voice its long-standing complaint against Egypt for barring Israeli shipping from the Suez Canal. Dulles stressed, however, that Israel's role should be handled "with some care" lest it open the doors of debate to every nation.
- Dulles reported he plans to handle personally the American side of the case when the United Nations Security Council begins considering the two-month old Suez Canal dispute Friday.

A Greenwood man, the Nebraska Fairgrounds, a bulldozer and a long-standing friendship have helped an Iowa's long-lost fraternity pin find its way home.

Merle Loder of Davenport, Ia., and formerly of Lincoln, lost his Pi Kappa Alpha fraternity pin 25 years ago while attending the Nebraska State Fair.

Elmer Mathis of Greenwood scraped up the pin while operating a bulldozer near the 4-H building at the Fairgrounds last week.

He cleaned the pin when he reached home, read the name engraved on it and immediately knew what to do with it.

He gave it to Mrs. Ralph Beale of Lincoln, who is the pin owner's sister.

Mathis it seems, has known the Loder family for years.

'Golf Tee,' Used To Plug Tunnel In Heart, Saves Life Of Man

By FRANK CAREY
WASHINGTON (AP) — A new and ingenious "golf tee" operation inside the human heart has saved a life, surgeons at the National Heart Institute disclosed Tuesday.

Norman Hickey, 28, of Richland, Wash., faced with certain death before the operation, is the first man to undergo the surgery.

The daring operation involved using a spongy plastic plug — shaped like a golf tee but bigger — to close up a small tunnel Hickey had developed between the base of his aorta, the big blood pipeline from the heart, and one of the heart's main chambers.

With one hand inside the heart chamber — which had been cut open — and the other placed through another incision in the aorta, a surgeon guided the plug into place.

This halted a leakage of blood back into the heart from the aorta.

USDA Plans To Buy Lard To Aid Hog Price Support

... As Benson Announces Tour

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Agriculture Benson Tuesday announced a new federal program to bolster hog prices and he hit back at a Democratic charge that the Republicans are indifferent to drought problems in Texas.

Benson told a news conference that the Agriculture Department will begin a lard buying program next week to help prevent any slip in the price of hogs, a politically important item in many Midwest farm sections.

Nevins Case Again Listed As 'Unsolved'

OMAHA (AP) — The Omaha Police Department Tuesday put the Carolyn Nevins murder back in their "unsolved file" after sending a telegram to Long Beach, Calif., saying: "Gerald Allen English not wanted this department."

English, 31, formerly of Omaha, had been held since Sunday at Long Beach for investigation. He had walked into the police station and said he thought he killed Miss Nevins, a 20-year-old University of Omaha co-ed who was shot to death last December.

Within a few hours after English gave his statement, Omaha police said they found some discrepancies in his story. Then he repudiated the statement, saying, "I must have been drunk when I said it."

Detective Alvin Clinchard, coordinator of the Nevins investigation, said Tuesday "Our files disproving his story would be his best defense."

Long Beach police released English Tuesday.

Miss Nevins body was found on the University of Omaha campus early the morning of Dec. 10. She had been shot four times with a .32 caliber revolver.

—SCHOOL AID BILL— Sam Rayburn Challenges Ike On House Vote

... Interpretation

WASHINGTON (AP) — House Speaker Sam Rayburn of Texas Tuesday challenged President Eisenhower's interpretation of the votes which led to defeat of federal school aid legislation in the House last session.

In a speech at Lexington, Ky., Eisenhower said House Democrats voted 215-9 against his school program, while three-fourths of the House Republicans voted for it.

Rayburn asserted the President's figures on the voting "were on a motion to recommit the bill with instructions," which would have sent the bill back to committee and brought it back to the House with the Republican proposals substituted for a Democratic formula on how to divide the money.

Final Vote

"On the final passage of the bill," Rayburn said, "119 Democrats voted for the bill, only 75 Republicans voted for it; 165 Democrats voted against passage of the bill, and 119 Republicans voted against the passage of the bill."

Dr. Ritter Of Lincoln Heart Forum Speaker

Dr. Jerome Ritter of Lincoln will speak at the second annual Public Heart Forum of the Nebraska Heart Association Friday at the Blackstone Hotel in Omaha.

Shooting Charges Victim's Condition Awaited

Mrs. Suckstorf Taken From Critical List

County authorities are awaiting any definite change in the condition of the 39-year-old woman-victim of a tavern shooting before determining possible charges against the 29-year-old self-admitted assailant.

Mrs. Lillian M. Suckstorf of 2629 No. 43rd was listed in "fair" condition Tuesday at St. Elizabeth Hospital. She had been listed as "critical."

Roger Vigil, also of 2629 No. 43rd, was being held at the city jail after a seven-page statement was taken in the Lancaster County Attorney's office.

Shot Five Times

Mrs. Suckstorf, a beauty operator and mother of four children, was shot five times — in the head, arm, and three times in the chest — about 12:30 p.m. Monday at the Tick Tock Bar, 1036 P.

No blood transfusions had been administered since Monday, but Mrs. Suckstorf was still in an oxygen tent, a physician said.

Present treatment is designed to prepare Mrs. Suckstorf for future surgery to remove the bullets, he explained.

Dep. Co. Atty. Dale Fahrbruch said Vigil admitted in his statement to shooting Mrs. Suckstorf because "she wouldn't marry him."

Told Of Purchase

Vigil, in his statement, told of purchasing the .22-caliber pistol and bullets just a few hours before meeting Mrs. Suckstorf at the tavern.

Fahrbruch said Dr. Robert Stein, a Lincoln psychiatrist who examined Vigil, has reported him to be "legally sane."

Monday night in his jail cell, Vigil slashed his wrists with a broken spoon, but the wounds were only superficial.

Lived At Kimball

Vigil, a native of Trinidad, Colo., told authorities he lived at Kimball, Neb., for about 10 years before coming to Lincoln earlier this year.

He said he met Mrs. Suckstorf in January while they were both attending a beauty school in Lincoln.

whose sole functions would be the management of this large business department.

Planning Cited

Such a board, he asserted, "... could do long range planning more effectively than under the present system." The board would be formed, he said, either by creating a "... separate public agency with an elected Board of Trustees responsible directly to the people" or "... a board appointed by the City Council which would have more limited powers and whose major actions would be subject to final approval by the Council."

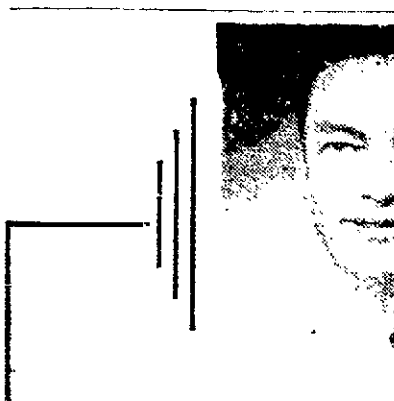

Later in the meeting, when questioned further as to the legality of the proposed utilities board, Pace pointed out that such a move would be legal only if 75 per cent of the bond-holders agreed with the action or if the proposed board were to be set up as an advisory body.

New Switchboard At Statehouse

Most Statehouse offices here will be served by one telephone switchboard starting about Dec. 1.

Gov. Victor Anderson's office said the large new switchboard will save Nebraska about $700 per month in telephone bills alone, not including salaries of operators for various small switchboards now in the building.

Work on the new system has been in progress about one year.

USDA Plans To Buy Lard To Aid Hog Price Support

... As Benson Announces Tour

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Agriculture Benson Tuesday announced a new federal program to bolster hog prices and he hit back at a Democratic charge that the Republicans are indifferent to drought problems in Texas.

Benson told a news conference that the Agriculture Department will begin a lard buying program next week to help prevent any slip in the price of hogs, a politically important item in many Midwest farm sections.

He said the department will encourage greater consumption of lard in school lunchrooms, charitable institutions and by welfare recipients.

Benson also said he plans to inspect drought areas in Nebraska and other Midwest state on a speaking tour that will begin Wednesday and take him as far west as California.

He brought up the drought question by referring to a speech by Sen. Estes Kefauver, who said in Waco, Tex., that "Republican indifference" had contributed to what the senator termed the national disaster of the Texas drought.

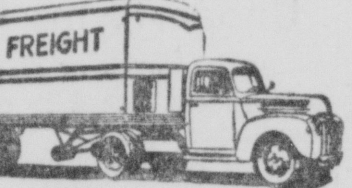

Benson said — without naming Kefauver—that any suggestion the Eisenhower administration hasn't done its utmost for drought stricken ranchers and farmers in Texas is "nothing short of falsehood."

Declaring that little was done for parched farm areas before he took office, Benson cited an administration drought aid program which he said is working effectively in all Texas counties. But he added:

"The only real answer is rain."

Regarding the lard purchase program, Benson said first offers to sell lard to the department are due by next Monday for acceptance by Friday, Oct. 12. Offers will be accepted weekly thereafter.

The department recently announced similar purchase programs for hamburger, eggs and frozen turkeys.

Lived At Kimball

Vigil, a native of Trinidad, Colo., told authorities he lived at Kimball, Neb., for about 10 years before coming to Lincoln earlier this year.

He said he met Mrs. Suckstorf in January while they were both attending a beauty school in Lincoln.

Contract Said Utility Board Block

Planning Cited

Such a board, he asserted, "... could do long range planning more effectively than under the present system." The board would be formed, he said, either by creating a "... separate public agency with an elected Board of Trustees responsible directly to the people" or "... a board appointed by the City Council which would have more limited powers and whose major actions would be subject to final approval by the Council."

Later in the meeting, when questioned further as to the legality of the proposed utilities board, Pace pointed out that such a move would be legal only if 75 per cent of the bondholders agreed with the action or if the proposed board were to be set up as an advisory body.

Junge read a letter by James Ager, Park Superintendent, to the group which asked that a Charter amendment be considered to allow the city to trim and remove trees along the Lincoln streets. This could be done, he said, either by vesting his department with the authority to assess back to the property owner or by setting up a special mill levy.

Other Proposals

Other Charter revision proposals centered around financing of utility improvements, water service to areas outside the city limits, sidewalk construction, deferred utility assessments and the legal aspects of city contracts, city planning, paving districts and obsolete sections of the Charter.

Also at the meeting, the Committee approved negotiations for a contract with the Public Service Administration of Chicago to obtain outside consulting advice. The PSA, a non-profit organization, are to send a member of the firm to reside in Lincoln and advise the committee on decisions involving suggested changes and a possible draft of proposed revisions.

Next meeting of the revision committee will be Thursday at 4 p.m. Other city officials will appear then.

New Switchboard At Statehouse

Most Statehouse offices here will be served by one telephone switchboard starting about Dec. 1.

Gov. Victor Anderson's office said the large new switchboard will save Nebraska about $700 per month in telephone bills alone, not including salaries of operators for various small switchboards now in the building.

Work on the new system has been in progress about one year.

Lana Hospitalized

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP) — Film star Lana Turner was in St. John's Hospital Tuesday for observation and minor surgery. Doctors said there was no danger to the baby she and husband Lex Barker are expecting in January.

They'd love to know Lil's secret!

How in the world does she do it? Three youngsters, yet her house is always neat as a pin. And she seems to have time for so many other things too!

Calm down, girls, and I'll let you in on Lil's secret. She simply finds quicker, easier ways to do her household jobs. For instance, she uses Bruce Cleaning Wax on her wood floors. Cleans and waxes them in one easy operation — without floor washing of any kind. It takes only half the time. And you know she has the best looking floors in the block! Why don't you try it? Bruce Cleaning Wax for a heavy coat of wax. Or if you prefer a light wax coat, use Bruce Floor Cleaner. Same wonderfully easy clean-as-you-wax results!

For floors, use BRUCE!

Homebuilders Predict Sharp Drop In Housing Starts For '57

... 'Tight Money Policy' Blamed

WASHINGTON (AP)—A score of leading homebuilders Tuesday predicted housing starts will fall below one million in 1957. Some foresaw as few as 800,000 "if money conditions stay as they are."

Officers and directors of the National Assn. of Homebuilders made the predictions after a closed morning meeting with a dozen government officials.

The "tight money policy," and its effect in drying up mortgage credit, were blamed by almost all the builders. One, Carl T. Mitnick of Merchantville, N.J., told a mass news conference:

"Many builders in our section have just quit. We're waiting to see if this administration is going to do anything to help us."

"Trick" None of the builders forecast appreciable improvement to result from the four-step liberalization of housing credit announced at the White House a few days ago. Mass builder Eugene A. Baylis, Atlanta, Ga., asserted:

"Down South, we felt it was just a political trick...as you gentlemen can tell, I'm a Democrat." NAB's president, Joseph B. Haverstick, Dayton, Ohio, said "the housing trend is alarming; it is rapidly downward." The government is "desperately seeking solutions, but solutions are hard to find," he said.

"Aware" Thomas Coogan, builder and financier of Miami and New York City, and a former NABH president, presided at the news conference. Coogan gave the opinion that the government "is aware of our problem but not aware of the intensity of it." It was for that reason, he said, that NABH arranged the closed meeting with administration officials. Among those present were Housing Administrator Albert M. Cole, Undersecretary of the Treasury W.

Randolph Burgess, and representatives of a half dozen other agencies.

He will speak on "Basic Concepts in the Application of Nuclear Energy."

Visitors From East Pakistan

Visiting briefly in Lincoln were two judicial figures from Dacca, East Pakistan, the honorable Mr. Justice Amin Ahmed (left), chief justice of East Pakistan, and Mr. Justice Hamoodur Rahman, judge of the East Pakistan High Court. The two, conducted on a city tour by Chief Justice Robert Simmons of the State Supreme Court, concentrated on the operations of state government and judicial procedure. (Star Photo)

PAIR OF EAST PAKISTAN JURISTS MAKE TWO-DAY VISIT TO LINCOLN

By MARGARET DVORAK

Star Staff Writer East Pakistan Chief Justice Amin Ahmed, and Judge of the High Court Hamoodur Rahman were in Lincoln for a brief two-day visit. The two dignitaries are touring this country under the Leder Exchange Program.

Monday night they attended a dinner given in their honor at the home of Robert G. Simmons, chief justice of the State Supreme Court.

Several months ago, Justice Simmons had sent a number of law books as a gift to the East Pakistan High Court. The two stopped in Lincoln to acknowledge the gift personally, and to present Justice Simmons with some of their country's law books, in return.

Whirlwind Tour Tuesday was spent in a whirlwind tour of the city, beginning with a visit to the office of Gov. Victor Anderson, who commisioned the two visitors admiral in the Nebraska Navy. Later, they sat in court with Justice Simmons, observing U.S. judicial procedure first-hand.

Neither of the two had been to America before, although Chief

Justice Amin Ahmed said "We had seen America in films and heard about it from our numerous American friends at home."

"Majestic" Nevertheless, they expressed amazement over the "majestic" architecture, particularly in Washington, D.C., and New York City, where their plane landed September 12. They were also impressed by the beauty of the Nebraska Capitol.

Coming here from Chicago, they will travel on to Denver Wednesday, from there to the West Coast, then by plane to New Orleans, and back to New York, where they will sail for home on the Queen Elizabeth.

Speaking for his country, the Chief Justice said, "We consider the United States one of our best friends," and he added, "Wherever we have been on our tour, we have been overwhelmed by courtesy and geniality."

RADIATION NO MORE HAZARDOUS THAN ELECTRICITY, EXPERT SAYS

Radiation is no more hazardous to work with than dynamite or electricity if proper precautions are taken when working with it, a radiological health authority said Tuesday at the University of Nebraska.

Simon Kinsman, chief of radiological health training of the Robert A. Taft Sanitary Engineering Center at Cincinnati, spoke to the two-day institute for University personnel using ionizing radiation. He pointed out:

"The industrial safety record for people handling radiation is far better than accident records for any other factor. If precautions are taken, there is no reason for the worker to fear radiation."

Precautions Listed He listed these precautionary factors:

1. Time — working with radiation a short period at a time. "Six hundred roentgens (a unit of measurement) of whole-body radiation in a day would almost certainly result in death while the same amount administered in small increments over a period of 30 years would result in little or no recognizable effect."

2. Distance — use of remote control handling devices.

3. Shielding — protection by use of barriers between the worker and the radiation.

Number Increasing Kinsman explained that the number of people now working with radiation has increased tremendously in the past few years due to the advent of nuclear energy.

"After exposure to radiation, recovery can and does take place. The healing process may be one of replacement of damaged tissue or one of recuperation of injured cells," Kinsman said.

The program which ends Wednesday afternoon is sponsored by the University's Extension Division, Health Services, Radiological Health Advisory Committee and Study Committee on Nuclear Energy.

Homebuilders Predict Sharp Drop In Housing Starts For '57

... 'Tight Money Policy' Blamed

WASHINGTON (AP)—A score of leading homebuilders Tuesday predicted housing starts will fall below one million in 1957. Some foresaw as few as 800,000 "if money conditions stay as they are."

Officers and directors of the National Assn. of Homebuilders made the predictions after a closed morning meeting with a dozen government officials.

The "tight money policy," and its effect in drying up mortgage credit, were blamed by almost all the builders. One, Carl T. Mitnick of Merchantville, N.J., told a mass news conference:

"Many builders in our section have just quit. We're waiting to see if this administration is going to do anything to help us."

'Tight'

None of the builders forecast appreciable improvement to result from the four-step liberalization of housing credit announced at the White House a few days ago. Mass builder Eugene A. Baylis, Atlanta, Ga., asserted:

"Down South, we felt it was just a political trick...as you gentlemen can tell, I'm a Democrat. NHAB's president, Joseph B. Haverslick, Dayton, Ohio, said "the housing trend is alarming; it is rapidly downward." The government is "desperately seeking solutions, but solutions are hard to find," he said.

'Aware'

Thomas Coogan, builder and financier of Miami and New York City, and a former NAHB president, presided at the news conference. Coogan gave the opinion that the government "is aware of our problem but not aware of the intensity of it." It was for that reason, he said, that NAHB arranged the closed meeting with administration officials. Among those present were Housing Administrator Albert M. Cole, Undersecretary of the Treasury W.

Randolph Burgess, and representatives of a half dozen other agencies.

Smith, supervising engineer of Reactor Studies and Tracer Application with Westinghouse Electric Corp., will speak to the student branch of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday at the Mechanical Engineering Building at the University of Nebraska. A graduate of Kansas State University, Smith has also studied at the University of Wisconsin, University of Chicago and the School of Reactor Technology at Oak Ridge, Tenn. He will speak on "Basic Concepts in the Application of Nuclear Energy."

Visitors From East Pakistan

Visiting briefly in Lincoln were two judicial figures from Dacca, East Pakistan, the honorable Mr. Justice Amin Ahmed (left), chief justice of East Pakistan, and Mr. Justice Hamoodur Rahman, judge of the East Pakistan High Court. The two, conducted on a city tour by Chief Justice Robert Simmons of the State Supreme Court, concentrated on the operations of state government and judicial procedure. (Star Photo)

PAIR OF EAST PAKISTAN JURISTS MAKE TWO-DAY VISIT TO LINCOLN

East Pakistan Chief Justice Amin Ahmed, and Judge of the High Court Hamoodur Rahman were in Lincoln for a brief two-day visit. The two dignitaries are touring this country under the Leader Exchange Program.

Monday night they attended a dinner given in their honor at the home of Robert G. Simmons, chief justice of the State Supreme Court.

Several months ago, Justice Simmons had sent a number of law books as a gift to the East Pakistan High Court. The two stopped in Lincoln to acknowledge the gift personally, and to present Justice Simmons with some of their country's law books, in return.

Whirlwind Tour
Tuesday was spent in a whirlwind tour of the city, beginning with a visit to the office of Gov. Victor Anderson, who commissioned the two visitors admirals in the Nebraska Navy. Later, they sat in court with Justice Simmons, observing U.S. judicial procedure first-hand.

Neither of the two had been to America before, although Chief

Justice Amin Ahmed said "We had seen America in films and heard about it from our numerous American friends at home."

"Majestic"
Nevertheless, they expressed amazement over the "majestic" architecture, particularly in Washington, D.C., and New York City, where their plane landed September 12. They were also impressed by the beauty of the Nebraska Capitol.

Coming here from Chicago, they will travel on to Denver Wednesday, from there to the West Coast, then by plane to New Orleans, and back to New York, where they will sail for home on the Queen Elizabeth.

Speaking for his country, the Chief Justice said, "We consider the United States one of our best friends," and he added, "Wherever we have been on our tour, we have been overwhelmed by courtesy and geniality."

RADIATION NO MORE HAZARDOUS THAN ELECTRICITY, EXPERT SAYS

Radiation is no more hazardous to work with than dynamite or electricity if proper precautions are taken when working with it, a radiological health authority said Tuesday at the University of Nebraska.

Simon Kinsman, chief of radiological health training of the Robert A. Taft Sanitary Engineering Center at Cincinnati, spoke to the two-day institute for University personnel using ionizing radiation. He pointed out:

"The industrial safety record for people handling radiation is far better than accident records for any other factor. If precautions are taken, there is no reason for the worker to fear radiation."

Precautions Listed

He listed these precautionary factors:

1. Time — working with radiation a short period at a time. "Six hundred roentgens (a unit of measurement) of whole-body radiation in a day would almost certainly result in death while the same amount administered in small increments over a period of 30 years would result in little or no recognizable effect."
2. Distance — use of remote control handling devices.
3. Shielding — protection by use of barriers between the worker and the radiation.

Number Increasing

Kinsman explained that the number of people now working with radiation has increased tremendously in the past few years due to the advent of nuclear energy.

"After exposure to radiation, recovery can and does take place. The healing process may be one of replacement of damaged tissue or one of recuperation of injured cells," Kinsman said.

The program which ends Wednesday afternoon is sponsored by the University's Extension Division, Health Services, Radiological Health Advisory Committee and Study Committee on Nuclear Energy.

Gabriel Heatter Hails New Way For Deaf To Hear With Both Ears

CHICAGO (Special)—A fabulous new miracle invention that enables the deaf to hear with both ears and hides deafness as never before for men and women was announced by Gabriel Heatter on a broadcast last Wednesday.

Heatter revealed that this invention, Beltone Hearing Glasses, has no cord, no receiver button. A tiny, almost invisible tube carries sounds to the ear from a powerful hearing aid, completely hidden inside one temple of streamlined glasses.

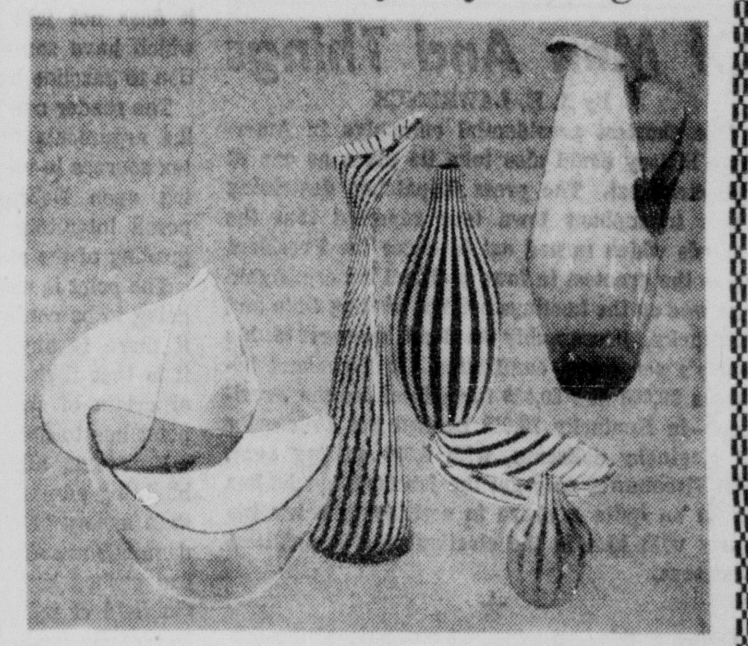

"I urge everyone with a hearing problem to discover how this amazing new invention may end self-consciousness," Heatter said. To acquaint hard of hearing readers of this newspaper with all the exciting facts about this new way to hide deafness as never before, an informative new book will be sent free on request. No obligation.

For free book, write: Dept. 2-800, Beltone Hearing Aid Co., 2900 W. 36th St., Chicago 22. A postcard will do.

The story of Pro Domo is a unique venture in democratic action. Europe's glass making industry was almost wiped out by World War II, and the glassblowers and their families ended in refugee camps, homeless and destitute. In 1951, a Swiss steel executive founded a non-profit organization with a revolving fund to be used in assisting free glassblowers to work productively again. Now, numerous modern plants have sprung up, enabling thousands of Iron Curtain refugees with priceless experience to earn a living at the craft they know so well.

In Design for Dining, you will view this lovely crystal in fine modern designs and traditional patterns.

The Scotts Bluff Facility

The Nebraska University this week presided over the dedication of its new $165,000 administration and laboratory building at the Scotts Bluff agricultural experiment station.

As the building was put into use the public was advised that if American agriculture is to meet the needs of the future, young people must be attracted into agricultural science and given the necessary facilities and tools.

At this moment when farm surpluses are being decared a question might be raised over facilities whose whole purpose is to strengthen and improve agricultural production. Such short range objections have been raised against the extension of irrigation, soil reclamation and other constructive public works.

But it is indeed fortunate that institutions for agricultural research are being expanded and in the long view the transient questioning of this continuing quest for ever-better agriculture falls apart.

Perhaps the greatest evil of this current reaction against productive farming is the treatment of a food surplus as a crime against society. In a world where after these thousands of years an abundance of food is a rarity and seldom long-lasting. Whatever hardship there may be in plenty lies not at all in the production of it, but in the administrative type of thinking that cannot grapple with its distributive problems.

What Are The Facts?

It should not be too difficult to determine the facts of who did or did not kill Cock Robin. In this case Cock Robin is the name for the federal school aid bill before Congress at the last session.

Adlai Stevenson had been critical of the Eisenhower administration for failure, he charged, to do anything to relieve the nation's school crisis. By way of reply President Eisenhower said that blame for defeat of the administration's school assistance proposal rested with the Democratic controlled Congress, which voted 215 to 9 against his bill.

The President's interpretation of votes on the school legislation has been challenged by House Speaker Sam Rayburn of Texas. Instead of the figures cited by the President, Mr. Rayburn insists that 119 Democrats on final passage voted for the bill and—only 75 Republicans—105 Democrats voted against passage of the bill and were joined by 119 Republicans. Obviously the President and Speaker Rayburn are talking about two different things. If memory serves us correctly the vote cited by the President came on an amendment involving school segregation. But it should not be too difficult to find out the facts and this paper has asked for the figures in various steps before the school aid bill came to a final test.

With the arrival of October days in a presidential campaign it has become too much the practice to toss around charges of "lies and 'facts'" What is needed now, it would seem, is a greater sense of responsibility in political utterance.

Mr. Eisenhower can be reporting the vote at one stage of the House battle over school aid—Mr. Rayburn may be giving the correct figures at another. But they both cannot be right when it comes to popular understanding. If the public is to be spared confusion—a confusion wholly unnecessary—the facts should be set forth.

It's The Capacity

Proponents of the ton mile tax assert that Nebraska will punish its citizens unnecessarily if it does not join the group of 24 other states which have some kind of mileage tax in addition to gasoline taxes and license fees.

The reader can take it from there. It is one of the arguments in the current debate over new tax sources in view of the heavy burden descending upon Nebraska connected with the proposed interstate highway and the general upgrading of the state's highway system.

The point is well made if this current debate is going to be confined to methods of taxation. But if there is anything wrong with that premise it is that it does not go back to the true point of origin of the Nebraska tax problem. That point has to do with the state's capacity to pay.

Nebraska, afflicted doubly by drought and a blighting administration farm program, has less than a normal wherewithal at a time when tax demands are skyrocketing. Its price-cost squeeze has pushed beyond the borders of farming into the field of public service. Nebraska is finding, just as its farmers found, that it must increase its take if it is to remain economically healthy with increased outgo.

A more pertinent approach to more taxes would be a study of ways to increase the state's general income and wealth. Action in that line calls for restoration of its agricultural economy and political warfare against forces determined to continue to depress it. It is a little bit illogical to endorse a national administration which with one hand starves a state's agricultural income while with the other it ushers the state into massive highway obligations under the name of partnership.

Do-It-Yourself Model

It is interesting to learn that the Nebraska Public Power System met an increased demand for summer power that outdistanced the national average by one-third.

It was another way of saying that Nebraska is a rapidly developing electric state and that rural electrification, long considered a fringe activity, is on its way toward becoming one of the prime contributors toward a growing state economy. This was emphasized by the NPPS explaining that a great deal of the summer demand went for irrigation.

One finds it easy to think of rural electrification as primarily a convenience that brought farm living to a level with city living—a thing that brought electric lights to the farm house, filled farm kitchens with labor saving appliances and modernization in general. But it is also provocative to think of a great new utility that sprang up during the '30's mainly from desire in the hearts of rural people and a friendly boost from Washington. The institution of public power and especially that of the REA now forms an economic integer representing millions in investment, millions in annual revenues, a substantial employer of people, a creator of new markets and a power factor in the state's economy. There is a lesson in it. A state can do a great deal toward building itself if the qualities of resourcefulness and courage are present.

Two Of A Kind

At St. Louis last week there was an opossum which moved in with a family and established a quiet, cozy nest behind a tile ceiling. It took six women to bring him out in the open. It is about the same proportion of candidates for public office trying at this season to flush out the occasional voter, and the opossum reminds one of the beleaguered voter whose first impulse is to play dead until all the election clamor is over.

GOP Worry Sends Ike Campaigning

WASHINGTON — What induced the President to change his mind about a hard-hitting campaign was two reports, one from Vice President Nixon, the other from Chairman Len Hall.

Nixon telephoned the White House after his speech in Houston warning that Texas would go Democratic unless Eisenhower went on the hustings with both a lot of speeches and tough speeches. Simultaneously, Len Hall went around to the White House with the most doleful news of all, namely that Washington and Oregon seemed to be veering over to the Democrats and that California looked bad too. Opinion on the latter state came from Nixon, himself a Californian, who expressed the opinion that Senator Tom Kuchel would lose to Democratic Candidate Di. K. Richards unless Ike took a last trip out to the West Coast himself.

Chairman Hall also feared that Senator Magnuson in Washington and Senator Wayne Morse in Oregon were running ahead of Governor Arthur Langlie and ex-Secretary of the Interior Doug McKay.

There's a strong suspicion that the reports laid on Ike's doorstep were not actually as bad as Hall and Nixon indicated; that they exaggerated somewhat in order to put the heat on the president to campaign. Whether this is true or not, the two men got results.

DULLES IS TOO JERKY

The sudden and mysterious trip of Khrushchev and Tito from Belgrade to Yalta is considered the worst news the West has had since Col. Nasser seized the Suez Canal.

Western diplomats don't know what exactly happened at the hush-hush sessions between Tito and Khrushchev on Tito's private island of Brioni, but they do know what happened before. It all seems to have resulted from another jerky move by John Foster Dulles.

Prior to the Khrushchev-Tito meeting, American military men had asked a quantity of jet fighters for the Yugoslav army. This had been approved not only as a part of the U.S. military buildup for the Yugoslav army, but to keep Russian MIG's out of Yugoslavia.

The jet deal was all set, had been approved by the Pentagon, and Tito had every reason to believe the planes would begin arriving.

Then suddenly John Foster Dulles overruled the Pentagon, cancelled the planes.

Dulles was understandably scared of the air-Tito congressional debate at the time, feared reaction from his own Republican leaders in the Senate. While he may have been right in cancelling the jets, the suddenness of the move sent Tito into a tantrum.

He immediately invited the No. 1 Communist of Russia, party boss Khrushchev, to come to Belgrade. There they embraced like long-lost brothers. Final result probably will be complete re-entry of Yugoslavia into the Soviet orbit.

Note — Diplomats wish that Mr. Dulles would move a bit slower, not jerk the reins of foreign affairs so hard, if he had stalled Col. Nasser over the Aswan dam and strung out his denial of funds for a couple of months, Nasser wouldn't have lost face and felt impelled to act against the West by seizing Suez. Likewise, if Dulles had delayed a decision of the jets to Tito and stalled on the excuse of American elections, Tito might not have flown into a sudden tantrum and rushed into the arms of the Kremlin.

Radford Grows In Power

ADM. ARTHUR W. RADFORD

WASHINGTON — Adm. Arthur W. Radford, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, has issued a directive which in the view of the three service chiefs, Army, Navy and Air, will result in bypassing them and giving Radford virtually sole authority over all the armed forces of the United States.

The Radford directive of September 5 has further inflamed the controversy within the Joint Chiefs of Staff over the growing conviction of Radford's assumption of sole power. This suspicion, raising the deep-seated fear of an effort to impose the Prussian general staff system with a single commander, flared up in debate in the Senate shortly before Congress adjourned.

The debate was launched by Sen. Styles Bridges, chairman of the Republican Pokey Committee. While he did not mention the present chairman of the JCS by name, Bridges said:

"In the case of a great national emergency or catastrophe involving the survival of my country, I should not want to depend on the whims of one man. I should want the benefit of the collective judgment of the top military brains of the country as they reported to a civilian authority."

Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, Democrat of Minnesota, commended Bridges for his concern that the present system of joint responsibility was being undermined.

But Humphrey went further to say that he was worried "by subtle but alarming indications that he (Radford) is exerting increasing influence if not authority over the Joint Chiefs of Staff in their deliberations and their findings and the manner in which their views are presented or even not presented to the civilian officials of the department of defense and to congressional committees."

Too Friendly

Mister Martin is a warm-hearted gentleman with an enviable outlook on life and a unique hobby. He runs competition with the bus line, free.

The way I first came to know Mister Martin was that I was waiting for a bus. His car pulled up, and his smile beamed on me.

"Hop in," he said, "I'm going your way."

It was broad daylight, and the traffic was thick all around. Mister Martin did not look like a man who might have designs on anyone's pocketbook. Besides, I was not sure I had not met him at a luncheon or meeting or something like that, and if I had, I did not want to snub him. So I hopped in.

"You're the first today," he said. "We'll have a careful before we get downtown, though. Always do."

Just then there was a bus stop ahead, and an elderly woman was waiting for the bus. Mister Martin swerved his car into the curb and said, "Hop in." She did.

When I knew Mister Martin better, about five trips later, I chided him gently for taking business away from a legitimate transportation agency. He looked apprehensive. "Gee," he said, "I never thought of it that way. I just hate to be alone in the car. Like to have people to talk to. Do you really think the bus line would mind? I just make two trips a day, one coming, one going. Can't carry more than five people. They can't lose much on that."

He was so genuinely worried about the bus line's financial difficulties on his account that I hastened to assure him it didn't mean any more to them than it would have if five people had stayed home sick. He brightened up at that. Sure, he said, that was it. And there must be five people who got sick any day you could mention.

It has worried me ever since, whether I said the right thing, because after all, if you double five fares a day, that's 10 fares. Then multiply them by five days a week, and that by 32 weeks a year, and it begins to mount up. The figure would probably have driven Mister Martin out of business and by then I didn't have the heart to do it.

In a way, that is the whole trouble with Mister Martin. You just don't want to hurt his feelings. And a man would rather ride the bus. There is an independence about it, and an anonymity that can be very pleasant. If you won't want to read the paper, you can just sit and stare at the back of somebody's neck. The only time you have to speak is when you say "Excuse me" for stepping on someone's toes.

Mister Martin wouldn't understand that. I know he wouldn't, and that is why I began hiding behind trees when I saw Mister Martin's car coming on days when I did not feel like talking. Several times I found other people hiding behind the trees, too. They didn't feel like being friendly, either, so early in the morning.

One day Mister Martin saw me sticking out from behind a tree and I had to tell him I was hunting for a lost hummingbird. It was the best I could do in my embarrassment.

I guess I shall just have to find another bus route on my unfriendly days.

GOP Scandals Aid Illinois Democrats

CHICAGO — Illinois Democrats have put stark contrast into the race against Senator Everett M. Dirksen, the mellifluous orator from Pekin who embraces President Eisenhower now with the same ardors he expended so dramatically upon the Taft cause at the 1952 GOP convention.

His nominee, Richard Stengel, is a younger second cousin of baseball's redoubtable Casey Stengel. Like Casey, he is in locks and action a rugged character, plain-spoken and determined.

His consistent performance in four terms in the state Senate, where he resisted pressures on all sides, won him all kinds of non-partisan applause. He is not, however, well-known in Chicago, and much is being made of his lack of broad experience by his Republican opposition.

What happens to him will depend in large part on what Mayor Daly gets out of the Democratic wards of Cook County. The Chicago mayor is currently the ranking Democratic office-holder in the state — the distinguished Senator Paul Douglas being considered an ornament in terms of ward politics.

Daly has insisted upon exercising his prerogatives to the utmost possible extent in the best whim-of-iron manner. Many people say he is a good mayor, with which Democrats gladly agree, but his political activities occasionally leave party workers somewhat confused.

Daly's was the principal voice in choosing Stengel to oppose Dirksen and in the nomination of a Cook County official, Herbert Paschen, for governor. It was a state of new names and half of it disappeared from public view fairly soon after Paschen had to answer questions about the management of a "flower fund" in his office.

Thus, it was realized, was no way to capitalize on the Republican state administration scandals which have landed three men, including deposed State Auditor Orville Hodge, in the jailhouse. Paschen quit the race. Again Daly held out, as before, against former National Chairman Stephen Mitchell, who was not only well-known but well-known for his aggressive honesty.

Daly's choice was a judge and former prosecutor, Richard Austin of Chicago, whose reputation for force and integrity is good. Austin has begun a whirlwind campaign downstate against Republican scandals while Republicans are hopefully combing the Cook County records and the Kefauver hearings to see what they can develop on him.

A federal grand jury in the state capital, Springfield, and a Senate committee are helping to underline the million-dollar state scandals on which Democrats heavily rely. Chairman J. William Fulbright of the Senate Banking Committee has announced he will bring the convicted trio, including Auditor Hodge, from their prison cells to testify in Chicago October 8.

They had pleaded guilty, so the full story of their gaudy swindles with false state warrants was not spread upon court records — and in headlines — in long trials. Obviously Fulbright is not averse to remedying that omission.

Baseball Plays Ike-Adlai Even

NEW YORK — Political "batter" for the opening game of the World Series will be Eisenhower and Nixon. When the series moves over to the Yankee stadium it will be Stevenson and Kefauver.

Ike throws out the first ball at Ebbets field, Stevenson chucks at the stadium. Never before in our political history has there been such an invasion into baseball by the competitors in the presidential race. It is an indication that both are "tanking scared."

In April of 1953 the President, who has a mind of his own, saw no reason why he should interrupt his busy schedule to engage in the fairly non-sensational (but traditional) business of throwing out the first ball at Washington at the beginning of the baseball season. Ever since Walter Johnson's time, the first pitch at Washington usually has been a ball, followed happily by a triple or home run by the opposing batter when the Washington pitcher finally got the pill over the plate. Ike had a golf date somewhere and saw no reason why he should break it.

Well, you'd have thought he painted a bad picture on a church door — so indignation was the reaction. The Prez happens to be a man with a limited interest in kissing babies to please photographers and is a horror of associating himself with commercial batters. So he was on solid ground by deciding to go elsewhere. But the hue and cry became such that it was considered a political lucky break for him that the opening game on that occasion was rained out and he was granted a reprieve pitch.

Eisenhower has dutifully appeared since then in the "throwing out the first ball" role. Ever since the late Clark Griffith thought the whole business up in the spring of William Howard Taft's last year in White House harness, it has become as much a required part of a President's routine as fishing, or breaking down. An alarming number of people were offended because Ike saw no reason why he should let his name and considerable prestige to this swirl of commerce. It recalled the anguished cries during the bull-pen warm-up before the 1952 Republican convention when more than one press conference with candidate Ike or his spokesmen was interrupted by a plaintive cry of, "Well, why don't you go on 'Meet The Press'?"

Ike prefers golf to baseball. Adlai was first to answer years ago when someone asked, aloud, "Who's for tennis?" but they'll be on hand, heavily as all get-out, when called upon to throw out that respective first baseball.

Hastings, Neb.

To the editor of The Lincoln Star: Paul Achterberg tells us that we ought not to expect that Ike could do in four years what the Democrats "miserably" failed in doing in 20 years. It takes a lot of nerve for a man to write that. There was no World War II until Hitler invaded Poland in 1939. Roosevelt had been President six years then. The farm income in 1932 stood at $6 billion. It was $11 billion in 1939 — almost doubling itself in those six years.

The annual income of $6 billion in 1932 rose to $33 billion in 1952, and Mr. Achterberg calls that "miserable." The only miserable years since Roosevelt came to power have been the past four years under Eisenhower. The annual farm income has dropped $2½ billion annually since Ike was elected.

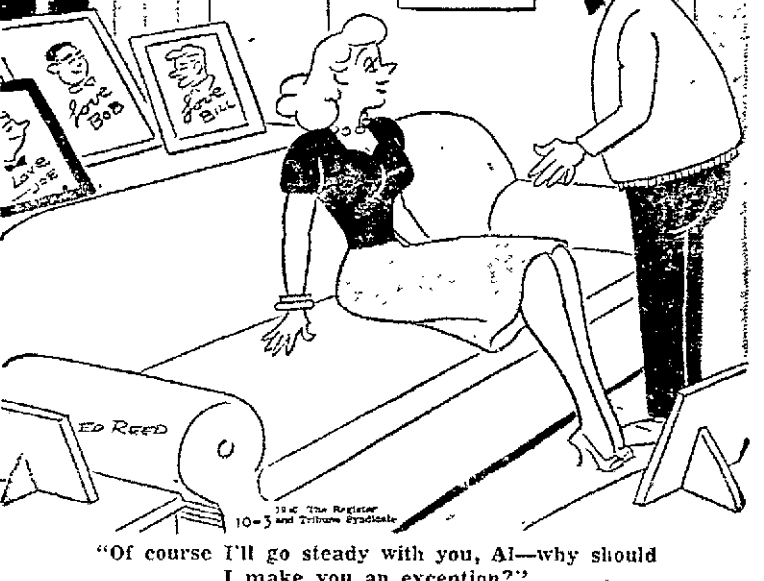

As to the Republicans putting a stop to the Korean war—like got only a stay in the action. That's what it is today. That's why we are keeping 30,000 of our soldiers boys over there all the time and have been ever since Ike entered the White House. If we have peace over there, why are not the Republicans bringing our boys home?

And the claim that if Republicans had been in power, the Lusitania would not have gone down, nor Pearl Harbor been attacked. That's a strange charge to be laid at the door of Republicanism. It means that our shipping on the high seas could have been torpedoed and the Republicans would have done nothing about it, which isn't true.

The Scotts Bluff Facility

The Nebraska University this week presided over the dedication of its new $165,000 administration and laboratory building at the Scotts Bluff agricultural experiment station.

As the building was put into use the public was advised that if American agriculture is to meet the needs of the future, young people must be attracted into agricultural science and given the necessary facilities and tools.

At this moment when farm surpluses are being decied a question might be raised over facilities whose whole purpose is to strengthen and improve agricultural production. Such short range objections have been raised against the extension of irrigation, soil reclamation and other constructive public works.

But it is indeed fortunate that institutions for agricultural research are being expanded and in the long view the transient questioning of this continuing quest for ever-better agriculture falls apart.

Perhaps the greatest evil of this current reaction against productive farming is the treatment of a food surplus as a crime against society. In a world where after these thousands of years an abundance of food is a rarity and seldom long-lasting. Whatever hardship there may be in plenty lies not at all in the production of it, but in the administrative type of thinking that cannot grapple with its distributive problems.

What Are The Facts?

It should not be too difficult to determine the facts of who did or did not kill Cock Robin. In this case Cock Robin is the name for the federal school aid bill before Congress at the last session.

Adlai Stevenson had been critical of the Eisenhower administration for failure, he charged, to do anything to relieve the nation's school crisis. By way of reply President Eisenhower said that blame for defeat of the administration's school assistance proposal rested with the Democratic controlled Congress, which voted 215 to 9 against his bill.

The President's interpretation of votes on the school legislation has been challenged by House Speaker Sam Rayburn of Texas. Instead of the figures cited by the President, Mr. Rayburn insists that 119 Democrats on final passage voted for the bill and—only 75 Republicans—105 Democrats voted against passage of the bill and were joined by 119 Republicans. Obviously the President and Speaker Rayburn are talking about two different things. If memory serves us cor-

Of Men And Things

By J. E. LAWRENCE

The shortest presidential campaign in American history could also take its place as one of the strangest. The press dispatches describing Ike's triumphant Iowa tour reported that the crowds which turned out to cheer the President were the greatest in Iowa political history. Again Ike was on the hustings briefly, visiting Ohio and Kentucky, presumably to lend support to his party's senatorial candidates. In Cleveland between 30,000 and 50,000 turned out for the President—in Kentucky 15,000 packed the University of Kentucky coliseum, with 5,000 spilling over. Mr. Eisenhower may get the job done but he has taken on quite a chore in seeking to carry his party with him in the election of a Republican Congress.

★ Ohio provides an excellent example of the difficulties facing the President. There Gov. Frank Lausche, amazing and admittedly with few rivals as a vote-getter, is the Democratic candidate for the Senate. It is not difficult to understand why Democrats might be a little cool to Lausche—as governor he has played ball with the Republicans much of the time, his Democratic critics charge. But here the President, ignoring the fact that Lausche never has been a rabid partisan, thought it necessary to put the full weight of his prestige and his popularity back of Republican Candidate George Bender. By invading Ohio, the President gave Gov. Lausche no choice. If Lausche is successful in upsetting Bender, who won the late Sen. Bob Taft's seat by the narrowest of margins, then Lausche will not owe Ike anything. The President has done his best to retire Lausche to private life. There was more of it in Kentucky. There where two Senate seats are to be filled as a result of the death of Sen. Alben Barkley a few months ago, Mr. Eisenhower continued to pound away at congressional control, a doubtful tactic if he expects the vital support which a Democratic Congress gave him on many major issues in 1956. In Kentucky Ike could not hope to win without Democratic votes.

★ Incidentally the President reached into the hat in Kentucky Monday night and came forth with a promise of 70 million good-paying jobs for Americans if they re-elect him. "I can see an America in which every man can eat his own bread in peace, raise his own family in security, and strengthen his own mind and spirit in dignity." Obviously Ike was looking in an entirely different direction or over these farm states of the Southern and Central Great North American Plains where presently there is less economic peace of mind than Americans have faced in more than a decade. Here the soil bank is not going over as happily as the Department of Agriculture might have hoped. Here the feeling is mounting that such steps as have been taken to alleviate drought suffering are inadequate.

★ It is not the kind of a campaign the President had planned, if earlier reports are to be taken at face value, nor the kind of a campaign those around him had led him to believe would be sufficient. The President faces a sortie to Oregon and Washington state in an effort to rescue the political fortunes of former Secretary of the Interior Douglas McKay and Republican Keynote Gov. Arthur Langlie.

The Oregonian reports that Ike continues to retain his popularity with Oregon voters but that his severest congressional critic, Sen. Morse, also leads Republican Douglas McKay in the Senate battle. The administration having gotten McKay in, cannot very well neglect him now. Much the same situation prevails in Washington state. There in the primaries Sen. Magnuson gave Langlie a brutal beating when it came to a show of strength. In the Democratic primary, Magnuson polled 143,000 more votes than Langlie was able to draw in the Republican primary. Rather plaintively Langlie was quoted as saying it was obvious that he would have to have more votes if he was going to make a showing in November, clearly the greatest understatement of the year. Then there are New York and Pennsylvania senatorial battles to be won.

★ It would appear that the President takes his own re-election as a matter of course, a conclusion which may find him wrong in November. But in this short, strange campaign at present Ike has chosen to make Congress and not the executive branch of government the dominant issue.

DREW PEARSON

GOP Worry Sends Ike Campaigning

WASHINGTON — What induced the President to change his mind about a hard-hitting campaign was two reports, one from Vice President Nixon, the other from Chairman Len Hall.

Nixon telephoned the White House after his speech in Houston warning that Texas would go Democratic unless Eisenhower went on the hustings with both a lot of speeches and tough speeches.

Simultaneously, Len Hall went around to the White House with the most doleful news of all, namely that Washington and Oregon seemed to be veering over to the Democrats and that California looked bad too. Opinion on the latter state came from Nixon, himself a Californian, who expressed the opinion that Senator Tom Kuchel would lose to Democratic Candidate Dick Richards unless Ike took a fast trip out to the West Coast himself.

Chairman Hall also feared that Senator Magnuson in Washington and Senator Wayne Morse in Oregon were running ahead of Governor Arthur Langlie and ex-Secretary of the Interior Doug McKay.

There's a strong suspicion that the reports laid on Ike's doorstep were not actually as bad as Hall and Nixon indicated; that they exaggerated somewhat in order to put the heat on the president to campaign. Whether this is true or not, the two men got results.

★ ★ ★ DULLES IS TOO JERKY

The sudden and mysterious trip of Khrushchev and Tito from Belgrade to Yalta is considered the worst news the West has had since Col. Nasser seized the Suez Canal.

Western diplomats don't know what exactly happened at the hush-hush sessions between Tito and Khrushchev on Tito's private island of Brioni, but they do know what happened before. It all seems to have resulted from another jerky move by John Foster Dulles.

Prior to the Khrushchev-Tito meeting, American military men had ok'd a quantity of jet fighters for the Yugoslav army. This had been approved not only as a part of the U.S. military build-up for the Yugoslav army, but to keep Russian MIG's out of Yugoslavia.

The jet deal was all set, had been approved by the Pentagon, and Tito had every reason to believe the planes would begin arriving.

Then suddenly John Foster Dulles over-ruled the Pentagon, cancelled the planes.

Dulles was understandably scared of the anti-Tito congressional debate at the time, feared reaction from his own Republican leaders in the Senate. While he may have been right in cancelling the jets, the suddenness of the move sent Tito into a tantrum.

He immediately invited the No. 1 Communist of Russia, party Boss Khrushchev, to come to Belgrade. There they embraced like long-lost brothers. Final result probably will be complete re-entry of Yugoslavia into the Soviet orbit.

Note — Diplomats wish that Mr. Dulles would move a bit slower, not jerk the reins of foreign affairs so hard. If he had stalled Col. Nasser over the Aswan dam and strung out his denial of funds for a couple of months, Nasser wouldn't have lost face and felt impelled to act against the West by seizing Suez. Likewise, if Dulles had delayed a decision of the jets to Tito and stalled on the excuse of American elections, Tito might not have flown into a sudden tantrum and rushed into the arms of the Kremlin. Radford Grows In Power

What the latest Radford directive does is to short-circuit the three committees—Strategic Plans, Logistics and Intelligence — on which the service chiefs have depended for implementing their views and concepts.

Under this directive, they would from here on report to the Joint Staff, which is appointed and controlled by Radford. The result would be, as at least two of the chiefs have put it, to relegate them to an ivory tower where they would be talking only to each other.

"Before effecting any changes," Radford said in a memorandum to the service chiefs accompanying notification of the shift in procedure, "I will consider any views which you may have or discuss any points you may wish to raise pertinent to these projected changes."

Many of those who oppose Radford believe that instead of abolishing the committees on which the chiefs have depended—and that would be the effect of the Radford directive—he should move in the opposite direction and strengthen them further by delegating to them some of the power now centralized in the Joint Chiefs of Staff and the chairman.

Asked for his views, a spokesman for Radford said the chairman would not comment on a classified (secret) document still under consideration by the JCS.

★ ★ ★ Although the directive has nothing to do directly with America's military security, the secret stamp it bears is part of the tight information policy ordered by Secretary of Defense Charles E. Wilson.

Radford's authority to speak for all the chiefs was challenged during the Indo-China crisis by the then Chief of Staff of the Army, General Matthew B. Ridgway. After considerable difficulty, Ridgway succeeded in presenting to President Eisenhower his views opposing an air strike at Dien Bienphu, as urged by Radford, and the President sustained Ridgway.

Recently the late Anthony Leviero of the New York Times disclosed a Radford proposal to cut the armed forces 300,000 by 1960 and thereby place increasing reliance on large caliber nuclear weapons.

The ultimate blame for this "leak" as been put on General Maxwell Taylor, current Army chief, who has continued to resist a strategy which relies almost wholly on nuclear retaliation. He attributed this strategy to a desire to cut expenditures and balance the budget.

The challengers do not question Radford's brains—his brilliance in point of fact, nor the energy and remarkable concentration he brings to his task.

But they are fearful that the increasing centralization of power in one man's hands will not only pervert the American system of civilian responsibility but can lead to grave and perhaps irretrievable errors of judgment.

Too Friendly

Mister Martin is a warm-hearted gentleman with an enviable outlook on life and a unique hobby. He runs competition with the bus line, free.

The way I first came to know Mister Martin was that I was waiting for a bus. His car pulled up, and his smile beamed on me. "Hop in," he said, "I'm going your way."

It was broad daylight, and the traffic was thick all around. Mister Martin did not look like a man who might have designs on anyone's pocketbook. Besides, I was not sure I had not met him at a luncheon or meeting or something like that, and if I had, I did not want to snub him. So I hopped in.

"You're the first today," he said. "We'll have a careful before we get downtown, though. Always do."

★ ★ ★ Just then there was a bus stop ahead, and an elderly woman was waiting for the bus. Mister Martin swerved his car into the curb and said, "Hop in." She did.

When I knew Mister Martin better, about five trips later, I chided him gently for taking business away from a legitimate transportation agency. He looked apprehensive. "Gee," he said, "I never thought of it that way. I just hate to be alone in the car. Like to have people to talk to. Do you really think the bus line would mind? I just make two trips a day, one coming, one going. Can't carry more than five people. They can't lose much on that."

He was so genuinely worried about the bus line's financial difficulties on his account that I hastened to assure him it didn't mean any more to them than it would have if five people had stayed home sick. He brightened up at that. Sure, he said, that was it. And there must be five people who got sick any day you could mention.

It has worried me ever since, whether I said the right thing, because after all, if you double five fares a day, that's 10 fares. Then multiply them by five days a week, and that by 52 weeks a year, and it begins to mount up. The figure would probably have driven Mister Martin out of business and by then I didn't have the heart to do it.

★ ★ ★ In a way, that is the whole trouble with Mister Martin. You just don't want to hurt his feelings. And he cannot understand that often, a man would rather ride the bus. There is an independence about it, and an anonymity that can be very pleasant. If you won't want to read the paper, you can just sit and stare at the back of somebody's neck. Right To Cancel Wheat Agreements Same As Crop Insurance—Officials

Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson's announcement that wheat growers in some cases will be permitted to cancel their 1957 soil bank agreements adds up to a crop insurance program according to the interpretation of some agriculture officials in Lincoln.

250-Pounder, 81, Headed For U.S. To Find Husband

NAPLES, Italy (AP) — Grandma Nicolina Petrozzo, 81, a bouncing, toothless 250 pounder, sailed for New York Tuesday night in search of a husband.

"I'm a very strong girl—and I have great love for this life," she chuckled happily as she puffed up the gangplank of the liner Olympia.

"I'm going to have a good look around for a husband who likes me," the Italian born widow said.

Mrs. Petrozzo emigrated to the United States in 1906 but returned to Italy in 1921. Now she will have 21 sons and grandchildren to meet her at the pier in New York.

"I think that's exactly what it is," one USDA official said Tuesday.

Benson said that those who signed 1957 wheat acreage agreements and who have farm allotments on other crops will be permitted to cancel their wheat agreements after the mailing of their last official notice of a farm allotment for 1957.

What It Means

Simplified, this is what the announcement means to Nebraska wheat farmers.

(1) The announcement affects only those who have signed up for the 1957 wheat reserve. Friday is the last day for signing up.

(2) The agreement may be changed or cancelled up to 15 days after receipt of the final allotment notice on corn, which is the only other crop in Nebraska under allotments.

(3) The corn allotment notice will be mailed near the end of February or the beginning of March. The farmer will probably actually have but 15 days from the mailing of the notice, USDA officials said here.

The announcement will have the effect of allowing state wheat farmers to watch weather developments and other factors for about the next six months (until the end of March or early April) before making a final decision on whether to place land in the soil bank.

Benson said the action was taken to permit winter wheat producers who have allotments on other crops to make their final decision after all allotment information for 1957 is available.

Under previous regulations wheat acreage reserve agreements for 1957, once signed by farmers, could not be cancelled by them.

Two graduates of the University of Nebraska College of Dentistry are now among the six rear admirals in the U.S. Navy Dental Corps.

The college has just received word of the promotion of Capt. Clifford D. DeFord (1927) to rear admiral. He is commanding officer of the Navy Dental Clinic at the Philadelphia Naval Shipyard.

The other Nebraska graduate among the top six is Rear Admiral Alfred R. Harris (1923) chief of Dental Services at the Great Lakes Naval Training Station.

Mixed Schools Show Increase In Absentees

HENDERSON, Ky. (INs) — Absenteeism increased Tuesday at three schools in Henderson, Ky., where a group of white parents have organized a boycott protesting integration of the school system.

Officials of the Weaverton School that 424 of 870 pupils reported for classes Tuesday Monday, 460 showed up. Five Negro enrollees are continuing to attend classes.

An estimated 100 persons gathered outside the Weaverton School Tuesday morning as classes convened. Police Chief Fred Halle and 25 of his men were on hand.

There was no disturbance except for several women jeering the police chief. Sixty-five Kentucky State Policemen also patrolled the area.

State Records 6 New Polio Cases

Nebraska reported six new polio cases last week, raising the year's total to 112, the State Health Department reported Tuesday.

The total compares with 233 cases at this time last year.

The new cases included two each in Scotts Bluff and Greeley Counties, and one each in Cheyenne and Platte Counties.

Right To Cancel Wheat Agreements Same As Crop Insurance—Officials

Secretary of Agriculture Extra Taft Benson's announcement that wheat growers in some cases will be permitted to cancel their 1957 soil bank agreements adds up to a crop insurance program according to the interpretation of some agriculture officials in Lincoln.

250-Pounder, 81, Headed For U.S. To Find Husband

NAPLES, Italy (AP) — Grandma Nicolina Petrozzo, 81, a bouncing, toothless 250-pounder, sailed for New York Tuesday night in search of a husband.

"I'm a very strong girl—and I have great love for this life," she chuckled happily as she puffed up the gangplank of the liner Olympia.

"I'm going to have a good look around for a husband who likes me," the Italian-born widow said. Mrs. Petrozzo emigrated to the United States in 1906 but returned to Italy in 1921. Now she will have 21 sons and grandchildren to meet her at the pier in New York.

"I think that's exactly what it is," one USDA official said Tuesday.

Benson said that those who signed 1957 wheat acreage agreements and who have farm allotments on other crops will be permitted to cancel their wheat agreements after the mailing of their last official notice of a farm allotment for 1957.

What It Means
Simplified, this is what the announcement means to Nebraska wheat farmers:

(1) The announcement affects only those who have signed up for the 1957 wheat reserve. Friday is the last day for signing up.

(2) The agreement may be changed or cancelled up to 15 days after receipt of the final allotment notice on corn, which is the only other crop in Nebraska under allotments.

(3) The corn allotment notice will be mailed near the end of February or the beginning of March. The farmer will probably actually have but 15 days from the mailing of the notice, USDA officials said here.

The announcement will have the effect of allowing state wheat farmers to watch weather developments and other factors for about the next six months (until the end of March or early April) before making a final decision on whether to place land in the soil bank.

Benson said the action was taken to permit winter wheat producers who have allotments on other crops to make their final decision after all allotment information for 1957 is available.

Under previous regulations wheat acreage reserve agreements for 1957, once signed by farmers, could not be cancelled by them.

Two NU Grads Rear Admirals In Navy Dental Corps

Two graduates of the University of Nebraska College of Dentistry are now among the six rear admirals in the U.S. Navy Dental Corps.

The college has just received word of the promotion of Capt. Clifford D. DeFord (1927) to rear admiral. He is commanding officer of the Navy Dental Clinic at the Philadelphia Naval Shipyard.

The other Nebraska graduate among the top six is Rear Admiral Alfred R. Harris (1923) chief of Dental Services at the Great Lakes Naval Training Station.

Don W. Warren, farm placement and clearance supervisor with the Nebraska Division of Employment Security here, has been named employment adviser for the Kansas City, Mo., of the Bureau regional office.

Warren will take place Wednesday, was announced by the Nebraska division, which said in his new duties he will assist in evaluating the employment security program in the Kansas City region's six state areas.

Record Sales, Profits Found First Half '35

...Government Agencies Report

By WILLIAM O. VARN

WASHINGTON (AP) — American manufacturers rang up record sales and profits in the first half of this year and headed into the fall with employment near record levels and consumer demand for goods at an all time high.

These developments were reported Tuesday by government agencies, which said: Manufacturing corporations sold a record 146 billion dollars worth of goods in the first six months of this year—nearly 10 billions more than in the first half of 1934 when the business boom was gathering force.

Their profits from these sales reached a new high of nearly eight billion dollars after federal taxes, a gain of 9 per cent over the first six months a year ago.

Employment in the U.S. was down on a seasonal basis by 700,000 in September but was still close to the record of 66,752,000 set in August. The drop to 66,071,000 was attributed solely to the return of students to school. The number of adult workers remained steady.

Jobless Decline

The number of jobless also declined by about 200,000 last month to slightly below two million. This was one of the lowest unemployment totals recorded in the last three years.

Consumer-time payment debt, indicating a continued high demand for goods, rose by another 324 million dollars in August to a record $29,427,000,000. The Federal Reserve Board said also that consumer credit—including such non-installment debt as charge accounts and single payments loans—stood at a record $37,503,000,000 at the end of August.

The board's report showed increases for all major types of time credit, with automobiles leading the way as usual. Auto debt rose by 153 million dollars in August and personal loans went up by 89 millions.

Installment debt was about 34 billion dollars above August a year ago. But the board said it has indications of a slowing up in the rate at which credit has been increasing.

The Commerce Department, in its employment report, noted that the number of jobholders remained above 66 million for the fourth straight month. It stressed that the decline was seasonal in nature. The number of farm workers went up by 153,000, while those in nonfarm industries went down by 804,000, accounting for a decline of 651,000 in the employed force.

The report on sales and earnings of manufacturing corporations was made jointly by the Federal Trade and Securities and Exchange Commissions.

Besides setting a sales record for the first half of any year, the two agencies said sales in the second quarter at $74,200,000,000 was the highest quarterly figure ever recorded. The total was 3 per cent greater than in the first quarter.

Among all industries, only the motor vehicles and equipment group failed to show an increase. This industry recorded a drop of 11 per cent in business the first six months, reflecting a decline in new car sales from the high levels of 1934.

Machinery and primary metal groups showed the biggest advances.

As for profits after taxes, only four of the 23 major groups failed to show gains. The motor vehicle group showed a drop of 34 per cent. Other declines were in leather, lumber and transportation equipment. The largest profit increase was 59 per cent for furniture and fixtures.

Oil Production In State Drops To Low Level

Nebraska oil production during August dropped to its lowest level since last February, collectors of Nebraska's oil and gas severance tax reported.

August production totaled 1,261,770 barrels from 571 leases, compared with 1,419,708 barrels from 559 leases the month before.

Top production month so far this year has been March, with 1,432,682 barrels.

Taxes collected in September on August production totaled $68,000. The tax from 132 gas leases in production raised this total to $69,780.

The taxes are collected by the state director of agriculture. The revenue is earmarked for schools.

Record Sales, Profits Found First Half '56

...Government Agencies Report

By WILLIAM O. VARN

WASHINGTON (AP) — American manufacturers rang up record sales and profits in the first half of this year and headed into the fall with employment near record levels and consumer demand for goods at an all time high.

These developments were reported Tuesday by government agencies, which said:

Manufacturing corporations sold a record 146 billion dollars worth of goods in the first six months of this year—nearly 10 billions more than in the first half of 1955 when the business boom was gathering force.

Their profits from these sales reached a new high of nearly eight billion dollars after federal taxes, a gain of 9 per cent over the first six months a year ago.

Employment in the U.S. was down on a seasonal basis by 700,000 in September but was still close to the record of 66,752,000 set in August. The drop to 66,071,000 was attributed solely to the return of students to school. The number of adult workers remained steady.

The board's report showed increases for all major types of time credit, with automobiles leading the way as usual. Auto debt rose by 153 million dollars in August and personal loans went up by 89 millions.

Installment debt was about 3 1/4 billion dollars above August a year ago. But the board said it has indications of a slowing up in the rate at which credit has been increasing.

The Commerce Department, in its employment report, noted that the number of jobholders remained above 66 million for the fourth straight month. It stressed

Per-Patient Cost $15 At City-County Health Clinic

By ALLEN EDEE

Star Staff Writer

City-County Health Department Director James T. Googe stated today that the average cost per patient going through the department clinic was $15.61 for the first eight months of 1956.

The cost is borne by the city and county.

The average cost per visit is $5.52, Dr. Googe stated. The director said the clinic load for the eight months included 73 venereal disease patients, 306 general medical patients and 43 persons who went through the chest clinic.

Dr. Googe stated approximately 10 patients go through the clinic each half day it is open.

TB Death Rate

He also reported that the death rate from tuberculosis for the county thus far in 1956 was about "half compared with the state."

Twenty-six cases were reported in the county with five reported deaths during 1956.

Dr. Googe noted that there have been eight polio cases in the county this year with one death compared to 11 cases in 1955 with no deaths.

He said 998 persons have received polio shots from the department this year.

Women Live Longer

And she showed statistics that women in Lancaster County live longer than men.

Deaths by age groups during 1956:

Under 1 year: 24 males, 12 females; 1 to 5 years, 5 males, 3 females; 6 to 24 years, 11 males, 6 females; 25 to 44 years, 32 males and 14 females; 45 to 64 years, 132 males and 64 females; 65 to 79 years, 160 males to 133 females;

Few Lincolnites Have Inquired About New Social Security Disability Benefits

Not more than six persons have made inquiries at the Social Security Administration office in Lincoln about the disability benefits which will be available to persons from 50 to 64.

Congress amended the Social Security Act last session to include benefits for persons from 50 to 64 who must meet this test:

"Inability to engage in any substantial gainful activity by reason of any medically determinable physical or mental impairment which can be expected to result in death or to be of long-continued and indefinite duration."

Under the law recently signed by President Eisenhower, persons who could meet the stringent requirements could start making application for the benefits Oct. 1, 1956, but the first checks will not be distributed until July 1, 1957.

A. F. Silver, manager of the Lincoln SSA, said Tuesday that not more than "a half-dozen persons" had inquired about it so far.

He added that the office has been able to do nothing more than take the names of those inquiring since the government forms needed to process the applications will not be available until next month.

Silver said he thinks no more persons have inquired about it because the act has been so well publicized and "people realize there will be no payments made until July of next year."

He further explained that his office has notified persons they know will be eligible for the benefits that they need not file applications before April, 1957. These are the people, he explained, who came under the disability "freeze" act last year.

Bloomfield Area Open To Telephone Firms

The Bloomfield area has been declared an "open territory" for telephone firms by the State Railway Commission, the Commission reported.

The decision, a spokesman said, grows out of failure of the Addison Telephone Co., of Bloomfield to make certain improvements in service by an Aug. 1 deadline.

The improvements had been ordered following a hearing on complaints lodged by subscribers.

In other telephone company decisions, the Commission:

Granted the Northeast Nebraska Telephone Co., South Sioux City, authority to establish a pay station rate of 10 cents per call.

Approved rates established by the Cumming County Telephone Co., Wisner, for loud speaking telephone sets, colored telephones and electronic secretary.

Authorized Campbell (Neb.) Telephone Co. to increase residence one-party rate by 15 cents and to discontinue extended area service except to Norman, Bladen and Upland.

NIXON SAYS ADLAI USED FLIM-FLAM

... On Living Costs

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (INS) — Vice President Richard M. Nixon lashed out at Adlai E. Stevenson Tuesday night for accusing President Eisenhower of "low road" campaigning and said the Democrat himself was using a "flim-flam game" in discussing the cost-of-living issue.

Nixon said Stevenson was "again resorting to the flim-flam game of covering up a weakness by attacking the strength of his opponent."

He charged that the Democratic presidential nominee "advocates a program which would destroy the value of the dollar."

Nixon hammered two main themes as he carried his "propaganda" aerial campaign through New England.

Satellite "Write-Off"

He criticized Stevenson on the cost-of-living question and against what he said was a past Democratic movement to "write off" satellite countries enslaved behind the Iron Curtain.

In other campaign speeches here Tuesday, Nixon also:

1. Defended President Eisenhower's decision not to use American troops in the Indo-China war on the ground that, without British and French participation, "we would be going in alone."

2. Charged that corruption was "covered up, defended and condoned" by former President Harry S. Truman and "those around him."

(At a GOP rally, Nixon ridiculed Stevenson as "a man who puts his arm around Harry Truman" and said Stevenson should "repudiate" Truman's charge that the administration has "racketeers" in it.)

3. Demanded that before Stevenson accuse Mr. Eisenhower of "low-road" campaigning "he had better clear up the low road on his own ticket."

4. Said Stevenson's latest suggestion for discontinuing H-bomb tests by agreement is "fraught with terrible peril for America."

"Utterly Ignorant"

Nixon said Stevenson is "utterly ignorant of simple scientific truths, of the Soviet's history of broken promises, and of the awful threat this presents to the safety of the free world."

The "low-road" debate was born out of Stevenson's protest against President Eisenhower's charge that the Democrats' allegation that Republicans favor only the big interests was "wicked" nonsense.

Nixon said he was glad to see Mr. Eisenhower reply, adding:

"It is time the President did it. Anyone who tried to divide the American people into classes is guilty of a wicked kind of nonsense and I'm glad the President called it what it was."

Robert Lowrey Is Found Dead; Suicide Blamed

Lincoln Star Special

RENO, Nev. — The district attorney's office reported here Tuesday that the death of 33-year-old Frank F. Lowrey of Hollywood, Calif., was due to suicide.

His body was found with two bullet wounds in the head on a dirt road near U.S. Highway 40 about 17 miles east of here. District Attorney A. Dyer Jensen said an autopsy report indicated Lowrey shot himself twice with a .22 caliber rifle.

Lowrey was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Lowrey of Fullerton, Calif., formerly of Nebraska City, Neb. An aunt, Mrs. Reuben Johnston, lives at Dunbar, Neb.

Few Lincolnites Have Inquired About New Social Security Disability Benefits

Not more than six persons have made inquiries at the Social Security Administration office in Lincoln about the disability benefits which will be available to persons from 50 to 65.

Congress amended the Social Security Act last session to include benefits for persons from 50 to 65 who must meet this test:

"Inability to engage in any substantial gainful activity by reason of any medically determinable physical or mental impairment which can be expected to result in death or to be of long-continued and indefinite duration."

Under the law recently signed by President Eisenhower, persons who could meet the stringent requirements could start making application for the benefits Oct. 1, 1956, but the first checks will not be distributed until July 1, 1957.

A. F. Silver, manager of the Lincoln SSA, said Tuesday that not more than "a half-dozen persons" had inquired about it so far.

He added that the office has been able to do nothing more than take the names of those inquiring since the government forms needed to process the applications will not be available until next month.

Silver said he thinks no more persons have inquired about it because the act has been so well publicized and "people realize there will be no payments made until July of next year."

He further explained that his office has notified persons they know will be eligible for the benefits that they need not file applications before April, 1957. These are the people, he explained, who came under the disability "freeze" act last year.

Bloomfield Area Open To Telephone Firms

The Bloomfield area has been declared an "open territory" for telephone firms by the State Railway Commission, the Commission reported.

The decision, a spokesman said, grows out of failure of the Addison Telephone Co., of Bloomfield to make certain improvements in service by an Aug. 1 deadline date.

The improvements have been ordered following a hearing on complaints lodged by subscribers. In other telephone company decisions, the Commission:

Granted the Northeast Nebraska Telephone Co., South Sioux City, authority to establish a pay station rate of 10 cents per call.

Approved rates established by the Cuming County Telephone Co., Wisner, for loud speaking telephone sets, colored telephones and electronic service.

Authorized Campbell (Neb.) Telephone Co. to increase residence one-party rate by 15 cents and to discontinue extended area service except to Norman, Bladen and Upland.

Here Today!

came the magic that made possible so wonderfully different a Ford. In the toughest on-the-road tests ever given to a car, this "Inner Ford" demonstrated that a '57 Ford rides you sweet and low . . . that it takes the bumps without a bobble, the curves without the pitch . . . and, that in power, it "takes nothing from nobody!" Nothing on wheels hurries, handles or holds up like a Ford!

A new kind of FORD with the mark of tomorrow

The Fairlane 500, finest Ford series, features five of the 19 longer, lower, beefier Fords for '57.

You're in for a thrill when you see this new knockout named Ford! But save your superlatives till you drive it! That's where the fun really starts.

It's fun just knowing that others who see you wish they were you. For you're commanding the longest, lowest, heaviest, biggest car ever to sport such a low price tag. There's head room to spare for a new fall bonnet . . . stretch-out space for a "Daddy Longlegs."

You'll find that the tough and ready new "Inner Ford" is built to take the roughest road you'll care to travel. The widespread frame members give this new kind of Ford a new sense of balance. New outboard rear springs and ball-joint front suspension let Ford take the turns without the tilt. New swept-back control arms help take bounce out of bumps.

Best of all, Ford's library-like quiet is built in. And the new "Inner Ford" is why. For never before in Ford's field has there been a body with so much extra bracing, with so much beef, and so firmly anchored to its foundation. And, to satisfy your yearning for faraway places, Ford packs the fabulous Thunderbird's own "big guns." You can choose from three big Silver Anniversary V-8's with up to 245 horsepower. There's also a new Mileage Maker Six with 144 horsepower, the most modern Six in the industry.

You can pick your Ford tailored to your desires and your budget, too! Choose from nine over-17-foot Fairlane or Fairlane 500 models or from five over-16-foot Custom or Custom 300 models. And if it's a station wagon you're after, take your pick from Ford's five longer, lower, new glamour wagons. Whichever model you select, you'll get a car that's been re-invented from the wheels up!

So there's the new kind of Ford. Big! Gracious! Spacious! A luxury car true—but one that any new-car buyer can easily afford. Come in! See what wonder-cars you can buy now at low Ford prices.

Guests From Cleveland

Arriving from Cleveland on Saturday evening were Mrs. W. Weaver and her young son, Danny, who will spend several days as the house guests of Mrs. Weaver's mother, Mrs. O. V. Calhoun, and her brother, David Calhoun.

During their stay in town Mrs. Weaver and her son also will visit Dr. Weaver's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur J. Weaver, Jr. Mrs. Weaver will be remembered as the former Jane Calhoun, Delta Gamma at Nebraska.

The Brides' Book Says:

Mr. and Mrs. Loren O. Graham will be host and hostess on Wednesday, Oct. 10, in pre-nuptial courtesy to their daughter, Patricia, and her fiancé, Gunnar Green of Oslo, Norway, whose wedding will be an event of Thursday, Oct. 11. Included among the 14 guests, all members of the family and bridal party, will be Mr. Green's mother, Mrs. Lill Green of Oslo.

Forming the centerpiece for the dinner table will be a Norwegian cake, Kransekake, traditionally a feature of the menu at pre-nuptial dinners in Norway. Included among recent courtesies for Miss Graham was the linen shower on Sunday afternoon for which Mrs. Donald Crook, Mrs. David Keene and Miss Mary Ellen Maronde were hostesses to 15 guests at the home of Mrs. Crook.

And on Saturday evening, Miss Ruth Odell entertained at dinner and a personal shower at the Hotel Cornhusker for the bride-to-be.

Honored on Sunday evening were Miss Joan Harrison and her fiancé, Paul F. Berg, who were presented a one-gift shower at a party given by Mr. and Mrs. Neil Worst of Milford and Mrs. Walden Brandt at the Brandt home in Pleasant Dale. The guests included members of the bridal party for Miss Harrison's and Mr. Berg's wedding, which will take place on Wednesday evening, Oct. 3, at Redeemer Lutheran Church.

Last Wednesday evening, Miss Harrison was the guest of honor at a miscellaneous shower for which Mrs. Ed Tichota was hostess at her home. The guests were former schoolmates of the bride-to-be.

Also included among recent courtesies for Miss Harrison was the shower given by Mrs. Dale Ossenkop and Mrs. B. G. Swartz, who entertained 25 guests on Sunday evening, Sept. 23, at the Swartz home, and the surprise luncheon given recently by a group of Miss Harrison's office co-workers at the College of Agriculture.

Announcing the members of her bridal party this morning is Miss Karen Smets, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Smets of Ord, whose betrothal to Jack Timmons, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Timmons of Valley, was announced recently.

The wedding will be an event of Sunday, Nov. 18, and the ceremony will be solemnized at 4 o'clock in the afternoon at the First Methodist Church in Ord.

The bride-elect has chosen her sister, Miss Cheryl Smets, as her maid of honor, and her matron of honor will be Mrs. Marvin Kesler. Miss Sue Simmons of Davenport, and Miss Mary Thompson will be bridesmaids.

Marvin Kesler will serve Mr. Timmons as best man, and seating the guests will be Francis Spain of Bellevue, Keith Leech, Humboldt, Norman Heinz and Walter O'Neill.

In pre-nuptial courtesy to Miss Sharon Ann Tavis and her fiancé,

CF Regional Meeting

MRS. A. W. KOESTER
Mrs. Amos W. Koester of Alliance, chairman of Region VII of the Camp Fire Girls of America, will preside at the regular fall meeting of the region's executive committee to be held Saturday at the Hotel Cornhusker.

Twenty-two executive committee and field staff members representing Camp Fire organizations in Colorado, Iowa, Kansas, Missouri, Nebraska and Wyoming will attend the all-day meeting.

Committee officers are Mrs. Koester, chairman; J. F. Yancey, St. Louis, Mo., vice chairman; Mrs. Charles Sweeney, Wichita, Kan., secretary; Herbert Walt, Lincoln, treasurer and finance chairman.

Entertain New Pledges

The Sigma Kappa Alumnae entertained in honor of the new pledges of the active chapter last Sunday afternoon at the home of Mrs. William Maly. The program included an informal skit given by the alumnae, and co-hostesses in charge of arrangements for the party were Mrs. Charles Weatherford Jr., and Miss Itha Frost.

We'll Keep Our Fingers Crossed

WELL, well and well—spin your dial to the Big Payoff TV program at 1 o'clock this afternoon and see how Dr. and Mrs. Arden Means of Holdrege fare in the matter of answers to some very difficult questions. Of course you remember that Mrs. Means is the former Pat Wieland, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. M. C. Wieland, and Kappa Kappa Gamma at Nebraska. And, you probably also remember that Dr. Means is a graduate of the University of Nebraska College of Dentistry, and is a member of Sigma Chi, and Xi Psi Phi. Dr. and Mrs. Means, who are in New York City on a vacation, appeared on the program Tuesday afternoon, but since they were the last of the contestants, time ran out before they could even get a good start. So this afternoon Dr. and Mrs. Means will be the first contestants, and if they are lucky enough to know the right answers they will return home with a variety of gifts which could include a mink coat for

Mrs. Means. If they are even luckier they may have the right answer to the Big Payoff question and that would mean a trip to the Isle of Capri. We'll keep our fingers crossed. Incidentally, a young Miss Susan Means is the house guest of her grandparents, Dr. and Mrs. Wieland, while her parents are in New York.

UNDERSTAND that Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Wake of Seward are having a house party this weekend, and that on Saturday they will bring their guests to Lincoln for the pre-game buffet at the Lincoln Country Club, and the game.

Their house guests during the week-end include a group of friends they met while on a world cruise, and the guest list will include Mr. and Mrs. D. O. Clark and Mr. and Mrs. Harry Carlson, all of Salt Lake City; Dr. and Mrs. Ralph Sproule of Milwaukee, Wis., and Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Snyder of Waukegan, Ill.

On Friday evening Mr. and

Educational Group Meets

The Nemaha Alumni Chapter of Kappa Delta Pi, national educational society, held its annual fall meeting last Saturday at the Town House in Omaha with Miss Elsie Rice of Lincoln, president, presiding.

Following Saturday's game Mr. and Mrs. Wake will return to Seward, and the out-of-towners will leave on Sunday evening for their homes.

JUST heard that Mrs. George Grimes of Oxnard, Calif., will be arriving this week-end for a short stay as the guest of her brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Devries.

WE HEAR that the Lincoln alumni of Iowa State College have planned a coffee hour in the Faculty Lounge at the Student Union immediately following the Iowa State-Nebraska game on Saturday. All alumni of Iowa State College are invited to attend.

Plans Party

Members of the Terpsichorean Dancing Club will meet at the Lincoln Hotel on Saturday evening for a Halloween party, the first dinner-dance of the season for the club, and hosts and hostesses will be the officers, Mr. and Mrs. Francis Parish, co-presidents; Mr. and Mrs. Judson Hughes, vice presidents; and Mrs. John Hall, treasurer; and Dr. and Mrs. Wayne Harn, co-secretaries.

Guests for the evening will be Mr. and Mrs. Harold Haman, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Hanson and Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Way.

Also attending will be the following new members of the club: Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Alexander, Mr. and Mrs. A. Clifford Anderson, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Browers, Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Cooney, Mr. and Mrs. William Fisher, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Hamlin, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Hibbs, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Joy, Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Perry, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Pidecock, Mr. and Mrs. C. O. Porter, Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Randolph, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Stockland, Mr. and Mrs. Neil Thompson and Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Warner.

Lincoln PTA Activities

More than 100 parents attended the 7th grade visiting day program at Irving School on Tuesday morning which was followed by a luncheon in the school cafeteria.

Following classes in the afternoon, the parents and 7th grade teachers were honored at a tea for which Irving PTA members were hostesses. Members of the committee in charge of arrangements for the tea were Ruth Rogers, Mrs. Norman Leuthausen, Mrs. Wilbur Winney and Mrs. Richard Hufnagle.

The members of the board of Park PTA will meet at 1:15 o'clock Friday afternoon in room 116 of the school.

Currently, the PTA is sponsoring a series of get-acquainted coffees for the feminine members of the PTA. The room mothers are serving as hostesses for the series which opened last Friday and will continue each morning this week.

Officers Are Named

Mrs. Del Summerhalder, vice president, and Mrs. Allan Holbert, secretary.

The evening's program also included a talk by Bob Schlatter of the University of Nebraska department of radio and educational TV.

THE STAR IN SUBURBIA

PATRICIAN HEIGHTS

We'll have to add an extra welcome sign and lengthen the welcome mat before we continue with our Suburbia news this morning. Although the new residents out in Patrician Heights were busy hanging household furnishings, re-arranging furniture, clipping the giant grass in their back yards and chatting over the fence with a neighbor, they still had time for a morning chat to let us know about their families—where they resided before moving to Patrician Heights—and their most recent activities in the neighborhood.

First of all we will introduce the E. L. Flannigans, who moved into the neighborhood last Thursday. Mr. and Mrs. Flannigan, with their five children, Nancy, Gary, Steven, Mitchell and Mark, arrived in Lincoln from Miles City, Mont. in June.

Next on the list of new comers is Mr. and Mrs. John Churchill, Dayle, Jeanne and Bob, who resided at 33rd and Starr before moving into the community. The three Churchill children are attending Sacred Heart Grade School.

And recently moving into the community from Huskerville were Mr. and Mrs. D. F. Dankers, Danny and Kathleen Ann. Mr. Dankers is a member of the State Historical Society and is an instructor in history and political science at the University. Visitors at the Dankers' residence last Sunday were Mr. Dankers' grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Dankers, Upland, his aunt, Mrs. J. P. Spence and Mr. and Mrs. Carl Kinney.

Before we close the books for this morning's news we will add one more family to our list of new comers. The family is Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Walls and Sammy, who moved to Patrician Heights about a month ago. The Walls' are former residents of 19th and F St. in Lincoln.

We feel like mistress Robin-hoods this morning—for in every section of the neighborhood we hit the target for social news. Our aim was perfect when we hit the Froseth residence, for we caught the members of the family in the process of preparing to move, and we certainly didn't want the family to leave without bidding them a fond adieu. And as our arrow darted throughout the rest of the community we landed and caught news of new residents, bridge parties, vacationers and house guests.

Returning home last week after spending the last summer weeks at her summer home in the Big Horn Mountains of Wyoming was Mrs. M. P. Caplan.

We Hear That

Returning home last week after spending the last summer weeks at her summer home in the Big Horn Mountains of Wyoming was Mrs. M. P. Caplan.

State Council Elects

The regular fall meeting of the Nebraska Council of Women's State Organizations was held Tuesday at the YWCA in Lincoln. Officers of the council were re-elected for another term and include (from the left) Mrs. Charles Sherman, president; Miss Emily Brickley, vice president; and Miss Rose Baker, secretary-treasurer, all of Lincoln.

YW Leaders To Hear Talks

The Lincoln YWCA will hold a round-up training session for volunteer leaders next Monday beginning at 9 o'clock at the YWCA. Featured speaker will be Mrs. Lyle Johnson of Omaha, chairman of the Omaha YW women's program and member of the young-adult council of the National YW.

Mrs. Clark Jeary and Mrs. Arthur George also will address the group, and Mrs. Frederick A. Roblee and members of her volunteer leaders committee will discuss orientation for the new leaders.

Bringing Up Baby

MINIS COLLECTED BY Mrs. Dan Barber (MOTHER OF 5)

Variations on a theme. Snipping baby's fingernails sometimes presents a bit of a problem since infants usually keep their little fists tightly clenched. Two mothers suggest these solutions:

1. Snip 'em directly after a feeding when baby is drowsy, his fingers relaxed. Run baby's fingernails through a bit of baby powder to outline snipping area.
2. For a sit-up baby: place baby on your lap in front of a mirror. Self-reflected glory is absorbing.

Caes of approval are usually the case when you offer baby Gerber Strained Bananas. That's because they have a natural banana flavor, a delicate appealing color and a creamy-smooth texture. Doctors specify fully ripe banana as an early food not only because babies like the taste, but because they provide energy-giving carbohydrates in easy-to-digest form. Only fully ripe fruit

League Plans 'Follies'

At the October meeting of the Junior League of Lincoln, held Tuesday afternoon at the Hotel Cornhusker, the members voted to sponsor a "Follies" production on Dec. 4 and 5, to raise funds for the organization's charitable and community projects.

Mrs. C. D. Kimball was named chairman for the "Follies".

At a luncheon preceding the meeting, the following new members were introduced to the league: Mrs. Robert Berkshire (Joan Noble), Mrs. Warren K. Dalton (Marjorie Brunning), Miss Patricia Lee Ellis, Mrs. Don Edmund (Nancy Noble), Mrs. Emerson Jones (DeMaris Morton), Mrs. William Kinsey (Joan McMahon), Mrs. Gordon A. Luikart (Mary Catherine Lloyd), Mrs. John McCown (Kate Barnes), Mrs. Robert Reynolds (Sarah Lester), Mrs. Robert Sherwood (Martha Lee Miller), Mrs. Richard Spangler (Roberta Russell), Mrs. Jonathan Waterbury (Joan Shaw), and Mrs. Norman Wilnes (Marjorie Arndt).

On Thursday evening, the new provisional members, their husbands and escorts, will be entertained at a buffet supper to be held at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Donald Purvis.

Guests From Cleveland

Arriving from Cleveland on Saturday evening were Mrs. O. V. Calhoun and her young son, Danny, who will spend several days as the house guests of Mrs. Weaver's mother, Mrs. O. V. Calhoun, and her brother, David Calhoun.

During their stay in town Mrs. Weaver and her son also will visit Dr. Weaver's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur J. Weaver, Jr. Mrs. Weaver will be remembered as the former Jane Calhoun, Delta Gamma at Nebraska.

The Brides' Book Says:

Mr. and Mrs. Loren O. Graham will be host and hostess on Wednesday, Oct. 10, in pre-nuptial courtesy to their daughter, Patricia, and her fiancé, Gunnar Green of Oslo, Norway, whose wedding will be an event of Thursday, Oct. 11. Included among the 14 guests, all members of the family and bridal party, will be Mr. Green's mother, Mrs. Lill Green of Oslo.

Forming the centerpiece for the dinner table will be a Norwegian cake, Kransekake, traditionally a feature of the menu at pre-nuptial dinners in Norway. Included among recent courtesies for Miss Graham was the linen shower on Sunday afternoon for which Mrs. Donald Crook, Mrs. David Keene and Miss Mary Ellen Maronde were hostesses to 15 guests at the home of Mrs. Crook.

And on Saturday evening, Miss Ruth Odell entertained at dinner and a personal shower at the Hotel Cornhusker for the bride-to-be.

Honored on Sunday evening were Miss Joan Harrison and her fiancé, Paul F. Berg, who were presented a one-gift shower at a party given by Mr. and Mrs. Neil Worst of Milford and Mr. and Mrs. Walden Brandt at the Brandt home in Pleasant Dale. The guests included members of the bridal party for Miss Harrison's and Mr. Berg's wedding, which will take place on Wednesday evening, Oct. 3, at Redeemer Lutheran Church.

Last Wednesday evening, Miss Harrison was the guest of honor at a miscellaneous shower for which Mrs. Ed Tichota was hostess at her home. The guests were former schoolmates of the bride-to-be.

Also included among recent courtesies for Miss Harrison was the shower given by Mrs. Dale Ossenkop and Mrs. B. G. Swartz, who entertained 25 guests on Sunday evening, Sept. 23, at the Swartz home, and the surprise luncheon given recently by a group of Miss Harrison's office co-workers at the College of Agriculture.

Announcing the members of her bridal party this morning is Miss Karen Smets, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Smets of Ord, whose betrothal to Jack Timmons, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Timmons of Valley, was announced recently.

The wedding will be an event of Sunday, Nov. 18, and the ceremony will be solemnized at 4 o'clock in the afternoon at the First Methodist Church in Ord.

The bride-elect has chosen her sister, Miss Cheryl Smets, as her maid of honor, and her matron of honor will be Mrs. Marvin Kesler, Miss Sue Simmons of Hooper, Miss Mary Sorensen of Davenport, and Miss Mary Thompson will be bridesmaids. Marvin Kesler will serve Mr. Timmons as best man, and seating the guests will be Francis Spain of Bellevue, Keith Leech, Humboldt, Norman Heinz and Walter O'Neil.

In pre-nuptial courtesy to Miss Sharon Ann Tavis and her fiancé,

We'll Keep Our Fingers Crossed

WELL, well and well—spin your dial to the Big Payoff TV program at 1 o'clock this afternoon and see how Dr. and Mrs. Arden Means of Holdrege fare in the matter of answers to some very difficult questions. Of course you remember that Mrs. Means is the former Pat Wieland, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. M. C. Wieland, and Kappa Kappa Gamma at Nebraska. And, you probably also remember that Dr. Means is a graduate of the University of Nebraska College of Dentistry, and is a member of Sigma Chi, and Xi Psi Phi.

Dr. and Mrs. Means, who are in New York City on a vacation, appeared on the program Tuesday afternoon, but since they were the last of the contestants, time ran out before they could even get a good start.

So this afternoon Dr. and Mrs. Means will be the first contestants, and if they are lucky enough to know the right answers they will return home with a variety of gifts which could include a mink coat for

Mrs. Means. If they are even luckier they may have the right answer of the Big Payoff question and that would mean a trip to the Isle of Capri. We'll keep our fingers crossed.

Incidentally — young Miss Susan Means is the house guest of her grandparents, Dr. and Mrs. Wieland, while her parents are in New York.

UNDERSTAND that Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Wake of Seward are having a house party this weekend, and that on Saturday they will bring their guests to Lincoln for the pre-game buffet at the Lincoln Country Club, and the game.

Their house guests during the week-end include a group of friends they met while on a world cruise, and the guest list will include Mr. and Mrs. D. O. Clark and Mr. and Mrs. Harry Carlson, all of Salt Lake City; Dr. and Mrs. Ralph Sproule of Milwaukee, Wis., and Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Snyder of Waukegan, Ill.

On Friday evening Mr. and

Mrs. Wake will have a barbecue party at their home to honor the visitors, and on the invitation list are several couples from Lincoln.

Following Saturday's game Mr. and Mrs. Wake will return to Seward, and the out-of-towners will leave on Sunday evening for their homes.

JUST heard that Mrs. George Grimes of Oxnard, Calif., will be arriving this week-end for a short stay as the guest of her brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Devries.

WE HEAR that the Lincoln alumni of Iowa State College have planned a coffee hour in the Faculty Lounge at the Student Union immediately following the Iowa State-Nebraska game on Saturday. All alumni of Iowa State College are invited to attend.

Lincoln members attending were Darlene Gerlich, Ella Mae Hurlburt, Elva McFie, Shirley Martin, Hazel Palmer, Anna Pfister, Hazel Scott, Esther Schubert and Elizabeth Wright.

Educational Group Meets

The Nemaha Alumni Chapter of Kappa Delta Pi, national educational society, held its annual fall meeting last Saturday at the Town House in Omaha with Miss Elsie Rice of Lincoln, president, presiding.

Guest speaker was Prof. Cecil Hadgraft of the University of Queensland, Australia, a Fulbright exchange instructor this semester at the University of Omaha. Prof. Hadgraft was introduced by James Porterfield of the University of Omaha, who was in charge of the program.

Miss Irene Roberts of Omaha was named vice president to succeed Edward Steck of Omaha.

Plans Party

Members of the Terschichorean Dancing Club will meet at the Lincoln Hotel on Saturday evening for a Halloween party, the first dinner-dance of the season for the club, and hosts and hostesses will be the officers, Mr. and Mrs. Francis Parish, co-presidents; Mr. and Mrs. Judson Hughes, vice presidents; Mr. and Mrs. John Hall, treasurers; and Dr. and Mrs. Wayne Harm, co-secretaries.

Guests for the evening will be Mr. and Mrs. Harold Haman, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Ralson and Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Way.

Also attending will be the following new members of the club: Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Alexander, Mr. and Mrs. A. Clifford Anderson, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Bowers, Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Cooney, Mr. and Mrs. Burrell Dunn, Mr. and Mrs. William Fisher, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Hamlin, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Hibbs, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Joy, Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Perry, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Pidcock, Mr. and Mrs. C. O. Porter, Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Randolph, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Stockland, Mr. and Mrs. Neil Thompson and Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Warner.

Lincoln PTA Activities

More than 160 parents attended the 7th grade visiting day program at Irving School on Tuesday morning which was followed by a luncheon in the school cafeteria.

Following classes in the afternoon, the parents and 7th grade teachers were honored at a tea for which Irving PTA members were hostesses. Members of the committee in charge of arrangements for the tea were Ruth Rogers, Mrs. Norman Leuthausen, Mrs. Wilbur Winney and Mrs. Richard Huifangle.

The members of the board of Park PTA will meet at 1:15 o'clock Friday afternoon in room 116 of the school.

Currently, the PTA is sponsoring a series of get-acquainted coffees for the feminine members of the PTA. The room mothers are serving as hostesses for the series which opened last Friday and will continue each morning this week.

Officers Are Named

Alumnae members of Gamma Alpha Chi national advertising honorary met Tuesday evening at the home of Mrs. William Maly to honor the new officers of the group.

The officers are (from the left) Mrs. Gary Fusselman, president;

Mrs. Del Summerhalder, vice president, and Mrs. Allan Holbert, secretary.

The evening's program also included a talk by Bob Schlatter of the University of Nebraska department of radio and educational TV.

THE STAR IN SUBURBIA

PATRICIAN HEIGHTS

We'll have to add an extra welcome sign and lengthen the welcome mat before we continue with our Suburbia news this morning. Although the new residents out in Patrician Heights were busy hanging household furnishings, re-arranging furniture, clipping the giant grass in their back yards and chatting over the fence with a neighbor, they still had time for a morning chat to let us know about their families—where they resided before moving to Patrician Heights—and their most recent activities in the neighborhood.

First of all we will introduce the E. L. Flannigans, who moved into the neighborhood last Thursday. Mr. and Mrs. Flannigan, with their five children, Nancy, Gary, Steven, Mitchell and Mark, arrived in Lincoln from Miles City, Mont. in June.

Next on the list of new comers is Mr. and Mrs. John Churchill, Dayle, Jeane and Bob, who resided at 33rd and Starr before moving into the community. The three Churchill children are attending Sacred Heart Grade School.

And recently moving into the community from Haskerville were Mr. and Mrs. D. F. Dankers, Danny and Kathleen Ann. Mr. Dankers is a member of the State Historical Society and is an instructor in history and political science at the University. Visitors at the Dankers' residence last Sunday were Mr. Dankers' grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Dankers, Upland, his aunt, Mrs. J. P. Spence and Mr. and Mrs. Carl Kinney.

Before we close the books for this morning's news we will add one more family to our list of new comers. The family is Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Walls and Sammy, who moved to Patrician Heights about a month ago. The Walls' are former residents of 19th and F St. in Lincoln.

We feel like mistress Robin-hoods this morning—for in every section of the neighborhood we hit the target for social news. Our aim was perfect when we hit the Froseth residence, for we caught the members of the family in the process of preparing to move, and we certainly didn't want the family to leave without bidding them a fond adieu. And as our arrow darted throughout the rest of the community we landed and caught news of new residents, bridge parties, vacationers and house guests.

First we will say "good-by" to Lt. and Mrs. D. C. Froseth and Darlen, who will be leaving soon for their new home in St. Louis. Mo. Lt. Froseth, who has been stationed in Lincoln for thirty-two months, will begin his duties at St. Louis the first of November.

And new residents in Country Club Manor are Mr. and Mrs. Duane Schleicher, Beverly and Damon. The Schleicher family arrived in Lincoln three weeks ago from Beaver City.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Husted, who resided at 2027 Griffith Street for five years, have settled into their new home in Country Club Manor. Understand that several "welcome courtesies" have been extended to the newcomers since they moved into the neighborhood last week.

A week end trip to Kansas City, Mo. is being planned by Mr. and Mrs. Michael Bogdanovich and Patti Jo. The Bogdanovich three-some will leave early Saturday and remain until Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Hillard and their family in Kansas City.

Vacation-time has about drawn to a close out and around Country Club Manor. However, there are still a few of the late-late travelers who prefer to vacation during the cooler months. Included in these late-travelers were Capt. and Mrs. Charles McGates, who spent two weeks in San Francisco, Calif., and New Mexico. While in New Mexico, the McGates visited Mrs. McGates' parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Cottam. The couple returned home last Thursday.

A date to be remembered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert R. McGregar, is Sept. 13, for it was then that little Konelle Rae McGregar arrived at St. Elizabeth Hospital. The McGregars have three other children, Bobby, Ricky and Rosemary.

Entertaining members of the Country Club Manor bridge eight-some, Thursday afternoon, will be Mrs. Vern Vogt, who will be hostess at a dessert luncheon before the bridge game. Guests who are members of the club will be Mrs. Vern Walker, Mrs. Jim Wirth, Mrs. John Hoffman, Mrs. Ronald Dudley, Mrs. Emmett Taylor, Mrs. Sidney Spilseth and Mrs. Tom Hatton.

Also entertaining at lunch and bridge was Mrs. George Hacker, who had as her guests last Friday, Mrs. F. L. Swihart, Mrs. Ray Palmer and Mrs. Paul Peito.

Guests at the Vern Walker home last week end were Mr. and Mrs. Ray Theil, Pam and Ray of Hastings. The Theils left Sunday evening.

We Hear That

Returning home last week after spending the last summer weeks at her summer home in the Big Horn Mountains of Wyoming was Mrs. M. P. Caplan.

Kuhner Wants Issue Of New Jail On November 6 Ballot

Must Decide By Tuesday

By VIRGIL FALLOON
Star Staff Writer

Should Lancaster County build a new jail not exceeding $225,000 from inheritance tax funds?

Commissioner Chris Kuhner proposed Tuesday that this question be put to the voters at the Nov. 6 general election.

And, Board Chairman Russell Brehm ordered a public hearing be held next Tuesday, 10 a.m., as to whether the issue should be placed on the ballot.

Tuesday Deadline

The Board must decide by next Tuesday whether or not to authorize such an election in order to meet other requirements for the Nov. 6 vote.

The proposition, if approved by the voters would authorize the county Board to appropriate and expend up to $225,000 for a new jail to be built at the present jail site.

Two weeks ago, Kuhner made a second attempt to obtain a new estimate on a new jail to house prisoners.

'Moral Obligation'

But, Del Lienemann and Brehm, while in sympathy with the need for a new jail, said the county had a "moral obligation" to wait until next June 1 for any action by the City-County Building Authority. "Let's have no stumbling blocks next Tuesday," Kuhner said when his Tuesday's resolution for a vote on the jail issue was tabled.

Kuhner said the new jail issue should be put before the voters because:

1. The present county jail is antiquated and inadequate for handling prisoners.

2. The present capacity is not sufficient for their safekeeping.

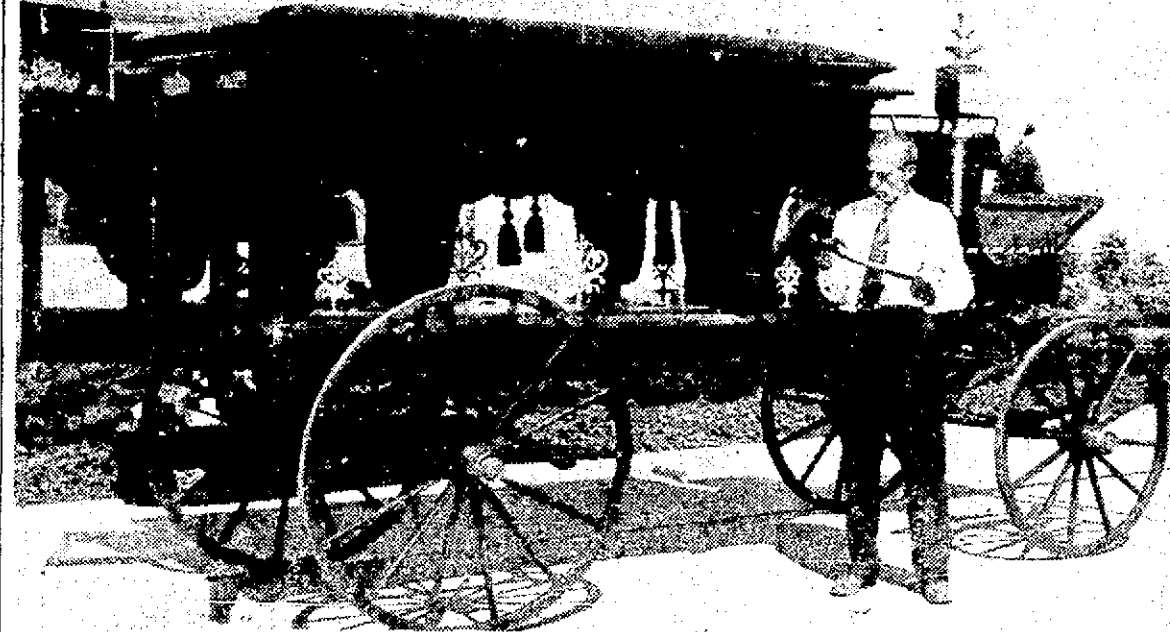

Enough Money

3. There are sufficient inheritance tax funds to build a new jail without additional taxation on personal and real property.

The Board noted that the present inheritance tax balance is $215,000 but that at least $22,000 would be available by the time authorization for a new jail could be obtained from the voters.

The Aug. 31 balance was $210,246.98, but approximately $5,100 more was paid in during September.

Museum Director Examines Old Hearse

Nurse, 33, Pleads Innocent In Deaths Of Two Children

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (AP) — Children's nurse Virginia B. Jaspers, 33, was charged with two counts of manslaughter Tuesday in a Superior Court bench warrant and immediately entered a plea of innocent.

Judge William J. Shea issued the bench warrant after Coroner James J. Corrigan earlier had found Miss Jaspers criminally responsible for the deaths of two infants, under her care, during "uncontrolled fits of temper."

Miss Jaspers' plea was entered for her by one of her lawyers, Francis J. Moran, as she stood without apparent emotion before the bench. Denied bail since her arrest on a coroner's warrant Aug. 27, she was accompanied to court by a jail matron.

Judge Shea, in accepting her plea, set Oct. 16 as the date for her trial.

Specifically she is accused of causing the deaths of 11-day-old Abbey Kapsinow last August, and Jennifer Leona Malkan, about two months old, in 1951.

State's Atty. Abraham S. Ullman on whose application the bench warrant was issued, said the Statute of Limitations ruled out a third count involving the death of Cynthia Hubbard, infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Allen Hubbard, Guilford in 1948.

Petition Filed For Directorship Of OPPD

A petition for a four year term as director of the Omaha Public Power District filed by M. M. Meyers of Omaha has been accepted, the office of Secretary of State Frank Marsh reported Tuesday.

The office reported Meyers' petitions contained 10,511 acceptable signatures. Only 7,412 were needed.

Horse-Drawn Hearse Given To Nebraska

One of the last horse-drawn hearses in Nebraska found a new home Tuesday when it was given to the Nebraska State Historical Society by the family of the late C. J. From of Newman Grove.

Museum Director Marvin F. Kivett said the hearse, which he termed in "remarkably good condition," belonged to the From family which had one of the state's pioneer undertaking establishments.

Mrs. Ted Jacobson of Newman Grove, daughter of Mr. From, said her father purchased the hearse from the Rock Falls Manufacturing Co. in Illinois in the late 1890's and that it was in use until 1914.

Stored In Paper

The satin-smooth black vehicle, with silver lamps and trim and black fringed curtains, has been covered with heavy paper and stored in a Newman Grove hearse house since that time.

Mrs. Jacobson said the hearse was used once in connection with a funeral in the 1930's when roads were too muddy to carry a motor-driven hearse.

The antique vehicle was used in a parade at Newman Grove a few years ago and also in parades at the Fremont and Columbus centennials this past summer.

Offered $300
An antique dealer in Chicago offered the family $300 for the hearse recently, but the family decided it would be a more fitting memorial in the Historical Society since "it is really a part of early Nebraska."

Transported to Lincoln by truck, the hearse contained other memorabilia of bygone days including a walnut casket and gloves and armbands worn by pallbearers in early times.

Kivett said the hearse will be ready for display in about two or three weeks and will be placed in the Pioneer Gallery of the Historical Society's museum at 1500 R Street.

$5,400 Low Bid On 'Walk' Signs

The Highway Equipment and Supply Co. has submitted the low bid of $5,400 at the City Hall for supplying 40 "walk" and "don't walk" signs for downtown intersections.

The signs will be placed at the intersections of O with 9th, 10th, 11th, 12th and 13th. A total of eight signs will be placed at each intersection.

The purchase and delivery of cable needed in connection with the installation is expected to hold up use of the signs for about two or three months.

Crash Hurls Mother, Son From Auto

Two Lincolmites were thrown from their car and another suffered slight injuries in a two-car collision at 24th and P late Tuesday afternoon.

Mrs. Emma Pickering, 72, of 2417 T, suffered pavement burns and a possible left shoulder separation when she was thrown from a car driven by her son Sam R. Simington, 50, of 1118 Q.

The elderly woman was treated and hospitalized overnight for observation at St. Elizabeth's Hospital where she was reported in fairly good condition.

Her son was treated for pavement burns to his back and right hand when he was also thrown out of the right door of the car after the impact of the collision.

Went on 80 Feet
The Simington vehicle traveled 36 feet over a curb after the occupants were tossed from the car, police said.

Mrs. Eleanor L. Buettgenback, 34, of 1722 No. 58th, suffered slight injury to her left arm. She was treated at the hospital and later released along with Simington.

Police said Simington was driving north and Mrs. Buettgenback was driving west in another car at the time of collision between the two cars.

The force of the impact sent the Buettgenback car slamming into a city light pole.

Police ticketed Simington for failure-to-yield right-of-way.

Must Decide By Tuesday

By VIRGIL FALLOON
Star Staff Writer

Should Lancaster County build a new jail not exceeding $225,000 from inheritance tax funds?

Commissioner Chris Kuhner proposed Tuesday that this question be put to the voters at the Nov. 6 general election.

And, Board Chairman Russell Brehm ordered a public hearing be held next Tuesday, 10 a.m., as to whether the issue should be placed on the ballot.

Tuesday Deadline

The Board must decide by next Tuesday whether or not to authorize such an election in order to meet other requirements for the Nov. 6 vote.

The proposition, if approved by the voters would authorize the County Board to appropriate and expend up to $225,000 for a new jail to be built at the present jail site.

Two weeks ago, Kuhner made a second attempt to obtain a new cost estimate on a new jail to house 60 prisoners.

'Moral Obligation'

But, Del Lienemann and Brehm, while in sympathy with the need for a new jail, said the county had a "moral obligation" to wait until next June 1 for any action by the City-County Building Authority.

"Let's have no stumbling blocks next Tuesday," Kuhner said when his Tuesday's resolution for a vote on the jail issue was tabled.

Kuhner said the new jail issue should be put before the voters because:

1. The present county jail is antiquated and inadequate for handling prisoners.
2. The present capacity is not sufficient for their safekeeping.
3. There are sufficient inheritance tax funds to build a new jail without additional taxation on personal and real property.

The Board noted that the present inheritance tax balance is $215,000 but that at least $22,000 would be available by the time authorization for a new jail could be obtained from the voters.

The Aug. 31 balance was $210,246.98, but approximately $5,100 more was paid in during September.

Museum Director Examines Old Hearse

Nebraska State Historical Society Museum Director Marvin F. Kivett looks at a pallbearer's

the property of the Society Tuesday as a gift from the family of the late C. J. From of Newman Grove. (Star Photo.)

Nurse, 33, Pleads Innocent In Deaths Of Two Children

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (AP) — Children's nurse Virginia B. Jaspers, 33, was charged with two counts of manslaughter Tuesday in a Superior Court bench warrant and immediately entered a plea of innocent.

Judge William J. Shea issued the bench warrant after Coroner James J. Corrigan earlier had found Miss Jaspers criminally responsible for the deaths of two infants, under her care, during "uncontrolled fits of temper."

Miss Jaspers' plea was entered for her by one of her lawyers, Francis J. Moran, as she stood without apparent emotion before the bench. Denied bail since her arrest on a coroner's warrant Aug. 27, she was accompanied to court by a jail matron.

Judge Shea, in accepting her plea, set Oct. 16 as the date for her trial.

Specifically she is accused of causing the deaths of 11-day-old Abbey Kapsinow last August, and Jennifer Leona Malkin, about two months old, in 1951.

State's Atty. Abraham S. Ullman on whose application the bench warrant was issued, said the Statute of Limitations ruled out a third count involving the death of Cynthia Hubbard, infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Allen Hubbard, Guilford in 1948.

Petition Filed For Directorship Of OPPD

A petition for a four year term as director of the Omaha Public Power District filed by M. M. Meyers of Omaha has been accepted, the office of Secretary of State Frank Marsh reported Tuesday.

The office reported Meyers' petitions contained 10,511 acceptable signatures. Only 7,412 were needed.

Horse-Drawn Hearse Given To Nebraska

One of the last horse-drawn hearses in Nebraska found a new home Tuesday when it was given to the Nebraska State Historical Society by the family of the late C. J. From of Newman Grove.

Museum Director Marvin F. Kivett said the hearse, which he termed in "remarkably good condition," belonged to the From family which had one of the state's pioneer undertaking establishments.

Mrs. Ted Jacobson of Newman Grove, daughter of Mr. From, said her father purchased the hearse from the Rock Falls Manufacturing Co. in Illinois in the late 1890's and that it was in use until 1914.

Stored In Paper

The satin-smooth black vehicle, with silver lamps and trim and black fringed curtains, has been covered with heavy paper and stored in a Newman Grove hearse house since that time.

Mrs. Jacobson said the hearse was used once in connection with a funeral in the 1930's when roads were too muddy to carry a motor-driven hearse.

The antique vehicle was used in a parade at Newman Grove a few years ago and also in parades at the Fremont and Columbus centennials this past summer.

Offered $300

An antique dealer in Chicago offered the family $300 for the hearse recently, but the family decided it would be a more fitting memorial in the Historical Society since "it is really a part of early Nebraska."

Transported to Lincoln by truck, the hearse contained other memorabilia of bygone days including a walnut casket and gloves and armbands worn by pallbearers in early times.

Kivett said the hearse will be ready for display in about two or three weeks and will be placed in the Pioneer Gallery of the Historical Society's museum at 1500 R Street.

Crash Hurls Mother, Son From Auto

Two Lincolmites were thrown from their car and another suffered slight injuries in a two-car collision at 24th and P late Tuesday afternoon.

Mrs. Emma Pickering, 72, of 2417 T, suffered pavement burns and a possible left shoulder separation when she was thrown from a car driven by her son Sam R. Simington, 50, of 1118 Q.

The elderly woman was treated and hospitalized overnight for observation at St. Elizabeth's Hospital where she was reported in fairly good condition.

Her son was treated for pavement burns to his back and right hand when he was also thrown out of the right door of the car after the impact of the collision.

Went on 80 Feet

The Simington vehicle traveled 80 feet over a curb after the occupants were tossed from the car, police said.

Mrs. Eleanor L. Buettgenback, 34, of 1722 No. 58th, suffered slight injury to her left arm. She was treated at the hospital and later released along with Simington.

Police said Simington was driving north and Mrs. Buettgenback was driving west in another car at the time of collision between the two cars.

The force of the impact sent the Buettgenback car slamming into a city light pole.

Police ticketed Simington for failure-to-yield right-of-way.

$5,400 Low Bid On 'Walk' Signs

The Highway Equipment and Supply Co. has submitted the low bid of $5,400 at the City Hall for supplying 40 "walk" and "don't walk" signs for downtown intersections.

The signs will be placed at the intersections of O with 9th, 10th, 11th, 12th and 13th. A total of eight signs will be placed at each intersection.

The purchase and delivery of cable needed in connection with the installation is expected to hold up use of the signs for about two or three months.

Here is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add three. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.

BAERING DOWN ON THE NEWS By Arthur 'Bugs' Baer

There is a time and a place for everything except a time and a place. That was demonstrated when Winsome Churchill took sides in a parliamentary debate by keeping silent.

The old word - mixer and phrase-grinder sat there as tight-lipped as a drinking hoss. And had no more to say about naming the baby than the baby has.

When Winnie dummies up at a debate then the millenium has stripped its gears. The old oratorical marksman holds all trap-shooting medals for the low house, the high house and the optional bird.

It was the early autumn argur-torium. When the foolish ant stores away its winter reserve. And the wise grasshopper goes to the Riviera, Capri or Bermuda.

Winnie looks through the glass darkly like a goldfish in a dry bowl. His big moment was when he said, "We shall fight in the streets, we shall fight on the beaches and we shall fight in the hills." Just like an English couple on a bank holiday.

They're afraid the old boy will churn through the Suez Canal with an outboard motor attached to his coat-tails.

He saved England twice by subdividing the inevitable and gift-wrapping pigs in a poke.

We have gломmed him in victory, we have gandered him in defeat. But never have we seen him clam up when there were questions to be answered. And answers to be questioned.

Huskers Should Be In Best Condition For I-State; Dillard Given Go-Ahead

By DON BRYANT
Sports Editor, The Star

Nebraska's Cornhuskers should be in the best physical shape of the season when they open Big Seven play against Iowa State Saturday.

The "if" involves halfbacks Willie Greenlaw and Bennie Dillard. Coach Pete Elliott put it this way:

"If Bennie and Willie can go full speed Saturday we will be in better shape than we were against South Dakota and Ohio State."

The only absentee in the Cyclone game is expected to be Max Kitzelman, alternate club center who strained a shoulder against the Buckeyes.

There's an "outside chance" that Kitzelman may be able to play—"he is making a rapid recovery because he wants to play real bad"—but the mid-week report lists him as doubtful.

Dillard so far has held up good in contact work this week, several times showing fine flashes of speed, and Elliott said Tuesday afternoon that "barring injury this week, he'll be ready to go."

Greenlaw has been getting a large portion of scrimmage time and he's rounding into shape. But his injured member prevents him from cutting loose with some fancy work.

Tuesday the Huskers spent some time on offensive and defensive scrimmage, but the action was confined to spots and not to a team effort.

"We're going to work real hard on the basic details of our offense and defense," Elliott said.

Queried about pass defense, Pete said: "We'll work on pass defense as hard as we have all year—which has been a lot. It's one of the most important parts of defensive football."

Elliott remarked that Iowa State this year seems to have better balance between passing and running. In years past, the Cyclones have come up with some heavy air work, but the word this season is that they have a strong ground attack.

Light Duty

Tackle LaVerne Torrence and backs Leo George and Larry Naviaux didn't take part in Tuesday's limited scrimmage. They are still nursing bumps from the Ohio State game, but will be okay for Saturday.

Scouts Out

Assistant Coach Don Scarbrough will scout the Kansas State Wildcats at Oklahoma Saturday. K-State visits Memorial Stadium on Oct. 13.

Fresh Coach Gene Stauber will view the Indiana Hoosiers who tackle Notre Dame. Indiana will be here on Oct. 20.

Seats Available

Ronnie, Harvey To Try Calgary

CALGARY (AP)—Ronnie Knox, former UCLA and Hamilton Tiger-Cat quarterback, has come to terms with the Calgary Stampeders of Western Interprovincial Football Union, club Secretary Pat Mahoney announced Tuesday night.

The six-foot-one, 200-pound player who arrived here with his stepfather, Harvey, Tuesday morning, will sign a contract Wednesday. Young Knox worked out with Calgary Tuesday night.

Harvey said he liked the idea of Ronnie playing with the cellar-dwelling Stampeders because of the challenge it provided for him.

In an interview shortly after his arrival, Harvey made it clear that while he was spokesman for the Knox family, it didn't necessarily mean he made all the decisions.

First Rattle Ends In Rout

Ex-Husker footballer Tom Novak's debut as the new Lincoln wrestling promoter turned out to be a rough and tumble affair as the Russian brother duo of Boris and Nicolai Volkov turned the first fall of the featured tag team match into a "bump and a bruise for all" routine.

After Vern Gagne had taken the first fall of the match between himself and Bill Melby against the Russian duo with his famous sleeper hold, the Russians came back to drop Melby with a full nelson.

In the procedure, Melby injured his back and was unable to return to the ring for the third fall, so Gagne elected to solo the final round.

During a count, brother Boris flipped Gagne onto referee Sam Vacanti's back and then knocked Sam out with a kick to the head. When Sam finally got back to the point where he could see 20/20 again, the Russians had Gagne pinned and all he could do was count Vern out.

The fans, it was definitely a partisan crowd for the Gagne-Melby combination, were displeased and escorted the Russians to the dressing room with a volley of flying chairs.

In preliminary action, Jack Allen dropped Dick Dusek in one fall and Angelo Poffo pinned Don Pollock in two straight falls.

Emery Issues Call For Boxers

Any boys interested in training with the Larry Emery Boxing Club may call Larry Emery, the team coach, at 6-7251.

Emery said the club will train in a new location, as yet unannounced. Each year Emery's club is well represented in local American Legion Golden Gloves trials.

Shantz Visits Lincoln; He Picks NY In Series

Bobby Shantz, visiting in Lincoln, is sticking with the American League in the World Series.

The former Lincoln pitching ace and Kansas City Athletics pitcher Tuesday picked the Yankees to beat the Dodgers in "six or seven games."

Shantz, who broke into organized baseball with Lincoln in 1948, is visiting the parents of his wife, the former Shirley Vogel, and his former employer Bill Murrell.

While the New York-Brooklyn series will seem like a re-run of an ancient movie, the series will have its unusual share of excitement.

And hope will spring forth again next season—hope that Milwaukee, Cincinnati or some other team will jolt the Bums.

There's something else, too. It's time some team in the American League started giving the Yankees some competition.

The fact that Brooklyn is once again in the World Series is no more painful than the realization that their opponents will be the Yankees.

In all due respects to Casey Stengel and his powerful legions, it would add a great deal to the national pastime if they weren't annual cinches.

One thing American League teams can count on in the future is the adulation of the nation's fans, if and when one or several of them can seriously challenge the Yankees.

Milwaukee's Braves can testify that a pennant contender gains a lot of friends.

POINT BLANK

By Don Bryant
Sports Editor, The Star

Don't look now but the World Series, which starts today, has a familiar ring.

Pulling the ropes will be the New York Yankees, who seem to have a lifetime mortgage on the annual event, and the Brooklyn Dodgers, the oldtimers who just let the others kill each other off.

There have been few teams in baseball history which have so captivated the fans like the Milwaukee Braves. The fact that the Braves didn't make the grade certainly made millions of followers take to their cups.

But pity the poor Braves who were scalped out of possibly $10,000 when the St. Louis Cardinals upset their wigwam and let those uncouth Bums from Brooklyn get the top spot on the totem pole.

Milwaukee's tremendous popularity undoubtedly developed because it looked like the Braves had the best chance to beat Brooklyn.

While Birdie Tebbetts did a fine job with the Cincinnati Redlegs—he deserves a vote as manager of the year, in fact—there was always the feeling that the Braves would be the ones to dethrone the Dodgers if it was to be done.

Everybody's hopes were almost answered, but Milwaukee couldn't come up with the victory ingredients when the chips were down.

Nevertheless, Milwaukee and Cincinnati deserve the undying gratitude of baseball fans for supplying a thrilling summer of baseball.

Shantz Visits Lincoln; He Picks NY In Series

Bobby Shantz, visiting in Lincoln, is sticking with the American League in the World Series.

The former Lincoln pitching ace and Kansas City Athletics pitcher Tuesday picked the Yankees to beat the Dodgers in "six or seven games."

Shantz, who broke into organized baseball with Lincoln in 1948, is visiting the parents of his wife, the former Shirley Vogel, and his former employer Bill Murrell.

While the New York-Brooklyn series will seem like a re-run of an ancient movie, the series will have its unusual share of excitement.

And hope will spring forth again next season—hope that Milwaukee, Cincinnati or some other team will jolt the Bums.

There's something else, too. It's time some team in the American League started giving the Yankees some competition.

The fact that Brooklyn is once again in the World Series is no more painful than the realization that their opponents will be the Yankees.

In all due respects to Casey Stengel and his powerful legions, it would add a great deal to the national pastime if they weren't annual cinches.

One thing American League teams can count on in the future is the adulation of the nation's fans, if and when one or several of them can seriously challenge the Yankees.

Milwaukee's Braves can testify that a pennant contender gains a lot of friends.

Now on with the 1956 World Series—and pass the No-Dez.

Don't look now but the World Series, which starts today, has a familiar ring.

Pulling the ropes will be the New York Yankees, who seem to have a lifetime mortgage on the annual event, and the Brooklyn Dodgers, the oldtimers who just let the others kill each other off.

Ike Will Toss Out 1st Ball In Brooklyn

... YANKS STILL FAVORED

By BOB CONSIDINE
NEW YORK (INS)—Weather clear and cool, track fast, Ike pitching, Brooklyn agog, Mantle ready to unagag the Bums, band playing, flags waving, air over Brooklyn heavy with holdog incense.

That just about sums up matters on the eve of the 1956 World Series between the Dodgers and Yankees which explodes Wednesday at Ebbets Field with some of the most familiar faces in baseball in active attendance.

The President of the United States, who was a good ballplayer himself, chucks out the first ball for two reasons: (1)—he wants to and (2) his political advisers urged him to do so because more people will see him on TV than see his campaign appeals.

Sal's a Democrat.

He will be immediately replaced by a morose Democrat named Sal Maglie, one of the harder-bitten pros engaged in this perennial gambol between the two big bown teams.

The Barber has yet to find his first World Series victory but he's all meant up for this one, and certainly no pitcher in the business showed more razor-edged perfection than did this glum gaffer in the final days of the National League pennant race.

Maglie has Whitey Ford to beat. The assured young Yankee southpaw won 19 and lost six this year with a club which made a spectacle of the rest of the American League. Maglie's 13-5 mark gave him the pennant.

The Yanks remain favored. Midtown prices ranged from 6-to-5 to 7-to-4-5 depending on the disposition of the Yankee fan. The cause of this favored position, in face of the fact that the Dodgers won the series last year, is simply this:

Mickey Mantle and Yogi Berra are the biggest back-to-back threat in baseball. Mantle led the majors in everything except stolen sweaters, Berra, who hit 238 to Mantle's triumphant 353, is feared perhaps even more by the Dodger pitching staff than the mercurial Mickey, especially in the clutch.

Beyond these two the Yankees have .300 plus hitters in Bill Skowron and Gil McDougald, the always menacing Hank Bauer, and a fresh guy named Billy Martin who can't hit his hat size during a regular season but in a World Series is harder to get out than a visiting aunt.

Casey Stengel, the Yankees' resident brain, was strangely mute about his second game pitcher Tuesday, but he's likely to go with Tommy Byrne, an ailing left hero, in the third—when the business moves over to Yankee Stadium and first-ball-pitcher Adlai Stevenson.

Walter Alston, the Quiet One of one of the noisiest areas on the face of Christendom, probably will be a rough and tumble affair as the second game. Newk won a breathtaking 7 games this year and lost seven. On all latter occasions, his "arm tightened up."

Rough-talking Carl Furillo, a non-member of the Newcombe Fan Club, suggested that Newcombe was bad at locating precisely the area of his anatomy that had suffered tightening.

The clubs are generally in fine repair and excellent spirits. Most of them will use their considerable Series checks to pay their income taxes on their 1956 salaries and extra income for eating Bleaties and shaving off bristles on TV.

Ebets Field Prowled By Ikewatchers

By JOE REICHLER
BROOKLYN (AP)—There were nearly as many Secret Service men as reporters attending the Brooklyn Dodgers' pre-series workout at Ebbets Field Tuesday.

The government agents probably didn't know Walter Alston from Casey Stengel and cared less. Actually, they came to Ebbets Field on assignment from Washington, to inspect the park, search the ball field and check the exact location where President Eisenhower will sit today when he, and his party will attend the opening game of the 1956 World Series between Brooklyn and New York.

The President's party, numbering 12 in all, is scheduled to arrive at LaGuardia field about 11:45 a.m., EDT, Tuesday and leave for Brooklyn no later than noon. The President is expected to reach Ebbets Field about 12:35 p.m. His car will be driven to home plate, where Mr. Eisenhower will meet both teams and the presidents of the National and American Leagues.

More than 200 detectives have been assigned to the ball park, LaGuardia Field and the route the President's car travels during his flying visit to attend the opener. Of these, 100 detectives will be stationed at Ebbets Field for security purposes, as will an inspector and two deputies.

Unaware of the presence of the President's advance guard, the Dodgers staged a two-hour workout in preparation for the series. Sal Maglie, now a certainty to pitch the opener, reported he was fit and ready and said he was anxious awaiting his important assignment.

"I'm looking forward to it with eagerness," he said. "But I'm not any more nervous about it than I would be if I were to pitch in a regular season game. In fact, I think there was more pressure on me when I pitched those big games against Cincinnati and Milwaukee."

"I feel a lot better today than I did yesterday," he added. "My shoulder is only slightly stiff and I'm sure it will be all right tomorrow. The stomach disorder I had yesterday has disappeared entirely."

Manager Alston, besides confirming Maglie as his first-game starter, named Don Newcombe, his 27-game winner, as the pitcher for the second game against the Yankees, also at Ebbets Field. He also said Sandy Amoros, who usually doesn't play when a left-hander opposes the Dodgers, definitely will be in the starting lineup today against southpaw Whitey Ford. Amoros, from fifth spot in the batting order, to eighth.

"Sandy is hot right now," he said. "And I hope he continues hot. I know he hasn't batted much against southpaw pitching but he doesn't back away from those left-handers."

Alston, cautious as ever, declined to make any predictions as to the outcome but he did say the Dodgers had more spirit for this meeting with the Yankees than they had last year.

Bears Beat Lions In Filley Fiesta

FILLEY—The Bears beat the Lions 33-19 Tuesday night in the first Gage County Conference season football jamboree before a crowd of over 1,000.

The jamboree involved teams from Beatrice St. Joseph, Liberty, Barneston, Filley and Cortland of the Gage County Conference and guest teams from Odell, Lewiston and Plymouth.

Ford In Form

New York Yankee manager Casey Stengel, a one-time outfielder, can't match the pitching form of his ace lefthander Whitey Ford but he is willing to try for the photographers. Ford will start on the mound today for the Yankees when they take on the Brooklyn Dodgers in the World Series opener at Ebbets Field and Casey is hoping that the Dodgers' starter Sal Maglie can't match him either. Phil Rizzuto Picks Old Teammates To Win Series In Seven Games cause pitching usually decides the World Series and neither the Yankees nor the Dodgers has strong enough pitching to wrap it up in a hurry.

In that respect, I think Milwaukee, with its great pitching, would have given the Yankees more trouble than the Dodgers will.

The Yankees have better starters than Brooklyn, especially considering how often Sal Maglie and Don Newcombe had to work while the Dodgers were battling for the National League pennant.

But taken as a whole, I think the Yankee pitching staff is the weakest I can remember since I joined the club in 1941.

Brooklyn will have an important edge in the bullpen if Clem Labine is saved for relief. That's one of the most important strategy decisions. Walt Alston, the Dodger manager, will have to make—whether to use Clem as a starter, as he did late in the regular season, or to hold him for rescue jobs, where he is even more effective.

I imagine Alston is thinking about it plenty, and I don't envy him the decision. Either way, he'll be second-guessed if the Dodgers lose.

NEW YORK (INS)—Once a Yankee always a Yankee, I guess, because I have to pick my old teammates to win this World Series in seven games.

I made the same prediction in 1955, but I was only half right. The series went seven games, but the Yankees didn't win it.

I expect another long series, because pitching usually decides the World Series and neither the Yankees nor the Dodgers has strong enough pitching to wrap it up in a hurry.

Huskers Should Be In Best Condition For I-State; Dillard Given Go-Ahead

By DON BRYANT
Sports Editor, The Star

Nebraska's Cornhuskers should be in the best physical shape of the season when they open Big Seven play against Iowa State Saturday—if!

The "if" involves halfbacks Willie Greenlaw and Bennie Dillard. Coach Pete Elliott put it this way:

"If Bennie and Willie can go full speed Saturday we will be in better shape than we were against South Dakota and Ohio State."

The only absentee in the Cyclone game is expected to be Max Kitzelman, alternate club center who strained a shoulder against the Buckeyes.

There's an "outside chance" that Kitzelman may be able to play—"he is making a rapid recovery because he wants to play real bad"—but the mid-week report lists him as doubtful.

Dillard so far has held up good in contact work this week, several times showing fine flashes of speed, and Elliott said Tuesday afternoon that "barring injury this week, he'll be ready to go."

Greenlaw has been getting a large portion of scrimmage time and he's rounding into shape. But his injured member prevents him from cutting loose with some fancy work.

Tuesday the Huskers spent some time on offensive and defensive scrimmage, but the action was confined to spots and not to a team effort.

"We're going to work real hard on the basic details of our offense and defense," Elliott said.

Queried about pass defense, Pete said: "We'll work on pass defense as hard as we have all year—which has been a lot. It's one of the most important parts of defensive football."

Elliott remarked that Iowa State this year seems to have better balance between passing and running. In years past, the Cyclones have come up with some heavy

Light Duty

Tackle LaVerne Torczon and backs Leo George and Larry Naviaux didn't take part in Tuesday's limited scrimmage. They are still nursing bumps from the Ohio State game, but will be okay for Saturday.

Scouts Out

Assistant Coach Don Scarbrough will scout the Kansas State Wildcats at Oklahoma Saturday. K-State visits Memorial Stadium on Oct. 13. Frosh Coach Gene Stauber will view the Indiana Hoosiers who tackle Notre Dame. Indiana will be here on Oct. 20.

Seats Available

Ronnie, Harvey To Try Calgary

CALGARY — Ronnie Knox, former UCLA and Hamilton Tiger-Cat quarterback, has come to terms with the Calgary Stampeders of Western Interprovincial Football Union, club Secretary Pat Mahoney announced Tuesday night.

The six-foot-one, 200-pound player who arrived here with his stepfather, Harvey, Tuesday morning, will sign a contract Wednesday. Young Knox worked out with Calgary Tuesday night.

Harvey said he liked the idea of Ronnie playing with the cellar-dwelling Stamps because of the challenge it provided for him.

In an interview shortly after his arrival, Harvey made it clear that while he was spokesman for the Knox family, it didn't necessarily mean he made all the decisions.

POINT BLANK

By Don Bryant
Sports Editor, The Star

Don't look now but the World Series, which starts today, has a familiar ring.

Pulling the ropes will be the New York Yankees, who seem to have a lifetime mortgage on the annual event, and the Brooklyn Dodgers, the oldtimers who just let the others kick each other off.

There have been few teams in baseball history which have so captivated the fans like the Milwaukee Braves. The fact that the Braves didn't make the grade certainly made millions of followers take to their cups.

But pity the poor Braves who were scalped out of possibly $10,000 when the St. Louis Cardinals upset their wigwam and let those uncouth Bums from Brooklyn get the top spot on the totem pole. Milwaukee's tremendous popularity undoubtedly developed because it looked like the Braves had the best chance to beat Brooklyn.

While Birdie Tebbetts did a fine job with the Cincinnati Redlegs — he deserves a vote as manager of the year, in fact — there was always the feeling that the Braves would be the ones to dethrone the Dodgers if it was to be done.

Everybody's hopes were almost answered, but Milwaukee couldn't come up with the victory ingredients when the chips were down.

Nevertheless, Milwaukee and Cincinnati deserve the undying gratitude of baseball fans for supplying a thrilling summer of baseball.

While the New York-Brooklyn series will seem like a re-run of an ancient movie, the series will have its unusual share of excitement.

And hope will spring forth again next season — hope that Milwaukee, Cincinnati or some other team will jolt the Bums.

There's something else, too. It's time some team in the American League started giving the Yankees some competition.

The fact that Brooklyn is once again in the World Series is no more painful than the realization that their opponents will be the Yankees.

In all due respects to Casey Stengel and his powerful legion, it would add a great deal to the national pastime if they weren't annual cinches.

One thing American League teams can count on in the future is the adulation of the nation's fans, if and when one or several of them can seriously challenge the Yankees.

Milwaukee's Braves can testify that a pennant contender gains a lot of friends.

Now on with the 1956 World Series — and pass the No-Doz.

Ike Will Toss Out 1st Ball In Brooklyn

...YANKS STILL FAVORED

By BOB CONSIDINE

NEW YORK (INS) — Weather clear and cool, track fast, Ike pitching, Brooklyn agog, Mantle ready to unagag the Bums, band playing, flags waving, air over Brooklyn heavy with hotdog incense.

That just about sums up matters on the eve of the 1956 World Series between the Dodgers and Yankees which explodes Wednesday at Ebbets Field with some of the most familiar faces in baseball in active attendance.

The President of the United States, who was a good ballplayer himself, chucks out the first ball for two reasons: (1)—he wants to and (2) his political advisers urged him to do so because more people will see him on TV than see his campaign appeals.

Sal's a Democrat

He will be immediately replaced by a morose Democrat named Sal Maglie, one of the harder-bitten pros engaged in this perennial gambol between the two big hown teams. The Barber has yet to find his first World Series victory but he's all meaned up for this one, and certainly no pitcher in the business showed more razor-edged perfection than did this glum gafer in the final days of the National League pennant race.

Maglie has Whitey Ford to beat. The assured young Yankee southpaw won 19 and lost six this year with a club which made a spectacle of the rest of the American League. Maglie's 13-5 mark gave him the pennant.

The Yanks remain favored. Midtown prices ranged from 6-to-5 to 7-2-to-5 depending on the disposition of the Yankee fan. The cause of this favored position, in face of the fact that the Dodgers won the series last year, is simply this:

Mickey Mantle and Yogi Berra are the biggest back-to-back threat in baseball. Mantle led the majors in everything except stolen sweaters, Berra, who hit .298 to Mantle's triumphant .353, is feared perhaps even more by the Dodger pitching staff than the mercurial Mickey, especially in the clutch. Beyond these two the Yankees have .300 plus hitters in Bill Skow-

Ebbets Field Prowled By Ikewatchers

By JOE REICHLER

BROOKLYN — There were nearly as many Secret Service men as reporters attending the Brooklyn Dodgers' pre-series workout at Ebbets Field Tuesday.

The government agents probably didn't know Walter Alston from Casey Stengel and cared less. Actually, they came to Ebbets Field on assignment from Washington, to inspect the park, search the ball field and check the exact location where President Eisenhower will sit today when he, and his party will attend the opening game of the 1956 World Series between Brooklyn and New York.

The President's party, numbering 12 in all, is scheduled to arrive at LaGuardia field about 11:45 a.m., EDT, Tuesday and leave for Brooklyn no later than noon. The President is expected to reach Ebbets Field about 12:35 p.m. His car will be driven to home plate, where Mr. Eisenhower will meet both teams and the presidents of the National and American Leagues.

More than 200 detectives have been assigned to the ball park, LaGuardia Field and the route the President's car travels during his flying visit to attend the opener. Of these, 100 detectives will be stationed at Ebbets Field for security purposes, as will an inspector and two deputies.

Unaware of the presence of the President's advance guard, the Dodgers staged a two-hour workout in preparation for the series. Sal Maglie, now a certainty to pitch the opener, reported he was fit and ready and said he was anxious awaiting his important assignment.

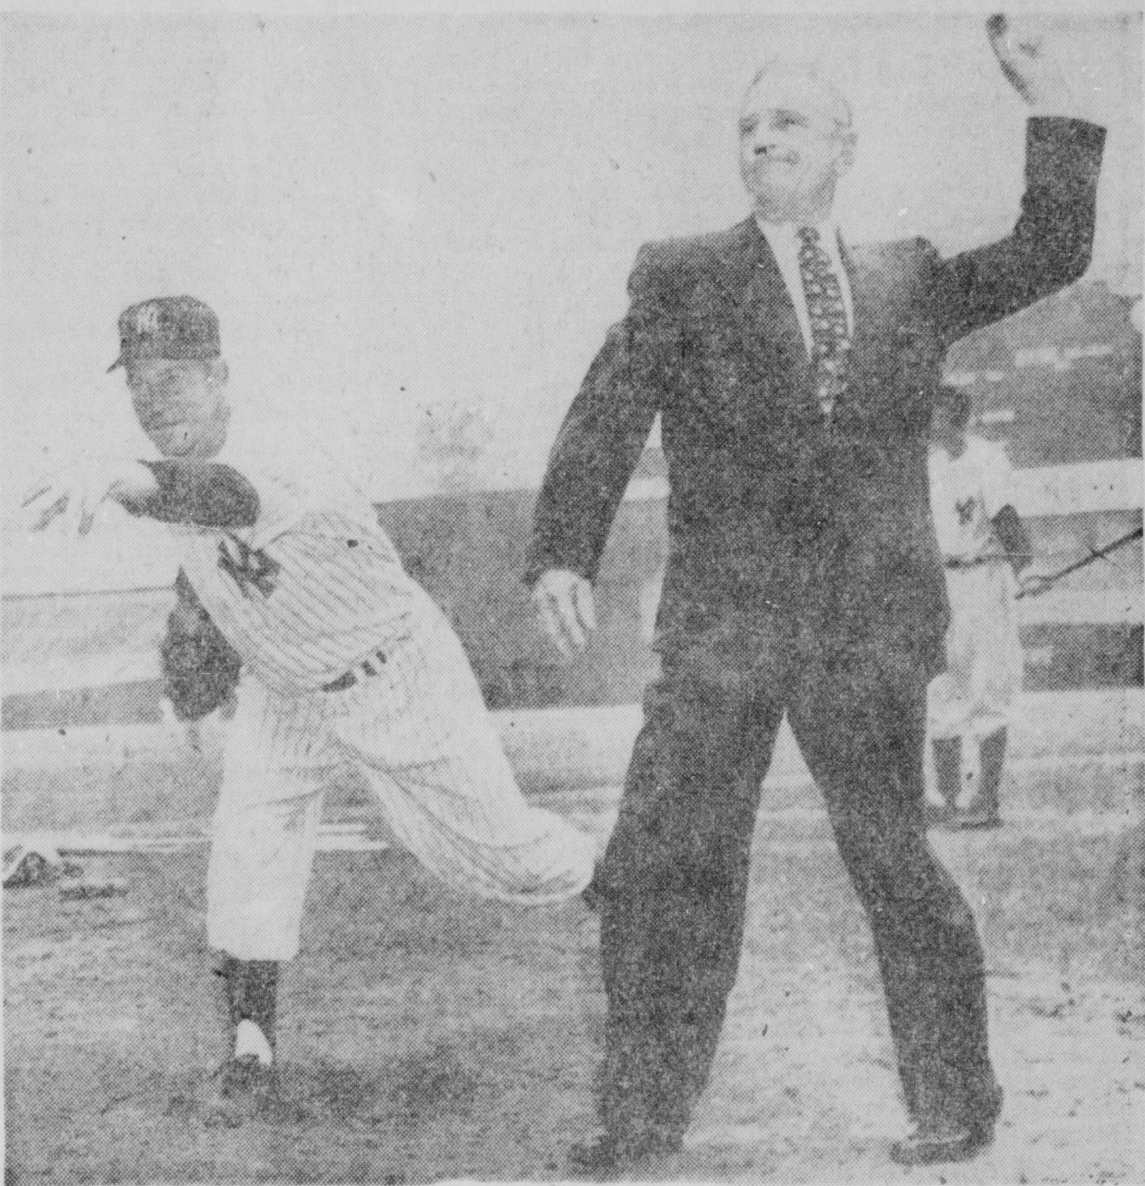

"I'm looking forward to it with eagerness," he said. "But I'm not any more nervous about it than I would be if I were to pitch in a regular season game. In fact, I think there was more pressure on me when I pitched those big games against Cincinnati and Milwaukee."

"I feel a lot better today than I did yesterday," he added. "My shoulder is only slightly stiff and I'm sure it will be all right tomorrow. The stomach disorder I had yesterday has disappeared entirely."

Manager Alston, besides confirming Maglie as his first-game starter, named Don Newcombe, his 27-game winner, as the pitcher for the second game against the Yankees, also at Ebbets Field. He also said Sandy Amoros, who usually doesn't play when a left-hander opposes the Dodgers, definitely will be in the starting lineup today against southpaw Whitey Ford. Amoros will be dropped, however, from fifth spot in the batting order, to eighth.

"Sandy is hot right now," he said. "And I hope he continues hot. I know he hasn't batted much against southpaw pitching but he doesn't back away from those left-handers."

Alston, cautious as ever, declined to make any predictions as to the outcome but he did say the Dodgers had more spirit for this meeting with the Yankees than they had last year.

Ford In Form

New York Yankee manager Casey Stengel, a one-time outfielder, can't match the pitching form of his ace lefthander Whitey Ford

but he is willing to try for the photographers. Ford will start on the mound today for the Yanks when they take on the Brooklyn

Dodgers in the World Series opener at Ebbets Field and Casey is hoping that the Dodgers' starter Sal Maglie can't match him either. (AP Wirephoto.)

Phil Rizzuto Picks Old Teammates To Win Series In Seven Games

(Phil Rizzuto, former star Yankee shortstop who appeared in more World Series games than any other player in history, will analyze each day's play in the 1956 Yankee-Dodger series for International News Service.)

By PHIL RIZZUTO
Copyright, 1956, By International News Service

NEW YORK (INS) — Once a Yankee always a Yankee, I guess, because I have to pick my old teammates to win this World Series in seven games.

I made the same prediction in 1955, but I was only half right. The series went seven games, but the Yankees didn't win it. I expect another long series, because pitching usually decides the World Series and neither the Yankees nor the Dodgers has strong enough pitching to wrap it up in a hurry.

In that respect, I think Milwaukee, with its great pitching, would have given the Yankees more trouble than the Dodgers will.

The Yankees have better starters than Brooklyn, especially considering how often Sal Maglie and Don Newcombe had to work while the Dodgers were battling for the National League pennant.

But taken as a whole, I think the Yankee pitching staff is the weakest I can remember since I joined the club in 1941.

Brooklyn will have an important edge in the bullpen if Clem Labine is saved for relief. That's one of the most important strategy decisions Walt Alston, the Dodger manager, will have to make—whether to use Clem as a starter, as he did late in the regular season, or to hold him for rescue jobs, where he is even more effective.

I imagine Alston is thinking about it plenty, and I don't envy him the decision. Either way, he'll be second-guessed if the Dodgers lose.

The Yankees will be at a disadvantage opening in Ebbets Field. You'll remember we lost three in a row there last year.

Whitey Ford should fare better there than the average lefthander, but it is a tough park for any pitcher, and particularly a southpaw. Somehow the Dodgers, with all those righthanded pull hitters, for the other.

By RON GIBSON
Star Sports Staff Writer
Last week's eight-man and six-man high school football ratings held surprisingly firm as the leaders withstood challenges by several contenders for spots in The Star's Top Ten.

Exeter still sets the pace in eight-man football and Lawrence ranks first in the six-man field. Two teams — Niobrara and Wausa — entered the eight-man rating this week.

There was little shuffling of the six-man list. The ratings stand up as follows:

Eight-Man

Exeter trounced Western, 39-7, to keep the number one spot and Crofton stayed in second place with a 46-0 laying of Randolph. Crofton hasn't been scored on yet.

Big Springs skunked Paxton — rated sixth last week — 41-0. Coleridge got by tough Wausa, 12-6.

Wausa, by pressing Coleridge, got into the chart in tenth place. Niobrara, overlooked last week, replaces Paxton in the sixth spot, ahead of Amherst and Elm Creek. The latter two clubs, who tied each other, continued to impress with victories over Loomis and Axtell last week. Beemer was idle and dropped from eighth to ninth as others advanced.

Of the clubs not in the Top Ten, Dakota City and O'Neill St. Mary's appear the most potent at present.

Six-Man

Lawrence continued to buzz its opponents, burying Hardy, 47-0. Ruskin clobbered Brumby 58-18 and is again second.

Bartley beat rated Holbrook 26-19 in an important game and climbed from fourth to third. Idle Verdun, third last week, fell to sixth as others advanced.

Diller climbed from sixth to fourth by beating Cortland 40-6, the most impressive Diller showing in three games. Greeley Sacred Heart climbed from seventh to fifth on the strength of a 46-0 conquest of Bartlett.

Verdun is sixth ahead of Dwight Assumption, a forfeit winner over Waterloo. Naponee is again eighth after beating Edison 47-14.

Indianola replaces Holbrook as the ninth-place team, climbing from tenth after trimming Red Willow 32-6. Holbrook slipped to tenth after falling to Bartley, but stayed in by holding the Bombers close.

Several other teams still threaten. Among them are Alvo, Campbell, Spaulding Academy, Eagle, Monroe and Anselmo.

Ez Charles Disqualified Early In London Fight

By STERLING SLAPPEY

LONDON (AP)—Dick Richardson, Britain's 22-year-old heavyweight hope, scored a wildly disputed and heavily booed victory over Ezzard Charles Tuesday night when the former world champion was disqualified in the second round for "persistent holding."

A packed house of 11,000 fans in Harringay Arena set up waves of booing and derisive laughter which lasted for five minutes after Referee Frank Wilson lifted Richardson's hands in victory.

Charles, once a trim and fast 182-pound world title holder, looked hazy eyed and a flabby

202 in defeat. Richardson weighed 203 1/2.

Referee Wilson cautioned him for holding three times in the first round and made two trips to the former world champion's corner to warn both him and his handler. The referee called off the fight after 2 minutes, 29 seconds of the second round.

It was the fourth defeat in six fights this year for the faded, 35-year-old, onetime sleek looking slasher from Cincinnati. Since his two beatings by then heavyweight champion Rocky Marciano in 1954, Charles has lost 9 of 17 fights, 2 of them by knockouts.

Richardson, a Welsh milkman who has been a pro only 21 months, had won 16 of 18 fights before Tuesday night, 13 of them by knockouts.

Charles, in his dressing room, termed the judge's decision "unbelievable." He said that in 20 years of fighting he had never before been disqualified, and added:

"I considered that I was not holding in any sense and was trying to push off Richardson, who was leaning on me."

Richardson said he thought the disqualification had been justified. "Charles did a lot of holding," he said, "especially after I had got through his defense with a left hook which he did not relish."

Promoter Jack Solomon, who had ballyhooed the fight as a first step toward bringing the title to Britain, lamented:

"What a fizzle out. If the referee had decided to stop it, then he should have thrown both men out of the ring."

Charles' purse was automatically withheld pending an investigation by the British Boxing Board of Control.

Last week's eight-man and six-man high school football ratings held surprisingly firm as the leaders withstood challenges by several contenders for spots in The Star's Top Ten.

Exeter still sets the pace in eight-man football and Lawrence ranks first in the six-man field. Two teams — Niobrara and Wausa — entered the eight-man rating this week.

There was little shuffling of the six-man list. The ratings stand up as follows:

Eight-Man

Exeter trounced Western, 38-7, to keep the number one spot and Crofton stayed in second place with a 46-0 lacing of Randolph. Crofton hasn't been scored on yet.

Potter, Big Springs and Coleridge again round out the first five. Potter scored Gurley, 53-0, to keep a shutout string going.

W' Club Sweetheart Candidates

Three NWU Senior Coeds Compete For 'W' Club Sweetheart Honors

Three Nebraska Wesleyan University coeds have been named by Wesleyan lettermen as candidates for the traditional "W" Club Sweetheart.

They are Judy Cook, Tekamah senior; Phyllis Edgar Russ, McCook senior; and Mary Williams, Verdon senior.

The Sweetheart will be revealed at the halftime of the Homecoming game with Hastings College, Friday night, October 12.

She will be presented with the traditional "W" Club medallion and a kiss by "W" Club president, Bob Starr.

Wearing a yellow and brown satin robe she will arrive in a convertible accompanied by her two attendants and will be honored by the Pride of the Plainsmen band and class attendants from each school.

Kansas City A's Fire 2 Coaches

NEW YORK — Coaches Oscar Mellillo and George Susce have been fired by the Kansas City Athletics, it was learned Tuesday.

Both coaches had been with Manager Lou Boudreau when he managed Cleveland and Boston, and had been taken to Kansas City by him when he took the helm of the new Kansas City Athletics last year when the club was moved there from Philadelphia.

The third coach, Harry Craft, will be retained, Business Manager Parke Carroll announced.

Craft, who managed the Kansas City Blues in the American Assn. for the parent New York Yankees, has become Boudreau's No. 1 assistant. He managed the club when Boudreau became ill on the Athletics' last eastern trip.

Carroll said one reason for the release of Susce and Mellillo was a plan to hire a seasoned pitching coach for next year.

DID YOU SAY SCOTCH?

NO I SAID MARTIN'S V.V.O. SCOTCH!

Big Springs skunked Paxton — rated sixth last week — 41-0, Coleridge got by tough Wausa, 12-6, Wausa, by pressing Coleridge, got into the chart in tenth place.

Niobrara, overlooked last week, replaces Paxton in the sixth spot ahead of Amherst and Elm Creek.

The latter two clubs, who tied each other, continued to impress with victories over Loomis and Axtell last week. Beemer was idle and dropped from eighth to ninth as others advanced.

Of the clubs not in the Top Ten, Dakota City and O'Neill St. Mary's appear the most potent at present.

Six-Man

Lawrence continued to buzz its opponents, burying Hardy, 47-0, Ruskin clobbered Bruning 56-18 and is again second.

Bartley beat rated Holbrook 26-19 in an important game and

Ez Charles Disqualified Early In London Fight

By STERLING SLAPPEY
LONDON — Dick Richardson, Britain's 22-year-old heavyweight hope, scored a wildy disputed and heavily booed victory over Ezzard Charles Tuesday night when the former world champion was disqualified in the second round for "persistent holding."

A packed house of 11,000 fans in Harringay Arena set up waves of booing and derisive laughter, which lasted for five minutes after Referee Frank Wilson lifted Richardson's hands in victory.

Charles, once a trim and fast, 182-pound world title holder, looked hazy eyed and a flabby 202 in defeat. Richardson weighed 203 1-4.

Referee Wilson cautioned him for holding three times in the first round and made two trips to the former world champion's corner to warn both him and his handler.

The referee called off the fight after 2 minutes, 29 seconds of the second round.

It was the fourth defeat in six fights this year for the faded, 35-year-old, onetime sleek looking slasher from Cincinnati. Since his two beatings by then heavyweight champion Rocky Marciano in 1954, Charles has lost 9 of 17 fights, 2 of them by knockouts.

Richardson, a Welsh milkman who has been a pro only 21 months, had won 16 of 18 fights before Tuesday night, 13 of them by knockouts.

Charles, in his dressing room, termed the judge's decision "unbelievable." He said that in 20 years of fighting he had never before been disqualified, and added:

"I considered that I was not holding in any sense and was trying to push off Richardson, who was leaning on me."

Richardson said he thought the disqualification had been justified.

"Charles did a lot of holding," he said, "especially after I had got through his defense with a left hook which he did not relish."

Promoter Jack Solomons, who had ballyhooed the fight as a first step toward bringing the title to Britain, lamented:

"What a fizzle out. If the referee had decided to stop it, then he should have thrown both men out of the ring."

Charles' purse was automatically withheld pending an investigation by the British Boxing Board of Control.

Ever realize just how much tax the average truck pays? Probably not, if you're like the average citizen . . . you're concerned more with your own taxes.

But let's look at a few facts:

In 1954 trucks paid to the State $16 million in highway user taxes.

Average tax for a pickup was $46; for a four-axle semi-trailer, $1,928.75 . . . 45 times as much as the average passenger car!

Yes sir, trucks pay a whopping amount of taxes—41.8 percent, to be exact of all highway users taxes collected in Nebraska!

Brooklyn Fans Are Few Outside Of Flatbush

By RON GIBSON
Star Sports Staff Writer

As far as I know, there are three Brooklyn Dodgers fans outside of Brooklyn.

They are a divinity student in New Jersey, an Air Force pilot in Georgia and myself.

My own backing of the Dodgers is a somewhat thing, and endures only until 1957. Being a St. Louis Cardinal fan, I will again root for the Redbirds. But since the Cards were out of the National League pennant race early, my allegiance went to the Braves.

This is tantamount to heresy—a Cardinal fan declaring for the Dodgers. Especially when all America was pulling for Milwaukee Braves to win the pennant.

Everybody, that is, except the divinity student in New Jersey, the Air Force pilot in Georgia and myself. What with the former two on their side, I suppose you could say the Dodgers came in on a wing and a prayer.

Certainly they won no affection from the baseball public. More people dislike the Dodgers than hate the New York Yankees.

I was in St. Louis for the final two games of the season between the Cards and Milwaukee. My Cardinal rootership and transient loyalty to the Dodgers made me just about the only non-Milwaukee fan in the crowd both games.

A large delegation of Braves fans from Milwaukee—and other points—was on hand for the final series. They were easily identifiable by their gaily-colored tin-foil derbies and loud exclamations for the Braves.

They had the sympathy and support of all St. Louis. Now, St. Louisans normally stick with the Cardinals all the way. Over a million of them watched the Cardinals at home this year. But they were pulling for Milwaukee in the final crucial series.

As one native put it:

"I'm for the Cards, sure, but I'd like to see them roll over and play dead for the Braves. They did it often enough for Brooklyn."

But the Cards were very much alive. Had they played the caliber of baseball all year that they played against Milwaukee in the 12-inning 2-1 victory which the Braves' pennant hopes, the Redbirds would have been lighting for the flag.

Bobby DelGreco, weak-hitting Card outfielder who is a special target of St. Louis fans' boos because he took the place of popular (and strong-hitting) Bill Virdon, was the guy who took the game away from the Braves.

He made sensational catch, after sensational catch to keep the Braves from scoring and cushioning in on a marvelous pitching job by Warren Spahn.

Spahn, of course, gave up only two hits in nine innings but went into the 12th tied 1-1 with Herman Wehmeier. Doubles by Stan Musial and Rip Repulski ended it and the Braves were dead.

There were cheers, of course, when the Cards won the game. But they came reluctantly from the crowd which had stood up for Milwaukee in the seventh—something never before seen in Busch Stadium, now Sportsman's Park.

Cardinal fans just don't stand up for the visitors. But almost the entire audience of 26,000 rose in tribute to the Braves before they came to bat in the seventh. They clapped as Milwaukee rallied in the 10th and 11th innings, and moaned when DelGreco stole away drives off the bats of Ed Mathews and Jack Dittmer.

Naturally, there were cheers for Spahn, who lost despite a great battle. And for Fred Haney, the Milwaukee skipper, who in the anguish of the crushing defeat distinguished himself by walking out to shake hands with Spahn, thanking him for a fine effort.

The final day of the season there was little to cheer about. Because of the time difference between New York and St. Louis, a 4-0 Brooklyn lead was posted on the Busch Stadium scoreboard when the Milwaukee-Cardinal game started.

There were shouts when word of a Brooklyn pitching change came through, cheers when Pittsburgh rallied, and sighs of resignation when Sandy Amoros' eighth-inning homer added insurance to the Dodger lead.

There were boos when the final score was posted. Seconds later, Mathews—as if in anger—hoisted one on the right-field roof to provide the winning runs for a useless Brave victory.

Then the Stadium organist played "Que Sera, Sera"—Spanish for "What Will Be, Will Be." But nobody was inclined to be philosophical.

You see, EVERYBODY hates the Dodgers.

Swim Club To Begin Instruction

A program for coaching competitive swimming methods will start Monday evening at the new Lincoln High School pool with sessions slated between 7 and 9 p.m.

The sessions will be for 10-and-under and 14-and-under groups between 7 and 8 p.m. while the 12-and-under and the 16-and-under groups will perform between 8 and 9 p.m.

The purpose of the instruction is to give individual attention to strokes, turns, starts and other swimming techniques for swim meet competition.

The instruction is being sponsored by the Lincoln Swim Club with regard to competition in the newly organized Nebraska-Iowa swim league including Lincoln, Omaha, Grand Island, Hastings and Sioux City, Ia.

David Murray was named to head a committee to organize the winter swim meet program for the Lincoln Swim Club and to arrange teams for various meets.

DELAPLANE'S

POSTCARD

Over the week end I attended a football game, summoning up a flood of nostalgia and a little indigestion from the hot dogs.

It was a clear brisk day. With the flags whipping from the top of the stadium. The stands filled with eager youth whipping the warriors on to greater effort. "Hold that line!" they cried. "Likewise give 'em the ax!"

At half time, half the spectators went out to return over the feet of the sitters while juggling three hot dogs and four paper cups of coke.

The field meanwhile was filled with marching bands. And alongside where I was sitting, a covey of scantily clad maidens came out and began twirling batons. Twisting and twirling with a fixed smile for the audience.

I think there is something significant in the drum majorette. And I have been giving it a good deal of study.

The baton started out as a musical guide. Any horn blower who could not tell musical time could keep his eye on the baton.

As time went by, the drum major got fancier and fancier. He stepped higher and higher. And he twirled his baton faster and faster. In no time at all, he was flung the silver rod high in the air.

At this point he lost his purpose. Unless you wanted to use his baton for timing three-minute eggs.

Having lost any meaning for the band (who just went along counting time off the music), the next thing was to get him prettier.

As very few drum majors were pretty—most of them graduated from the bass drum—they ran in some pretty girls.

The girls couldn't keep time any way. But that was not what they were there for.

And now you have the end point of the whole incredulous musical farce. We have now separated the horn blower from the time keepers. The baton twirlers come out in platoons these days. Dressed as though they had just run out of a burning building.

They have no connection with the music. They just get out there and twirl, girl.

I must say I caught very little of this action. Since the returning hot dog carriers blocked most of the view.

But at times one of them would step on my feet, mumbling, "Parn me." At which point I would rise with a shriek. And while paracatching back, catch a glimpse of the smiling ladies. Their batons spinning like crazy to the crazy non-existent band.

It was an elevating sight, you might say.

What is it that sends a clutch of teen-agers to drum majorette school? To shiver in shorts while 50,000 of us bundled-up spectators wait for play to resume?

This is a question that will surely baffle future mound diggers. When they dig into the old stadium and find the battered aluminum stick.

Maybe they will be as baffled as I am. Though it may be simpler than you think, for once I asked a baton swinger these very questions.

"The band doesn't keep time to us," she said. "We keep time to the band."

There's a full circle of nonsense for you.

"Besides," she said, "we get into the game free."

Maybe those kids are smarter than I thought. I paid $4.30.

TODAY— Start Helping Your Child Grow Bigger and Stronger 12 Ways with WONDER BREAD!

Note the 12 Ways Wonder Bread Contributes To An Adequate Diet And Thus Helps Your Child Grow Bigger And Stronger

—See Comparisons With Meat, Milk, Fish, Eggs And Other Foods

Your big problem in child nutrition is to get them to eat enough of the substantial foods they must have for normal physical and mental development.

Which means a well-balanced diet of protein, fat, carbohydrates, vitamins and minerals, such as come in meats, milk, eggs, fruit, green-leafed and yellow vegetables.

And Wonder Bread, which helps supply your child with protein for growth, carbohydrates for energy and many vitamins and minerals for normal development.

12 Ways To Growth

Wonder Bread contains 12 essential food elements that help your child grow normally.

The amounts of these 12 food elements in Wonder Bread are compared with similar amounts contained in other foods.

This does not suggest that Wonder Bread take the place of these other foods. Or that your child is deficient in any of these elements, particularly cobalt, copper, zinc and manganese.

However, the fact is Wonder Bread does contain each of the 12 food elements approximately in the amounts shown.

And, as leading nutrition specialists have pointed out, each one of the 12 is important in nutrition.

Thus, when you give Wonder Bread to your child, you know you are helping your child grow bigger and stronger 12 ways.

This suggests that you do 3 things:

- (1) Start your child eating 8 slices of Wonder Bread today.
- (2) Measure your child's height and weigh him today.
- (3) See how height and weight increase in 3 months; 6 months; each year.

Fresh And Tender

You should have no trouble getting your child to eat plenty of Wonder Bread.

Because fresh Wonder Bread has a tender texture and crust; a mouth-watering aroma. And—Wonder Bread makes perfect toast.

Get Wonder Bread fresh from your grocer today.

POSTCARD

Over the week end I attended a football game, summoning up a flood of nostalgia and a little indigestion from the hot dogs. It was a clear brisk day. With the flags whipping from the top of the stadium. The stands filled with eager youth whipping the warriors on to greater effort. "Hold that line!" they cried. "Likewise give 'em the ax!"

At half time, half the spectators went out to return over the feet of the sitters while juggling three hot dogs and four paper cups of coke.

The field meanwhile was filled with marching bands. And alongside where I was sitting, a covey of scantily clad maidens came out and began twirling batons. Twisting and twirling with a fixed smile for the audience.

I think there is something significant in the drum majorette. And I have been giving it a good deal of study.

The baton started out as a musical guide. Any horn blower who could not tell musical time could keep his eye on the baton.

As time went by, the drum major got fancier and fancier. He stepped higher and higher. And he twirled his baton faster and faster. In no time at all, he was flinging the silver rod high in the air.

At this point he lost his purpose. Unless you wanted to use his baton for timing three-minute eggs.

Having lost any meaning for the band (who just went along counting time off the music), the next thing was to get him prettier.

As very few drum majors were pretty—most of them graduated from the bass drum—they ran in some pretty girls.

The girls couldn't keep time anyway. But that was not what they were there for.

And now you have the end point of the whole incredible musical farce. We have now separated the horn blowers from the time keepers. The baton twirlers come out in platoons these days. Dressed as though they had just run out of a burning building.

They have no connection with the music. They just get out there and twirl, girl.

I must say I caught very little of this action. Since the returning hot dog carriers blocked most of the view.

But at times one of them would step on my feet, mumbling, "Parn me." At which point I would rise with a shriek. And while parachuting back, catch a glimpse of the smiling ladies. Their batons spinning like crazy to the crazy non-existent band.

It was an elevating sight, you might say.

Wheat Crop Condition 'Very Low'; 90 Pct. Seeding Completed

Due to the dry weather, the average condition of Nebraska's winter wheat is very low, according to the weekly crop-weather report. State-federal crop statisticians reported spotted stands of wheat with grasshoppers doing some damage. Wheat seeding is about 90 per cent completed in the state, as seeding was under way much earlier than usual in much of eastern and southern Nebraska following the rain that fell September 4.

Meanwhile, about 70 per cent of the irrigated corn and 81 per cent of the dryland corn has matured. A little late corn, mostly in western Nebraska, has not matured sufficiently to withstand frost.

Early Harvest

Harvesting of corn in eastern and southern Nebraska is earlier than usual this year. The report reveals some of the dryland corn is yielding better than expected, and irrigated corn is good.

Further crop comments included:

Some grain sorghum has been harvested. The weather has been favorable for maturing sorghum, but a little of the late sorghum in western Nebraska could still be damaged by a frost. Irrigated sorghum is very good. So far the top yield reported is 110 bushels per acre.

Irrigated alfalfa is very good, but dryland alfalfa is poor. Fall seeding of alfalfa and grasses is 90 per cent completed. Dry weather reduced intended planting. Moisture is badly needed.

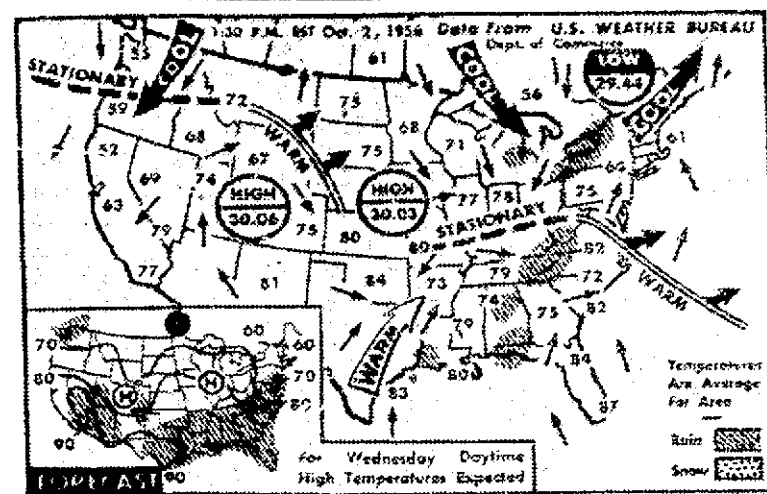

Range Condition Same

No material change was reported in the condition of range and pasture. Pasture feed in eastern and southern Nebraska varies from little to nothing. Moisture is needed in the sandhills to soften range feed.

Precipitation throughout the state during the past week included:

Division	Central	Eastern	Western
North	0.5	0.5	0.5
Central	0.5	0.5	0.5
South	0.5	0.5	0.5

Total last week: Trace, 0.3, 0.2

Fall Is Fatal To Fisherman

LEXINGTON, Neb. (U)—Darrall E. Frazier, 29, of Hill City, Kan., was fatally injured in a fall while fishing with his father and grandfather at Johnson Lake south of Lexington.

Frazier had left the other two fishermen to hunt for bait about midnight and when he failed to return they started a search finding him lying at the foot of a 30-foot embankment near the Johnson No. 1 power house.

Gasper County Attorney Ted R. Frogge said the evidence indicated that he had fallen from the embankment striking his head on a concrete gutter at the base. His skull was fractured.

He was taken to Elwood where firemen vainly attempted to revive. An autopsy was performed, disclosing the fatal injury.

Waco Boy, 13, Hurt By Bullet

Lincoln Star Special

YORK, Neb. — The condition of Randall Tiesken, 13, Waco accidentally shot in the lung, was reported "good" late Tuesday. The youngster reportedly was accidentally struck by a .22 caliber bullet which another 13-year-old boy discharged.

The mishap occurred at the farm home of Randall's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Herman Tiesken, near Waco. The injured youth was taken to a York hospital.

York County Sheriff Lewis Ekart is investigating.

Jacobsen Again Heads Nebraska Beverage Assn.

OMAHA (U)—Harvey Jacobsen, Omaha, will head the Nebraska Licensed Beverage Assn. for another year.

He was re-elected president and Robert L. Goedert, Sutherland, was named recording secretary. Goedert succeeds William Harris, Grand Island.

The distributors were told that modern "dry" forces have largely abandoned the fight for legislative prohibition in favor of fighting liquor "by scaring people into total abstinence."

Clarence Dufek, New York, official of the Licensed Beverage Industries Assn., told the Nebraskaans that modern dries "now quote the doctor rather than the clergyman, although such quotes are almost always distorted or out of context."

District School Board Meeting Is Scheduled

Junior Events Slated In Conjunction With State Wheat Show At Alliance

ALLIANCE, Neb. — The seventh annual Nebraska Junior Grain Show and Judging Contest will be held here, Oct. 18, in conjunction with the State Wheat Show.

Any active FFA or 4-H club member carrying a crops project this year is eligible to exhibit in the Junior Grain Show. Classes include winter wheat, spring wheat, barley, rye and oats.

Entries in the show are to be one-peck samples. They must be certified by the county extension agent or vocational agriculture instructor, and received by Box Butte county Extension agent John Reynolds no later than Oct. 10.

The Junior Grain Judging Contest is open to any active FFA or 4-H club member. Both individuals and teams of three will compete.

Each county is limited to three 4-H teams or a total of 10 individuals. Each school is limited to three FFA teams or a total of 10 individuals.

October 6 is the deadline to submit entries for the annual Nebraska wheat queen contest to be held with the Wheat Show.

The Alliance Junior Chamber of Commerce, contest sponsor, has received 13 entries so far, all from the western central wheat growing areas, none from the eastern.

Stocks Rebound Vigorously

NEW YORK (INS)—The stock market rebounded vigorously Tuesday with some issues adding five dollars at their best.

The advance was the largest and most widespread in months and wiped out completely the sharp losses posted Monday.

The surge, which brought a late tape momentarily after the opening, followed a three-week slump which sent prices to their spring lows.

The Dow Jones industrial average soared 6.71. The rails, which dropped to a new 1956 low Monday, started 33.59, a gain of almost 2 1/2 per cent of the total share value of the 20 carriers covered. Utilities, which had declined in 15 of the last 18 sessions, added 7 1/2 cents.

Trading was moderately active with volume totaling 240,000 shares, a 200,000 share decline from the previous session.

Prices were strong at the opening and gains mounted thereafter, except for a brief mid-morning lull.

Alcoa, a major victim in the recent decline, recovered almost five points Tuesday and Blis & Laughlin was up about the same at its best after news of a stock dividend and higher cash payments.

Trading narrowed slightly to 1,145 issues. Of these a majority of 816 advanced, 152 closed lower and 177 were unchanged.

Three issues sold at new highs, 62, 62 and 105 1/2.

Nine of the most active issues showed improvement. The volume leader, Sperry, was unchanged, 45. Steel, which had been followed by Jersey Standard up 1 1/2, Fruehauf Trailer, also 1 1/2 higher, and the total share value in demand and in addition to Alcoa's, stout, aluminum, Ltd., ran up about three points.

International Paper sold 3 1/2 higher. Goodrich 2 1/4, International Nickel 2 1/4, and American Smelting gained two dollars or more.

Grain Futures End

Lower After Rally

CHICAGO (AP)—A majority of grain futures ended lower on the Board of Trade Tuesday after an early rally stumbled from lack of buying power.

Corn and oats were quite weak throughout the session. Wheat advanced early but all futures except July had given up

Nationalist Plane Downed Over China

... Reds Claim

TOKYO (INS)—Radio Peiping claimed Wednesday that one Nationalist Chinese Thunderbolt was shot down and three others were damaged by Communist interceptors and anti-aircraft guns Monday and Tuesday over the coast of Kwangtung Province in South China.

The Tokyo-monitored broadcast said four of the Nationalist F-4s were engaged by Red fighters Tuesday as they were "trying to intrude" over Red China's big southeastern port of Swatow. One of the Thunderbolts was downed and another damaged, Peiping reported.

The broadcast added that on the previous day two out of four Nationalist F-4s were hit by anti-aircraft fire over the same area.

Lincoln Catholic Women Honored For Traffic Safety

The Lincoln Deacons of the Diocesan Council of Catholic Women has won a certificate of merit in the 1956 Carol Lane Awards for Traffic Safety. This announcement was made by the National Safety Council, which administers the awards.

Mrs. John Scheffler is traffic safety chairman of the Lincoln Deacons which was honored for its outstanding work in traffic safety for 1956 parochial school children in Lincoln.

The Deacons program included the institution of a driver training course in Cathedral High School, the encouragement of participation by Catholic grade school pupils in the AAA national safety poster contest, and the distribution of "Newcomer's Leaflets," explaining some of Lincoln's unique traffic regulations to drivers visiting the city.

Center Drive-In Theater Co. Buys Theater in Texas

The Center Drive-In Theater Company, which operates theaters in Lincoln and Omaha, has purchased a Corpus Christi, Texas, drive-in theater with a 700-car capacity.

The purchasing company is owned by Russell Brehm of Lincoln, a county commissioner; U.S. Sen. Roman Hruska of Omaha, and H. S. Gould of Omaha. The new owners begin operating the Texas theater Oct. 15.

The Center Drive-In Theater Company presently operates the 64th and O theater in Lincoln and the 84th and Center theater in Omaha.

Gould, the company's general manager, will assume active management of the Texas theater until next spring, when he will return to Omaha. It will be operated on a year-round basis.

County Increases Deputy Attorney's Salary To $4,200

Dep. Co. Atty. Paul L. Douglas' salary was increased to $4,200 from $3,900 Tuesday by the County Board following a discussion on salary policy.

A request that Douglas' salary be raised to $4,500 a year was declined by the Board until after the deputy attorney completes a six-month probationary period next Jan. 1.

The salary increase for Douglas was approved because Dep. Co. Atty. J. Arthur Curtis was recently employed at a starting salary of $4,200.

The Board said a $4,500 salary would be considered for Douglas next January.

A.3d Simms Wins Base Talent Test

A.3c Leon M. Simms, 307th Bomb Wing Headquarters Squadron, won first place in the amateur talent contest sponsored by the service club at the Lincoln Air Force Base.

Simms was awarded $25 for an interpretative calypso style of singing while accompanying himself on the piano.

Second place in the contest went to The Singing Corporals, a quartet composed of A.1c James Harris, 98th Headquarters Squadron; S. Sgt. Haywood Watkins, 98th Field Maintenance Squadron; A.2C Leroy Jackson, 98th Headquarters Squadron, and A.3C Leslie Rousseau, 98th Headquarters Squadron.

A.2C Oscar Tischer, 818th Air Police Squadron, took third place with an accordion solo. Fourth place went to A.2c Jackie L. Jones, 818th Headquarters Squadron, a hillbilly vocalist.

Master of ceremonies for the show, attended by nearly 400 airmen, was A.2c Louis J. Zocchi, 818th Headquarters Squadron.

Nationalist Plane Downed Over China

...Reds Claim

TOKYO (INS)—Radio Peiping claimed Wednesday that one Nationalist Chinese Thunderjet was shot down and three others were damaged by Communist interceptors and anti-aircraft guns Monday and Tuesday over the coast of Kwangtung Province in South China.

The Tokyo-monitored broadcast said four of the Nationalist F-4s were engaged by Red fighters Tuesday as they were "trying to intrude" over Red China's big southeastern port of Swatow. One of the Thunderjets was downed and another damaged, Peiping reported.

The broadcast added that on the previous day two out of four Nationalist F-4s were hit by anti-aircraft fire over the same area.

Lincoln Catholic Women Honored For Traffic Safety

The Lincoln Diocese of the Diocesan Council of Catholic Women has won a certificate of merit in the 1956 Carol Lane Awards for Traffic Safety. This announcement was made by the National Safety Council, which administers the awards.

Mrs. John Scheffler is traffic safety chairman of the Lincoln Diocese which was honored for its outstanding work in traffic safety for 1,953 parochial school children in Lincoln.

The Diocese program included the institution of a driver training course in Cathedral High School, the encouragement of participation by Catholic grade school pupils in the AAA national safety poster contest, and the distribution of "Newcomer's Leaflets," explaining some of Lincoln's unique traffic regulations to drivers visiting the city.

Center Drive-In Theater Co. Buys Theater In Texas

The Center Drive-In Theater Company, which operates theaters in Lincoln and Omaha, has purchased a Corpus Christi, Texas, drive-in theater with a 700-car capacity.

The purchasing company is owned by Russell Brehm of Lincoln, a county commissioner; U.S. Sen. Roman Hruska of Omaha, and H. S. Gould of Omaha. The new owners begin operating the Texas theater Oct. 15.

The Center Drive-In Theater Company presently operates the 84th and O theater in Lincoln and the 84th and Center theater in Omaha.

Gould, the company's general manager, will assume active management of the Texas theater until next spring, when he will return to Omaha. It will be operated on a year-round basis.

County Increases Deputy Attorney's Salary To $4,200

Dep. Co. Atty. Paul L. Douglas' salary was increased to $4,200 from $3,900 Tuesday by the County Board following a discussion on salary policy.

A request that Douglas' salary be raised to $4,500 a year was declined by the Board until after the deputy attorney completes a six-month probationary period next Jan. 1.

The salary increase for Douglas was approved because Dep. Co. Atty. J. Arthur Curtis was recently employed at a starting salary of $4,200.

The Board said a $4,300 salary would be considered for Douglas next January.

A.3d Simms Wins Base Talent Test

A.3c Leon M. Simms, 307th Bomb Wing Headquarters Squadron, won first place in the amateur talent contest sponsored by the service club at the Lincoln Air Force Base.

Simms was awarded $25 for an interpretative calypso style of singing while accompanying himself on the piano.

Second place in the contest went to Les Singing Corporals, a quartet composed of A.3c James Harris, 98th Headquarters Squadron; S. Sgt. Haywood Watkins, 98th Field Maintenance Squadron; A.2C Leroy Jackson, 98th Headquarters Squadron; and A.3C Leslie Rousseau, 98th Headquarters Squadron.

A.2C Oscar Tischer, 818th Air Police Squadron, took third place with an accordion solo. Fourth place went to A.2c Jackie L. Jones, 818th Headquarters Squadron, a hillbilly vocalist.

Master of ceremonies for the show, attended by nearly 400 airmen, was A.2c Louis J. Zocchi, 818th Headquarters Squadron.

430 Register At 50th & A Fire Station

A total of 430 persons registered for the Nov. 6 general election at the 50th and A fire station Tuesday, the final day of neighborhood registration.

It was the biggest turnout since neighborhood registration started in Lincoln two years ago, according to Election Commissioner Harold Gillett.

Registration clerks recorded 239 new registrations and 191 changes of address.

At the office of the election commissioner Tuesday there were 107 new registrations and 65 changes of address, bringing the total registration to 52,180.

Lincolntites can still register until 5 p.m. Oct. 26 at the office of the election commissioner at the Trust Building, 40th and O. Hours are 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Monday through Friday and Saturdays from 8 a.m. to noon.

Notice of Hearing on Report of City Planning Commission

Notice is hereby given that the City Council of the City of Lincoln, Nebraska, will hold a hearing on Monday, October 9, 1956, at 10 o'clock a.m. in the Council Chamber of the City Hall, to consider the following changes in the Lincoln City Map, and additional use permits:

- Application of C. J. L. Miller for a change of zone and an additional use permit to extend his trailer court on Gordon Avenue between West "Q" and West "R" Streets.
- Application of L. H. Ditt for a change of zone from "A-2" Single-Family Dwelling District to "B-2" Two-Family Dwelling District on East 1st Street between West 1st and West 2nd Streets.
- Application of Dr. L. L. Lampert for an additional use permit to operate a medical clinic on the northeast corner of 27th and "N" Streets, known as Lot 1, Block 1, East Lincoln Addition.
- Application of Don T. Svoboda for an additional use permit to operate an off-street parking lot on the northwest corner of Winthrop Road and South Street, known as the East 10th Street Block 6, Rathbone Village.
- Application of Strauss Brothers, Inc. for a change of zone from "A-2" Single-Family Dwelling District to "B-2" Two-Family Dwelling District on Block 3, East Lincoln Addition and Block 102 and the South Hill of Block 103, Bethany Heights Addition, being located on the east side of 70th Street and extending one-half block south of Vine Street.

THEO. H. BERG, City Clerk.

Notice to Contractors

Sealed proposals will be received by the City Council of the City of Lincoln, Nebraska, at the office of the City Clerk, up to 10 o'clock a.m. Central Standard Time, Wednesday, October 10, 1956, for the construction of sidewalks in Grayling District, No. 187, being in Truss Street from 10th Street to 14th Street, 12th Street from Elba Avenue to Vale Street, and 11th Street from North Park Boulevard to Vale Street, in said City, according to plans and specifications of the City Engineer on file in the office of the City Clerk.

Plans and specifications may be seen and blank proposals obtained in the office of the City Engineer.

The City Engineer's estimate of the cost of this work is $1,300.00.

Each proposal must be accompanied by a certified check for $50.00, made payable to Frank J. Miller, City Treasurer, as a guarantee of good faith.

The City reserves the right to reject any or all proposals and to waive any defect in proposals.

Hearing Set On Bid For Trailer Court On West O

A public hearing before the Lancaster County Board will be held next Tuesday on an application for a new trailer court at 1815 West O.

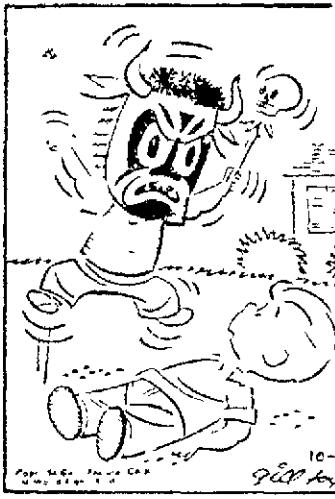

The application was made by Mrs. H. W. Gartner, who operates a trailer court at 2401 West O.

Commissioner Del Lienemann noted the new trailer court would be located in School District 11 (Garfield), which has a letter of protest before the county board against the granting of any new trailer court permits in the district.

The district is presently confronted by an overcrowded condition in its school.

Lienemann told the board that the City Planning Commission had twice recommended disapproval of a zone use permit for the 1815 West O location, but that the City Council later approved the zone permit. The city controls zoning within the three-mile limit, but trailer court permits must be obtained from the county for locations outside the city limits.

'Roadside Litter Testifies To A Slovenly Public'—Ress

LEXINGTON, Neb. (U.P.)—The high way right of way which is cluttered by litter thrown along road-sides is "an inelegant testimonial to a slovenly traveling public," State Engineer L. N. Ress said Tuesday.

"I wonder if a million years from now, when archeologists uncover the thick carpet of mashed cans and broken bottles extending from city to city, if our civilization might be labeled not the Atomic Age but the Junk Age," he declared.

The remarks were prepared for a meeting of the Nebraska Federation of Garden Clubs.

The Nebraska Highway Department's maintenance division spent about $75,000 in 1955 to remove trash and litter from state high-ways, Ress reported.

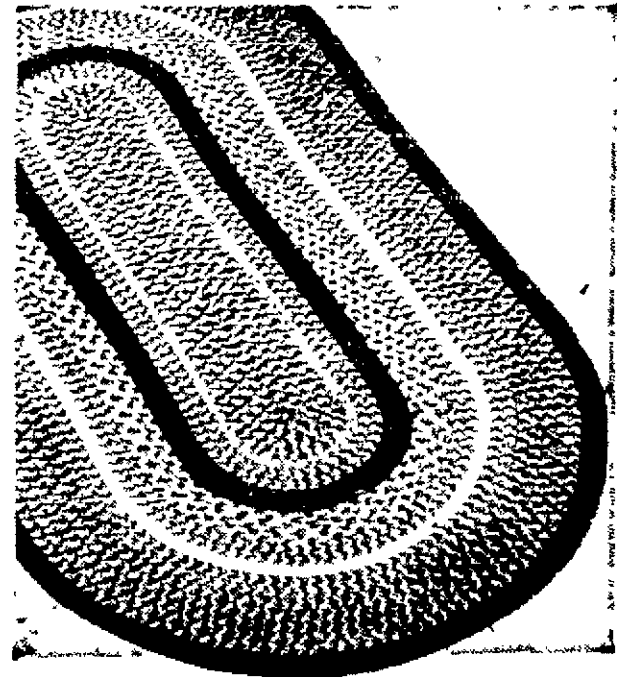

Other project expenses could raise the total to well over $100,000 a year, he added.

Cole Is Appointed To Drought Group

WASHINGTON (AP) — Ralph Cole of Holdrege has been selected as the farmer-member of the five-man Nebraska State Drought Committee selected by the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

Notice of Hearing on Report of City Planning Commission

Notice is hereby given that the City Council of the City of Lincoln, Nebraska, will hold a hearing on Monday, October 9, 1956, at 1:30 o'clock p.m., in the Council Chamber of the City Hall, to consider the following changes in the Lincoln District Map, and additional use permits:

1. Application of C. T. Luribill for a change of zone and an additional use permit to extend his trailer court on Corydon Avenue between West "Q" and West "Q" Streets.

2. Application of L. H. Dast for a change of zone from "A-2" Single Family Dwelling District to "D-2" Two-Family Dwelling District on Lots 1, 2, 3 and 4, Block 20, Bond & Colby Tract, being located in the block bounded by Aylesworth Avenue and Holdrege Street and 59th and 60th Streets.

3. Application of Dr. Karl L. Lampshire for an additional use permit to operate a medical clinic on the northeast corner of 27th and "N" Streets, known as Lot 6, Block 1, East Lincoln Addition.

4. Application of Don T. Svoboda for an additional use permit to operate an off-street parking lot on the northwest corner of Winthrop Road and Sewell Street, known as the East 48 feet of Lot 15, Block 6, Rathbone Village.

5. Application of Strauss Brothers, Inc. for a change of zone from "A-2" Single Family Dwelling District to "G" Local Business District on Block 5, Eastborough Addition and Block 102 and the South Half of Block 10, Bethany Heights Addition, being located on the east side of 70th Street and extending one-half block south of Vine Street.

THEO. H. BERG, City Clerk.

Notice to Contractors

Sealed proposals will be received by the City Council of the City of Lincoln, Nebraska, at the office of the City Clerk, Theo. H. Berg, until 2 o'clock p.m., Central Standard Time, Thursday, October 10, 1956, for the construction of surfacing in Irving Street from 12th Street to 14th Street, 12th Street from Elba Avenue to Vale Street, and 11th Street from North Park Boulevard to Vale Street, in said City, according to plans and specifications of the City Engineer on file in the office of the City Clerk.

Plans and specifications may be seen and blank proposals obtained in the office of the City Engineer.

The City Engineer's estimate of the cost of this surfacing is $1,300.00.

Each proposal must be accompanied by a certified check for $65.00, made payable to Frank J. Miller, City Treasurer, as a guarantee of good faith.

The City reserves the right to reject any or all proposals and to waive any defect in proposals.

THEO. H. BERG, City Clerk.

Hearing Set On Bid For Trailer Court On West O

A public hearing before the Lancaster County Board will be held next Tuesday on an application for a new trailer court at 1845 West O.

The application was made by Mrs. H. W. Gartner, who operates a trailer court at 2401 West O.

Commissioner Del Lienemann noted the new trailer court would be located in School District 112 (Garfield), which has a letter of protest before the county board against the granting of any new trailer court permits in the district.

The district is presently confronted by an overcrowded condition in its school.

Lienemann told the board that the City Planning Commission had twice recommended disapproval of a zone use permit for the 1845 West O location, but that the City Council later approved the zone permit.

The city controls zoning within the three-mile limit, but trailer court permits must be obtained from the county for locations outside the city limits.

OMAHA (AP) — John A. Bunjer has been named chief engineer of the Union Pacific Railroad, succeeding William C. Perkins, who has retired after 40 years service. Bunjer has been district engineer in charge of the railroad's eastern district.

'Roadside Litter Testifies To A Slovenly Public'—Ress

LEXINGTON, Neb. (AP)—The highway right-of-way which is cluttered by litter thrown along roadsides is "an inelegant testimonial to a slovenly traveling public," State Engineer L. N. Ress said Tuesday.

"I wonder if a million years from now, when archeologists uncover the thick carpet of mashed cans and broken bottles extending from city to city, if our civilization might be labeled not the 'Atomic Age,' but the 'Junk Age,'" he declared.

The remarks were prepared for a meeting of the Nebraska Federation of Garden Clubs.

The Nebraska Highway Department's maintenance division spent about $85,000 in 1955 to remove trash and litter from state highways, Ress reported.

Other indirect expenses could raise the total to well over $100,000 a year, he added.
